Seven More Groups Pledge DP Support

Seven more University organizations announced definite plans to help DP students at a meeting of house representatives Thursday. Beta Sigma Psi, Cotner House, Farm House, Hillel Foundation, Kappa Delta, Norris House, and Sigma Delta Tau will provide room, board or both for a student next fall.

The new pledges bring the total number of groups planning to aid DP students to thirteen. Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega, Beta Theta Pi, Gamma Phi Beta, and Kappa Sigma have previously agreed to contribute housing and board for one student each. The Presbyterian Student House plans to pay transportation for the students from New York to Lincoln.

BETA SIGMA Psi will offer room and board; Cotner House will provide a room; Farm House room board and a job; Hillel will take care of three students; Kappa Delta will contribute board and money for books; Norris House will give room and board, with the provision that no discrimination of any kind will be made in choosing the student; Sigma Delta Tau will offer a room and part of the board.

Vlado Lavko, Czech DP student here now on a scholarship, also attend the meeting Thursday. He pledged his support to the measure and offered to speak at houses.

Chairman of the committee planning arrangements Ros Howard stressed the fact that it is not necessary for the houses to provide both room and board. They may furnish either, and arrangements will be made to combine the other contributions to take care of a student.

SEVERAL HOUSES announced they are withholding action until the Inter-fraternity Council acts on the question. The Council is considering a plan for joint action which would enable houses to combine contributions to provide for the students.

Howard announced that movie telling about the displaced students plan "Answer for Anne" will be shown Thursday, March 31, at Love library auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

to vote for an increase in polling places but the old guard was still in there pitching.

So here it is. The same old attitudes, the same old officers, the same old under-handed methods of securing representation. Only the name and the place of meeting has been changed.

There is still time for thinking faction members who really desire a party which serves campus, not personal, ends to come around. Other proposals will be considered for broadening the scope of the Council. But the changes must be drastic and rapid.

At this point the Council is right back where it started.

Elections will be conducted this spring as they have always been conducted. Hold-over members will be selected as they have always been selected—by virtue of toting the mark.

Congratulations to the Council and its faction majority for winding up right where it started a month ago.

United Brethren Students Enjoy Social and Religious Activities

Chill suppers, forum discussions, speakers and parties are a few of the activities which are centered around the Southminster chapel and Activities center for University United Brethren students.

Under the supervision of Rev. L. E. Wetherel, Nebraska University and Wesleyan students participate in a combined program of social and religious activities.

Sunday is the main day for carrying out the U. B. program of activities. Regular Sunday morning services are held at Southminster chapel, 2829 So. 13th St. Once every month the service is prepared especially for University students.

Sunday evenings often find "chill" suppers being held, followed by speakers and discussions. One recent program included the city editor of The Journal and a Chinese student, who discussed the place of China in the world today.

Open forums are a favorite Sunday evening program. A wide variety of topics of current interest are discussed in the forms, including the relations of religion to life at the University, and the question of glamorizing religion.

Parties are in order the last Friday of each month. The parties are planned by a special committee of U. B. students. Special programs and picnics are also held throughout the year.

Architecture Majors to Plan Local Housing

Architecture students will help the Lincoln Housing Authority develop preliminary plans for a low-cost mutual housing project.

L. B. Smith, head of the architecture department, said that junior class students in architecture have entered a prize competition being sponsored by the Housing Authority.

Two prizes of $100 each will be awarded students submitting the best plan for a site development, and for an individual dwelling unit which can be built at a maximum cost of $7,200.

The prize money was made available by R. E. Campbell, Lincoln business man and chairman of the Housing Authority.

The competition will be completed by May 1 and judged by a jury composed of Lincoln civic, business and professional leaders. The awards will be present at a civic ceremony to be held early in May. The students will prepare their sketches under the direction of J. C. Porter, member of the architecture department faculty.

Ag. Wesleyan Y's Hold Joint Meet

The Ag YM and YW will attend Wesleyan campus Thursday night, March 24, for a program about the Estes summer conference. The program will be held in Huntington Hall at 7 p. m.

Slides of Estes are to be shown and the conference which is being held from June 9-13 will be discussed. Transportation is to be provided from Ag Hall on Ag campus at 6:30 p. m. The invitation was extended Ag last week by two Wesleyan delegates.

MILLER & PAINE

Two things every college man should know!

1. This is a nightshirt. A flannel channel. Made Grandmother see red.

But tickled Grandfather's fancy. He took it with a nightcap (or two). Only kind of sleepwear "Manhattan" doesn't make.

2. This is a hint . . . for really restful snoozing, slip into a pair of roomy "Manhattan" pajamas. Durable cotton, rayon, and cotton and rayon prints. Luxurious Jacquards and Paisleys. Many equipped with stretchy "Manlastic" drawstring. Also smart sleepcoats and sleepshorts.
