

Foundation Re-Christened U of Nebraska Builders

At last the Student Foundation has a new name.

The Foundation board voted last night to re-christen the organization University of Nebraska Builders.

The selection of a name for the organization was the result of a campus-wide contest begun in February. Since two persons submitted the title the $10 award will be divided between Elizabeth Schneider and Dean T. J. Thompson.

THE TEN DOLLAR award was supplied by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson.

From a list of 85 entries a committee composed of Elsworth Du Teau, Miss Mary Mielenz, Nancy Porter, Gene Berg, Genene Mitchell and Ginny Koch twelve names were selected. The board made the final selection.

Entries were solicited from the entire campus through boxes located in the Union. Suggestions came from both student and faculty members. The contest was planned by Kathy Dodson, Pat Pierce and Mary Hubka.

The board also voted to hold a re-registration of all members. Those interested in working for Builders will be asked to sign-up in the office, Union 308, between March 28 and 30.

THE OFFICE will be open in the afternoon. Prospective workers will be able to sign-up for the group in which they are most interested. Each worker will then undergo a trial period. Those who prove to be valuable will become official members of Builders.

The new membership has been instituted in order to supply a proper amount of interested workers, according to Phyl Campbell, membership chairman.

Persons now working for the organization will also be asked to register.

Under the new membership system only those who survive the trial period will become Builder members. Builders will issue membership cards in order to keep a record of all personnel.

Swiss Movie, 'Eternal Mask' Here April 1, 2

"The Eternal Mask," a Swiss-made film in German dialogue, will be presented in Love Library auditorium April 1 and 2 at 8 p. m. It is another in a series of leading European pictures sponsored by the University YMCA.

The film, a psychological study of insanity, concerns the story of a young doctor whose confidence in an anti-meningitis serum he has produced leads him to administer it to a hopelessly incurable patient. When death ensues, the patient's widow hysterically charges the doctor with responsibility.

The resultant mental agony causes a mental breakdown in the young doctor. The triumph of modern psychology in restoring him to sanity provides an ending that is by no means artificial or melodramatic.

Newsweek magazine reviewed the picture as "... an absorbing and sane study of insanity, brilliantly acted."

'Corn-ation' Dance to Open 15th Annual Celebration

Block and Bridle's lavish week-end program of ceremonial pomp and livestock artistry will get its big send-off tonight as the much talked of "Corn-ation" dance gets under way at the Ag union auditorium.

The dance, scheduled for 9 p. m., marks the first of festivities planned by the Ag animal husbandry honorary in celebrating the 15th annual Junior Ak-Sar-Ben. Saturday night the Junior Ak livestock show will be presented in the Fairgrounds 4-H arena.

BOB HAMILTON, president of Block and Bridle and general chairman of the Ak-Sar-Ben production, said of the dance, "The introduction of the entire court of Junior Ak-Sar-Ben during the dance intermission promises to be the most 'unusual of all unusual' presentations ever to reveal new campus royalty."

Bob Hamilton.

As to the Saturday night show, Hamilton said it will carry more special features than any other Junior Ak-Sar-Ben of past years, and will include an outstanding roping act, a square dance troupe from Bennett, and others. (For a complete account of the show Saturday night, see page three).

THE "CORN-ATION" dance will be styled after the traditional fall production of Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. Intermission activities, emceed by Bob Scheve, Ag senior, will be highlighted by the entrance of the complete court of Junior Ak-Sar-Ben. This unusual aggregate of Ag college royalty has been chosen by one of the most unique and interesting methods ever employed in such a selection.

Other pageantry, rivaling even the big show itself, is on the bill to complete the recess entertainment. Bobby Mills and his orchestra will be on hand with music for the evening's informal dance.

Arrangements for the dance have been made by Jack DeWulf, dance chairman, and Wally Long, Block and Bridle special features chairman.

High Living Costs Force Budget Raise

Part of the University's proposed budget increase will be used for higher salaries.

Four basic factors are considered in determining the pay of an instructor. One, the cost of living, means the instructor must be paid enough wages to provide him and his family a decent living.

From 1935 to 1939 Nebraska associate professors and instructors received salaries necessary to maintain a reasonable standard of living. Since then their salaries have not kept pace with the increased cost of living.

A SECOND factor to be considered in determining an instructor's pay is competition. This means that the University will do everything it can to keep an efficient teacher on its staff. The University has suffered large losses in its faculty, however, to other higher paid positions.

Third, the University must not only offer pay raises but must also offer promotion to positions of greater responsibility. Fourth, the University should be in a good position to meet these demands in times of high production and high income.

Greek Student Supported By Home Ec Club Funds

The annual Silver Tea, sponsored by the Home Ec club, will be held Sunday afternoon from 3-5 at Love Memorial hall on the Ag campus. The public is invited to attend.

An annual affair, the tea has as its purpose the raising of funds to finance a foreign student scholarship. An award such as this has enabled Miss Maria Constantinides to attend the University for the past year.

MISS CONSTANTINIDES, as well as the students with whom she has come in contact, has benefitted by the scholarship. Home economics students have gained a broader understanding into the problems of another country through talking with her.

Athens, Greece, is home to Miss Constantinides. She was educated in the High School of Home Economics in Athens, and spent two years at the College of Home Economics in Athens.

During the war, Miss Constantinides was a dietitian in a hospital for wounded Greek soldiers. She experienced dealing with German authorities after their occupation of Greece, for one of her duties was to obtain food for Greek patients from the Germans who had taken over one-half the hospital.

WHILE ATTENDING high school and college, she became aware of the need for education and a raise in living standards in the rural areas of Greece. Her instructors urged her to seek a means by which she could study in the United States. Two years later, her application to the Institute of International Education was accepted, and she was awarded a scholarship.

Wishing to see as much of the United States as possible, Miss

MISS CONSTANTINIDES.

Constantinides accepted a position in a New York City hospital last summer. Her work was that of her chosen field—dietetics.

Asked her impressions of Nebraska, Miss Constantinides says that she especially likes the friendly attitude of the people, and their willingness to help one another, as well as make a foreign student feel so much at home.

MISS CONSTANTINIDES is very grateful for the opportunity to learn, and to carry her knowledge back to Greece. She hopes to interpret her learning to her people, through teaching, in an effort to better the living standards of her community.

With the funds received at the silver tea, the Home Ec club hopes to finance Miss Constantinides' final year at the University. Through this aid, it will be possible for her to receive her Bachelor of Science degree next spring.
