Case of the Hot Potato

The Daily Nebraskan's constitutional assembly may be the last chance for interested students to revise the Student Council's constitution for quite a while.

The Daily Nebraskan is trying to prove that students, especially the independents, are interested in a better, at least a different, constitution.

Many students have claimed that the Council's constitution is inadequate, and that the Council itself is unrepresentative of the studenty body. This last is obvious. Lavon Fritson when he was re-The Daily Nebraskan feels that there are enough students with enough interest in the situation to attempt to rectify it. The Daily Nebraskan has given them a chance with the proposed constitutional assembly; now is the time for these students to act.

If they do act, The Daily Nebraskan will have proved House for acting as a second point, and we may assume that student interest will mother for the past fifteen years. its point, and we may assume that student interest will make certain changes in the constitution.

But if they don't, The Daily Nebraskan can do little else put drop the hot potato and conclude that campus political interest is confined to the organized houses.

Which is it to be?

MILLER & PAINE

By Ardith Wilcox.

Well, it looks like the picnic and party season is here in full bloom again and ready to stay. This past week was full of busy picnics and parties.

The Phi Delt picnic Saturday nite was a big success with thirty to forty couples crowding the National Guard grounds in Ashland. The picnic started about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Some of the enthusiastic picnickers braving the cold weather were Bill Markham, Jo Moss, Jack McMann and Mary Doyle, Dick Lau escorted steady Barb Durland as did Bus Stebbins bring Sandy Mandell, Nancy Miller and Paul Bloomer, recently unpined ,(not from each other) attended the gayiety also.

The Pike was a popular place Saturday nite. Rob Romm and Romm and Saturday nite, Rob Romm and Aileene Derig were there dancing is was Bob Krycik and Georgia

Friday nite brought bad luck to King's. He was involved in a three car accident in the Sigma Nu driveway. What was the distraction Fritz???

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my disapproval of the Faculty Senate's recent changes in the basis for honors achievement.

I think I am correct in saying that, in the past, the upper ten per cent of each class in each college was listed on the honor roll, This policy was in no way unfair to any student. Each student was competing with other students of the same grade level who were taking very similar courses.

Probably one reason for the change was to make the honor list more exclusive. However, even if this reason is valid, though I think it is not, the same could be accomplished by simply lowering the percentage of eligible students under the old policy.

The only other reason I can think of for the change is the ease in computing the eligible students under the new plan. Again, I do not think this reason justifies the change.

Under the new plan upperclassmen must have a weighted average of seven to be eligible. I'll bet a quarter I can count the engineers who achieve this average on my fingers and toes.

> Sincerely, Norman W. Lundberg.

Greeks Plan Party-Party Schedule for Everyone

By Dorothy Nordgren.

Party, party-open houses . . formals . . . What more and more for campus Greeks and in their houses. This type of forfor others too.

The social season for sororities begins with the football season. After each game most of the sororities on campus have open house and serve coffee and doughnuts to anyone who comes. Invitations are extended to all.

Once a year a tea is given by each sorority in honor of its housemother. The president and housemother of every organized house attend these teas.

THE BIGGEST EVENT of the year for the Greeks is their annual formal. Each house has one. It is usually held in one of the bigger hotels down town. This and was open to everyone, party is closed, except to members and to people who have received bids from members. Some can one ask? There are all these sororities also have small formals mal is strictly for members and alums

Fraternities go all out for parties during the year. They usually have one or two house parties that are open for everyone. There are other house parties that are for members only

THE CLIMAX of the season is reached when all the fraternities go together and give the Interfraternity Ball. There the Interfraternity Sweetheart is presented.

The Ball was held in the Union ballroom this year and due to lack of space, it had to be restricted to fraternity men. In previous years it was held at the coliseum

President Truman wants immediate attention given to the North Atlantic Pact in Congress, but Washington spokesmen said that speed is not likely. Approval will be granted but Democratic Leader Lucas could only promise that ratification will be given in this session of Congress.

It is necessary for the pact to be ratified by all the member nations before it can be effective.
