'Glass Menagerie' Stars Announced

Moore, Doyle, Miller, Phillips in Theatre's Lineup for Third Play

One veteran and three newcomers to the University Theatre stage will carry the entire action of the third play of the school year when "Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams, is presented Feb. 20, 21, and 22 at the Nebraska Theater.

Joe Moore, David Doyle, Marty Miller, and Christine Phillips will take the part of the four-character play, theatre director Dallas Williams has announced.

Joe Moore will take the part of Tom, the son. A senior in Law college, Moore is a veteran to the University stage. He has participated in productions of MacBeth, Joan of Lorraine, Dream Girl, and Home of the Brave.

Three Newcomers

David Doyle will portray Jim the gentleman caller. He has appeared in several Circle theater plays, and has attended the Barter theater in Abbington, Va. This will be the first appearance in a University play for Doyle.

Amanda, the mother, will be played by another newcomer, Marty Miller. Though she hasn't appeared in a regular Theatre production, Miss Miller is a veteran of several laboratory theater shows, and took part in the summer school production of "Hay-ferver," last year.

The part of Laura, the daughter, will be taken by Christine Phillips. She also took part in the "Hay-ferver" production, and has appeared in several laboratory theater shows.

Understudys for the first cast have also been announced by (See 'Play Cast' Page 2)

Dr. Lambert To Discuss Africa Trip

Dr. W. V. Lambert, dean of the College of Agriculture, will speak on his recent trip to Africa at an all-Ag college convocation Thursday, Jan. 26.

The convocation, scheduled for 7:30 p. m., will be held in the auditorium of the Ag Activities building.

Dean Lambert will discuss his trip to Africa as a member of an Economic Cooperation Administration expedition. He and two other U. S. agricultural experts traveled 21,000 miles by air, rail and car through the British colonies of Africa from July through October of 1949.

The group observed the needs of African agriculture and from their observations made a detailed report to the English government concerning them.

African Impressions

On his return from Africa via London in October, Dean Lambert stated that "Africa is so different from the United States that it is impossible to generalize on its agriculture. Most of the farming is of the primitive peasant type in which each family farms, at most, only a few acres."

Contrasting farming in Africa with that in Nebraska, Dean Lambert said, by our standards the level of living there is incredibly low. The average cash income is only a few dollars a year, he said, but their demands are few and the livelihood is very simple.

Alpha Zeta, men's agricultural scholastic honorary, is sponsoring the convocation as the first of a yearly series presented by the group.

Bev Larson To Appear in Varsity Issue

The University of Nebraska will soon see one of its undergraduates in a national magazine. Bev Larson will appear in a gallery of beautiful coeds in a future issue of Varsity magazine.

In a letter to Corn Shucks, campus humor magazine, the editor of Varsity, "the young man's magazine," asked for permission to include Miss Larson in their photo-gallery.

She originally was featured in the Christmas issue of Corn Shucks. Through a page purchased by individuals at the AUF auction, Miss Larson was crowned "Miss Campus Arouser of 1949" in the issue. With her photograph in Varsity will be a captioned biography and personal data.

Varsity is known for being the main national magazine with a college slant, specializing in pictures and stories about campuses throughout the country.

New 'Twist' Announced For IF Ball

The inauguration of a "Greek Week End" during the dates, Feb. 3 and 4, the date of the Interfraternity Ball, was revealed today by Leo Geier, recently-elected president of the Interfraternity Council.

The tentative plans, which will put a new twist on the annual all-fraternity ball, will include a convocation with two nationally-known speakers on Friday, an exchange luncheon among the fraternities Saturday noon, and the traditional ball Saturday night at Cotner Terrace.

"This is an entirely new and different idea for the Interfraternity Ball," Geier said, "but we think it will add a great deal to the prestige of the ball and the fraternity system."

Plans Include Convo

As they are now set up, plans include a convocation Friday morning at 11 a. m. with two nationally-known fraternity members as speakers. They will speak on subjects pertaining to fraternity life. One of the speakers will probably be a local man and the other from out of state, Geier said. The convo is open to the public.

The convocation has been approved by Karl Arndt, chairman

To Split Football, Basketball Ducats

Prices of student season tickets for basketball and football events at the University were upped 80 cents by Business Manager A. J. Lewandowski Saturday. Faculty tickets also were increased.

Formerly the all-season ticket was $7.20. Under the new plan, a student can buy a football season ticket for $5. He can obtain a ticket for basketball and all other sports for $3.

Student and faculty season tickets will not cover all sports, but have been split into one ticket for football and another which will admit ticket holders to basketball and all other sports.

Mean a Saving.

"For most students this will mean a saving, as many of them wanted either football or basketball and the other sports but not both," Lewandowski pointed out.

The football tickets will be sold immediately following registration in the fall and the ticket for basketball and all other sports, the week following football season.

The same is true of faculty tickets with the exception that the football ticket will sell for $6 and the ticket for basketball at $4.

Increased Costs.

The increased costs of travel, equipment, and food has necessitated a slight increase in price of tickets to the public, Athletic Director George "Potsy" Clark said.

"There has been an increase of only 42 cents of 20 per cent in the price of football tickets since 1927," Clark pointed out. "Yet prices of everything we use and need to maintain a first class department have risen much more than that."

of the convocations committee.

Continuing the "Greek Week End" Saturday, the Council is planning an exchange luncheon between the fraternities at the University. A drawing will probably be held, Geier explained, which will send a few men from each house to two or three other fraternities.

Saturday night, Feb. 4, the annual Interfraternity ball will be held at Cotner Terrace. Dinner will be held at Cotner Terrace. Dinner will be served at the Terrace preceding the dancing. The ball will be semi-formal and will start at 9 p. m. and last until 12.

Entertainment by different fraternity men such as quartets, comedians, etc. will be given during the meal.

Rag Citation List Increases to Nine

BY THE EDITOR.

Four more Nebraskans were named by Saturday morning on nomination ballots for two first semester Daily Nebraskan citations. They swell to nine the number of names submitted to the editor's office in the competition.

Newly nominated in the faculty-administration bracket are Carl Borgmann, dean of faculties, and Bill Glassford, the Cornhusker grid mentor.

The two additional students are Harold "Bud" Gerhart, business manager of Cornhusker, and Louise McDill, vice-president of the Student Council.

Four Cited

They were cited thusly: "Dean Borgmann . . . is in the responsible position of seeing that the University runs smoothly . . . his services as a coordinator of administration, faculty and student activities are invaluable to the school . . ."

Glassford has at last given NU "a promise that sometime in the not too distant future, the University may field teams of consistently high national rating . . ."

Gerhart, when he took over as Cornhusker business manager this fall, "had to shoulder the double load of straightening out last year's books while carrying on activities for the 1950 annual. He deserves a great deal of credit . . . for this."

Hard Working

"Louise (McDill) is one of the hardest-working and most interested students I know, especially as regards student government. Without her, . . . the Council's work would be seriously hampered."

Others already nominated: faculty-administration — Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, Duane Lake and Prof. Karl Arndt; student—Roswell Howard and Ted Gunderson.

Nominations will be received by The Daily Nebraskan until Wednesday noon. The winners of the two citations will be announced in next Friday's Daily Nebraskan, the last one of the semester.

Union Plans Take-It-Easy Exam Week

The Union to the rescue! Worn, weary, punchy, broken-hearted exam-takers will reap the benefits of the Union's latest plan for student entertainment.

The schedule calls for movies, programs, dances, games, etc., from four to six in the Union each day through the exam weeks. Most tests will be completed by four each day, and the activities are intended to give the students a much-needed break before returning to the books at night.

Staff Plans Week

Union staff members will plan and direct the activities, thus giving the members of union committees a chance to enjoy the programs and not hamper their studying.

The tentative slate which has been drawn up calls for movies on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The pictures will be light comedies, color cartoons and sporting events.

Tuesdays and Thursdays will be given over to musical programs and dancing. A combo will play for the dances, and parlors will be opened up for bridge and canasta.

High spot in the schedule is a mid-exam week dance to be held Saturday, Jan. 21, with an orchestra furnishing the music.

The complete schedule will be printed next week. All suggestions for improving the program should be given to Duane Lake or Gene Grimm at the Union Activities office.

Nebraska Alum To Appear in Piano Concert

An alumnus of the University recently returned from a tour of Europe, will appear in a piano concert at the Union ballroom, Thursday, Jan. 12, at 8 p. m.

Ernest Ulmer, who received his bachelor of music in education degree in 1943 and a master of music degree in 1947, will be presented by the Upsilon chapter of Sinfonia.

After his appearance at the University, Ulmer will journey to Chicago to give a concert at Kimball Hall, Jan. 25.

Beside spending a period of study in New York and London, Ulmer was enrolled at the American Art school at Fontainebleau, France.

In addition, Ulmer was a regular student in the Paris Conservatoire. There he received the "Premier Prix" in piano. He also performed in four recitals at the American Church of Paris and at Salle Chopin.

While at the University, Ulmer was a member of Phi Kappa Lambda and of Sinfonia.

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the School of Music or at the Dietze Mask house. The price is 60 cents.
