A Report on Books . . .

Although this year's Student Council is no longer in existence, the work of that Council must not be forgotten. One must not forget that a Council committee investigated the possibilities of getting book prices lowered and submitted a report which was accepted by the administration. The contents of that report is as follows:

- We, representative students of the University of Nebraska, do hereby submit the principles of operation which we believe should be followed in the operation of the University of Nebraska Regent's Bookstore, in order that books and supplies may be made available at a fair and reasonable price.
1. The University of Nebraska Regent's Bookstore shall be so operated as to be a non-profit enterprise.
 2. Effective January 1, 1949, the name of the University of Nebraska Regent's Bookstore shall be changed to "The University of Nebraska Regent's Non-Profit Bookstore."
 3. PROFIT shall be defined as the net balance between the gross sales of books and supplies, and the cost of operation of the Bookstore; the cost of operation interpreted to include not only the initial cost of books and supplies to the Bookstore, but also such items as managerial salary, wages to employees, and a reasonable amount for utilities and rent.
 4. The responsibility of the Bookstore shall be to make every effort to provide the best market for all books that have been used at the University of Nebraska during the previous semester.
 5. In the event that the Bookstore, at the end of a fiscal year, shall return a profit to University funds, the administration shall take such steps as will, in their best judgment, reduce the profit of the Bookstore to the point where it will be a non-profit business enterprise.
 6. In the event that the Bookstore, at the end of a fiscal year, shall report a loss in operation, the Administration shall take such steps as will, in their best judgment, increase the profit of the Bookstore to the point where it will incur no loss on the following year's operation.
 7. On or before May 15 of each calendar school year, the administration shall publish in The Daily Nebraskan a full and complete notarized report of the financial status of the Bookstore from the previous year.
 8. Included with the report of the administration on the financial status of the Bookstore shall be a full copy of this set of principles of operation of the Bookstore.

That is the report. According to the provisions of the report, a statement of the financial statement is due for publication in The Daily Nebraskan. We presume that this report will be forthcoming shortly. Students should keep in mind that the Regent's Non-Profit Bookstore is the students' store. If the administration submits the yearly statements, students will be reminded by reading the financial report in The Daily Nebraskan that the efforts of a past Council committee have not been in vain and that they can buy books at a place which operates on a non-profit basis.

Letterip

Dear Editor:

This evening as I was sitting on our front porch with a good book in my lap and friends gathered around me, I suddenly realized what a wonderful thing this give and take of friendship is. Here I live in a house whose members represent many races, religions, and creeds; yet I do not feel the pressure of any supposedly irreconcilable culture or creed. When I came to this house, there was no question as to whether I should be a member or not; I came as a man whose friendship was a challenge to my fellows; I would never be relegated to the status of a dunce or goon who would soon be assigned to do the chores; and my status was not that of a circus side-show whose novelty was to be exploited. I found myself sleeping, playing, working, studying, and being involved in the stimulating exchange of thoughts and ideas. As personalities clashed and then became adjusted, I found myself understanding and appreciating my new-found friends as they came to understand and appreciate me; and we both benefited through the experience. I soon discovered that it was really wonderful to be a member of the human race.

My sense of self-satisfaction soon came to an end when the house president returned and related to me the proceedings of the Thursday afternoon session of the committee for D.P. students. It seems that the fraternities concerned are in effect going to relegate the D.P. students to the position of a roomer who will be excluded from some of the principal activities of the house while all but two of the sororities concerned are going to pass them around like Farmer Jones' prize chickens. I have never heard of Farmer Jones laying an egg, but these two groups between them have accomplished that feat and a very rotten egg they have laid.

The organized houses concerned have committed themselves to the responsibility of supporting a group of students who have suffered privation and misery, the horrors of the concentration camps, the terror of bombing from an enemy who can be heard but not seen, and for the past four years they have been cast into the lot of a people who have no home—of a people who are not wanted.

Are they now to see America—where they will presumably make their home—as a guest who is to be suffered until they are passed on to the next "benefactor" and of an occupant who will not be a member and therefore can never belong; or are they, as new Americans, to be accepted as such and to be provided a home and not a place to stay? In other words, are we to take these human beings, who are the products of all that is brute in man, into our arms and show them the wholesomeness of democratic living; or are we to hold them at a distance seemingly for fear that this spirit of America will not be strong enough to contain them?

We can merely provide them an existence which is all most of them remember, or we can provide them a home with its implied spirit of love and fraternity which goes a long way in separating man from brute. I admit that finance can be an exceedingly burdensome problem, but when we undertake a problem such as this I suggest that we are accepting responsibilities which are far beyond the mere matter of dollars and cents.

Respectfully yours,
 DAVID PICKERILL

Senator Wherry asserted Wednesday that the economy bloc in congress is just beginning to fight. He made this statement shortly after the Senate killed an effort by the clock to cut 5 per cent out of the $2,400,000,000 labor-social security appropriation bill.

MORE TORNADES swept the midwest Tuesday night, coming as close as Hastings. No lives were lost there but in Texas, a tornado took the life of a woman and injured eight. An Oklahoma tornado injured 15, many of them students.

NOW THAT Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., has been swept so decisively into Congress by the Twentieth Congressional district of New York, there is talk that Albany and the governor's chair may be next in line for him. FDR, Jr., got more votes than all three of his opponents in Tuesday's special election.

NEBRASKA GRAIN and feed men condemned the Brannan farm plan, saying that it is "unrealistic" and that it is just more "regimentation of the farmer." The plan calls for government-supported incomes for farmers and cheaper food for consumers.

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Acheson ruled out, at least for a time, the possibility of the United States entering a Pacific defense pact. "While it is true," said Acheson, "that there are serious dangers to world peace existing in the situation in Asia, it is also true, as Prime Minister Nehru of India stated to the press the other day, that a Pacific defense pact could not take shape until present internal conflicts in Asia are resolved."

AMERICAN officials charged Wednesday that Russia is seeking to reimpose a "subtle blockade" of Berlin. Russian guards began suddenly to demand written permits from the soviet-appointed east German economic commission for entry of all cargoes.
