Before Spring Comes . . .

It comes up every year—the subject of independent students in activities. But it's usually in May when it is too late in the year to do anything about it. Everyone always feels hurt, nasty accusations are made and then nothing happens.

This year something is being done. The Student Council will have representatives from all major campus activities, both independent and affiliated. Now it is the responsibility of the independent organizations which are represented to make sure that their members back the new council, and take an active interest in the future of student government on our campus.

Seven of the 19 organizations to be represented in the new Council are exclusively or primarily made up of independent students. What about the other 12 organizations? Two are exclusively affiliated, the Inter-fraternity Council and the Panhellenic council, the other groups include barb representatives.

To get back to our beginning—"now is the time" . . . Most organizations are now issuing calls for new members and workers.

The Union, YWCA, Red Cross, Daily Nebraskan, Cornshucks, and Cornhusker have all asked for new workers. Other activities will in the near future need new members. This is the time of year that things get organized.

And this is the time for independents to get organized in activities. Most organizations are not "silver platter" affairs—you have to work for what you get. But if unaffiliated students start now, there will be no need or excuse for harsh words and hard feelings come spring.

Air ROTC Gets Staff Additions

"There'll be some changes made" could well be the theme of the Air ROTC at NU this fall. The Air ROTC, as of July 1, is a separate branch of the ROTC. New courses include training in communications and transportation.

Lt. Woodrow J. Wilson has been added to the staff as public relations officer. Lt. Wilson comes to Nebraska from South Dakota State college.

New blue uniforms will be issued to first year advanced cadets this fall, stated Lt. Wilson.

The second meeting of the intramural sport managers will be held Wednesday at 5 p. m. at the Physical Education Building.

The purpose of the meeting is to further completion of the I. M. schedule and to decide on the type of touch football to be played this year.

Campus Chatter

By Poochie Rediger

Mid-week blues have hit campus now that classes are meeting on schedule and assignments are piling up too high for that weekend ahead. Of course mid-week social life is restricted to coffee and coke dates here and there.

Catching a coke between classes keeps Tom Tucker busy, with a girl on each arm and a smile on his face. What with all of the female population inhabiting the Cornhusker office, Tom's second home, he has quite a selection to choose from.

Also caught coffee-ing the other morning were Ben Creed and Pi Phi pledge Jane Jewett. As usual Ben was keeping calm and collected about the whole affair.

Tom Donahoe just doesn't have enough time between classes on his busy schedule to have a coke with his steady, Donna Ruddock. He keeps his social life down to fifteen minute phone calls during study breaks on week nights. Then there's Sig Chi fraternity brother Wes Kontz.

Bus Whitehead scored again . . . somehow he has managed two dates with beauty queen Pat Berge this week. If he keeps up with competition, Whitehead may come in high man.

Other sociable Unionizers are M. A. Dosek and Bill Mickle, Lynn Hutton and pinmate Cay Worcester, Chick Thompson and M. J. Rooney and—sitting back there in the corner booth looking lonesome and drinking two cokes at once is John Connelly.

Shirley Allen—? she's lonesome too. She occupies the back booth at Woodsies—facing the wall. Jack Selzer reserved the booth for her this year, just to keep away his friends.

Other interesting couples strolling thru campus this week have been Rich Olson and Clo Ann Kaul, Jan Champine and Duane Huenecke and Norma Gamert and Jack Hayden.

Most of the recently pinned couples took care of their candy and cigar passings Monday night, but the list goes on—

NU Graduate, Entire Family Attend K-State

A Nebraska graduate and her entire family have enrolled at Kansas State College this fall.

This is the first time in K State history that all the members of one family were attending classes at the same time.

The former Nebraska student is Mrs. Vivian Briggs. Enrolled at K-State with her are her three sons, Arch, Morris and John.

Mrs. Briggs majored in home economics and English at Nebraska. For several years before she joined the K-State extension staff in 1946, she was with the extension division of the University of Nebraska.

A family life specialist in the K-State extension service, Mrs. Briggs will be doing advanced work in child welfare and psychology this year. Arch is a senior in history, Morris, a junior in journalism, and John, a freshman in animal husbandry.

The Briggs family now lives at Manhattan, Kas. The youngest member of the family, John, was employed in Nebraska during the summer.

Radio Replaces Crowded Classes For Indianans

The majority of students attending the University hit the ceiling when "roomie" turns on the radio while they are trying to study.

However, the radio is going to take the place of a crowded classroom for many adults in the southern part of Indiana.

A regular Indiana university course will be given over the airwaves for stay-at-home students. The course, "American Federal Government," carries three semester hours of university credit.

Included in the broadcasts will be recordings of classroom lectures, comments, and discussions. The present plan calls for a one-hour program, to be broadcast one day per week through the semester.
