With Tongue In Cheek

By Cub Clem

We have noted during the fall semester a split within many campus fraternal groups. It is a split common to all—a great battle between the "wets" and the "drys."

An explanation of the programs and aims of the two sides would be both unnecessary and dangerous here. We take special note of the situation because, with the Great Nebraska Political Lethargy at its height, these intra-fraternal battles are about the only thing that preserve the ability of Nebraska students to argue passionately for a great cause.

It is obvious that there is little else that students get excited about. And so we submit that these clashes, which, unless we are sadly mistaken, are occurring within most fraternities, are contributing something to the fraternities and to the campus.

The "wets" have adopted some clever schemes in their propaganda campaigns. In one house, for instance, one of the fellows put up a picture of the St. Valentine's slaughter in Chicago during Prohibition to show the "drys" what possibly could result of their restrictive agitation.

The "wets" in another house, we hear, have systematically lured the "dry" leaders into sin by catching them at moments when they are very dry and very weak-willed. Many converts are made in this manner.

The "dry" counter-tricks have, according to reports, consisted mainly of espionage. The success of these tactics can not as yet be estimated. Only time will tell.

Pioneer NU Prof's Book Now on Sale

"Selected Writings of Louise Pound," by the world-famous retired University English professor, is now on sale at all bookstores.

Dr. Pound, English professor on this campus from 1900 to 1945, has included in her new book articles of literary, linguistic, folkloristic and educational nature. She prepared the book at the insistence of friends throughout the world.

A pioneer in English, American and English philology and literature, Dr. Pound received her B.L., A.M. and diploma in music from this University; and in 1900 received her Ph. D. from Heidelberg university in Germany.

The 1949 Cornhusker was dedicated to the retired teacher, who now resides in Lincoln, remaining in touch with the University.

The book sells for $5.50 and contains 364 pages of Dr. Pound's writings.

12 Pharmacy Students Get Scholarships

Scholarships totaling $920 for 12 undergraduate students of the College of Pharmacy at the University of Nebraska were announced recently by Dean Joseph B. Burt.

American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education scholarships valued from $50 to $100 were awarded to five students. They are:

Robert W. Waters, Michael Kuchmak, Isabel T. Bonner, H. Russell Goodwin and Robert N. Birdsell.

American Foundation awards are given annually provided the contribution is matched in amount from another source. The Lincoln Drug Company of Lincoln again matched the foundation's contribution with the following awards of $50 to $100:

Walter T. Cloer, Jr., Leray D. Beltz, James R. Cox, Lawrence R. Helsler and Ivo V. Pfeffer.

Two scholarships contributed by the Smith-Dorsey Company of Lincoln were awarded to Richard W. Stigelmar and George L. Pinney, Jr. The awards are valued at $60 each.

Arndt Explains Convo Dismissals

University students are not dismissed from classes to attend convocations, unless the dismissal has been officially sanctioned by the university. This announcement has been made as an answer to the confusion that has been caused concerning the dismissal of classes.

During the past few years, it has been a general rule for the entire university classes to be dismissed for one or two convocations, but only rarely does this happen. So far this year, only one convocation has warranted all university dismissal. This was during the Goethe bi-centennial celebration.

However, if professors wish to dismiss their individual classes during those hours, they are free to do so.

"Only rarely," said Prof. Karl Arndt, chairman of the university convocations committee, "are all classes dismissed on a general level."

The term all-university may have caused the confusion among students who think that it deems all classes dismissed. However, they are reminded that in the future, when a convocation is called for the university, a general dismissal of classes will not take place unless so stated.

MRS. CARROLL—Strange delightment is shown in the face of leading lady Margaret Dutton as she displays one of her many emotions as the second wife in the University Theater murder mystery, "The Two Mrs. Carrolls," scheduled for Dec. 5-7 at the Nebraska theater.

Theatre to Present Second Production of 49-50 Season

A tale of an artist who finds murdering his wives less difficult than divorcing them will be the core of the University Theater's coming production, "The Two Mrs. Carrolls."

When the first curtain rises at 8 p. m., Dec. 5, in the Nebraska Theater, eight cast members will give a psychological version of attempted murder.

The play, which will be the second of the '49-'50 season, will run three consecutive evenings, Monday through Wednesday.

Cast Members.
A preliminary backstage chat with three principle players, reveals some of the play's intrinsic meaning.

Dick Guy, a music major and member of Sigma Phi, music honorary, says of his part, the leading male role: "As Geoffrey Carroll, I portray a young painter artist who has been successful. He has difficulty though in overcoming emotional barriers to find peace."

"Only after he has obtained peace is he able to find beauty. He believes that beauty is the only lasting and true thing in life. He even attempts murder to remove his obstacles. Geoffrey indeed, has a peculiar personality."

Between acts, Margaret Dutton, veteran actress and leading lady, describes her role as Sally, the second Mrs. Carroll, by exclaiming, "I love it. Sally's emotions run the gamut from hate and fear to love and passion. This is one of the most delightful ceremony from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Friday. Later, from 10 to 10:30 p. m., they will air dance music from the campus formal.

Tickets to the ball are $3. Spectator tickets are 70 cents a person.

Pershing Rifles members will perform crack squad maneuvers and the manual of arms at the ball. Thirteen ROTC students have been named to execute the traditional formations.

parts I have ever portrayed. It is a composite of other characters I have played before."

The Carroll's Neighbors.
Winner of the "best supporting actress" award, for her part in last year's "Beyond the Horizon," Jan Crilly, in describing her drama counterpart, said: "I, as Cecily, the Carroll's neighbor, am bitter over a past love experience."

"I have been left by one husband who deserted me for another girl. Anxious to forget what happened in my first tragic romance, I live for the love of Geoffrey. I am more or less the potential third Mrs. Carroll. I intensely try to take him away from his present wife. You might say that I have a warped attitude in a sophisticated sort of way."

Two other cast members also appeared in the first production of the year, "Faust." They are Bob Pfeiler (Dennis Pennington), and Twila Walker (Mrs. Latson). Others making their first debuts of the year are Elaine Elliott (first Mrs. Carroll), Bill Khamm (Dr. Tottle), and Jon Kepner (Clemence).
