University Prof Explains State's Financial Setup

Ed's Note: This is the second of a series of three articles comparing Nebraska's state taxes and expenditures with those of eight neighboring states. The material, compiled by Dr. C. S. Miller, former Omaha businessman who is now professor of business organization and management at the University, is published in detail in a booklet by the Council of State Governments.

How Nebraska has been able to finance its state government without adoption of either a sales or state income tax is a question of interest to a number of states in these times of rising prices and increasing governmental costs.

In a study of Nebraska's state taxes and expenditures. The Council of State Governments gives the following answers:

- 1. Nebraska spends much less than any one of its eight neighboring states for education, and less than the average of the eight for various state services, and for old age assistance.
2. Nebraska leans far more heavily on property taxes than its neighbors do.
3. Nebraska also relies heavily on motor fuel and vehicle taxes. Its legislature sought to increase these taxes even more in 1949 but the boost was cancelled by a referendum vote in November.
4. Nebraska also found it necessary to place a tax on cigarettes and increase taxes on liquor and beer.

Table with 2 columns: State and Expenditure. Includes Oklahoma, Missouri, Minnesota, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota.

By limiting its taxes and keeping down expenses, Nebraska has been able to establish a reputation for frugality. The final in this series of three articles will deal with Nebraska's ability to support state government.

Follow Plan Of Registration Says Hoover

Students and faculty advisers alike will be relieved of some headaches of registration if they will follow the plan advised by Dr. Floyd Hoover, assistant registrar and director of admissions.

Dr. Hoover advises students to look ahead to graduation when they are registering and plan their course with an objective in mind. Many seniors who have registered from semester to semester disregard required subjects until the last minute have found out that they are short six or seven hours in their major field.

In planning their college course students should take the initiative in the mechanics of registration and leave their advisers free to devote themselves to counseling alone. As it stands now, advisers merely enroll and are not really advisers.

There is a definite course of required subjects in every college and students should be familiar with their own particular one so that they will not make any costly mistakes.

The Arts and Sciences college has a student's plan for graduation which lists the required subjects, minors and electives. The plan of registering for the four years at one time would be of service to everyone, but it has not been used very much by either students or their advisers so far.

Dr. Ephraim Hixson, associate director of resident instruction, said that he believes that University students seem to live from day to day with no real objective, mainly graduation, in mind. He also advises the planning of the four years at one time.

Seniors may get their schedules and registration tickets Dec. 12; juniors, Dec. 13; sophomores, Dec. 14 and junior division, Dec. 15.

Advisers are requested to see their advisers before the Christmas holidays and freshmen and those in the College of Business Administration before Dec. 12.

'World' Theme Of Union Party

The annual Christmas open house will be held in the Union Ballroom, Dec. 16, from 8 to 12 p.m.

The theme of this year's open house will be an International Christmas.

In the ballroom will be dancing to Aaron Schmidt's combo. During intermission Henry Cech and Nick Adduci will serve as emcees. Alpha Epsilon Rho will present a skit and the Cosmopolitan club will have a style show.

In parlors ABC punch will be served and juke box music played from 8 to 12 p.m. Movies and cartoons will be shown in Room 313 from 8 to 10:30 p.m. Kappa Alpha Mu, photographic honorary, will have a display in the game room. The Nebraska Singers will present a skit in Parlors JYZ at 8:30 and 10:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served in the lounge. Carols will be sung in the lounge from 11 p.m. to midnight led by Dick Garrison with Ralph Hansen at the organ.

Incomes Increases

During the period, 1940 thru 1948, the efforts of Nebraska's state government to keep pace with increasing costs and demands were reflected in a 100 percent increase in state revenue exclusive of federal funds. But during the same period Nebraskans received a 240 percent increase in income. Thus, the taxpayers' state burden was proportionately lightened.

Percentage Change table showing income and revenue changes for Nebraska and neighboring states from 1940 to 1949.

Property Taxes

The close of 1948 found Nebraska's state government relying on property tax to supply 28 percent of its revenue, while, on the average, the eight neighboring states got only 3 1/2 percent of their revenue from property tax. Meanwhile, however, Nebraska's neighbors on the average were using sales taxes to supply 31 percent of their revenue and income taxes to supply another 12 1/2 percent.

In the field of expenditure, the greatest contrast between Nebraska and its neighbors is in state support for education. All eight neighboring states now have a state aid program for local schools, Nebraska does not have such a program. That explains much but not all of the difference.

Kappa Kappa Gamma copped the volleyball crown Tuesday evening after defeating the Residence Halls for Women.

Both teams were skillful, and spectators found the game tense and exciting. The final score was 32-31.

Hunting was Kappa's high score server. Georgie Hulac and Carol French, dorm players, showed skill in returning the ball.

This was the second game between the teams. The dorm team had lost before and this was from the consolation bracket. In the first final game held Monday the dorm beat the Kappas. To gain the championship the consolation team had to win again.

Monday's game was a fight to the finish. Because of a tie at the end of time an extra five minutes was played. The final championship game was won by a one point lead. Boyfriends, housemothers and other spectators witnessed the play.

Draft . . .

2. Write to the local draft board requesting deferment until the end of the school year. The registrar's statements should be included with the request, and the two mailed immediately to the local draft board.

According to selective service it is not necessary to send a letter to the local board stating that the student was enrolled in the college the previous year and that he ranked in the upper half of his class. The important thing is that the student is now in school, doing satisfactory work, and requests his induction be postponed.

Written Request

No postponement of induction will be granted without a written request from the individual involved.

Students not now subject to induction:

- 1. Those who are not between the ages of 19 and 26.
2. Those who are veterans of World War II, with at least 90 days of active service. Veterans may, however, be called into service by reserve or national guard components.
3. Those who are enrolled in medical, or dental college or are enrolled in the Army, Air Force, or Navy ROTC advanced courses, and for whom a proper request for deferment has been made.

Requests for deferment of student enrolled in advanced ROTC courses will come, not from the ROTC commanders on the campus. Their offices will advise students as to their eligibility for such deferments.
