

Conference To Discuss Mid-Century Challenges

Theme Features Citizenship And Local Education

Thursday, July 5, will mark the opening of a conference, "Mid-Century Challenges Community Education, Citizenship Education," sponsored by Teachers college. The conference will last through noon Saturday, July 7.

The conference, which has a dual theme, will feature "Community Education in the Making" on Thursday and "Citizenship Education in the Making" on Friday.

Citizenship education will be discussed in connection with what has already been done in the field in Nebraska. The state received a grant of $21,400 for the purpose of developing citizenship education in Nebraska public schools.

Thirteen public school systems have received benefits from this grant, according to Dr. Royce Knapp, professor of education and director of the program.

"In general, each school made some plan to improve citizenship work through the year," Dr. Knapp stated. Some studied the Missouri River Basin, some studied the United Nations and some schools used a specific set of materials from Columbia University which related subject matter to the every day activity of high school students, he added.

Representatives from four of these schools will give reports on what has been done and what progress has been made in the field of citizenship education.

Representatives are: Ed Schaad, Sutton; Miss Evelyn Ripa, Wilber; Gerald Koch, Franklin; and Lew Fowles, York. These reports will be given Friday at 9 a.m. in Love Library auditorium.

At 2 p.m. Friday, Dr. William E. Hall, professor of educational psychology and measurements, will speak on "Changing Attitudes and Behavior Patterns in the Small Community." The basis for his talk is an experiment in Newman Grove which included counseling.

Walter K. Beggs, Prof. of school administration will give an address, "Planning for Community Education in Nebraska" in Love Library auditorium Thursday at 9 a.m. Following Prof. Beggs, Shirley Cooper, American Association of School Administrators, Washington, D. C., will speak on "Promising Experiences in Community Education."

The rest of the schedule includes instructions for discussion groups at 2 p.m. Thursday in Love Library auditorium, by Merle A. Stoneman, Prof. of school administration; group discussions at 2:15 p.m.; a 6:30 dinner Thursday, in parlors A, B, and C, Student Union; "Citizenship Education in Scandinavian Nations," by Johannes K. Reumert, Lecturer at

Dr. Reinhardt Studies U.S. Steel Company

Dr. James M. Reinhardt, chairman of the University of Nebraska sociology department, has accepted an invitation to study the operations of the United States Steel Co. plant at Pittsburgh.

The invitation came from the Foundation for Economic Education Inc., of New York City, a cooperative organization composed of over a score of America's large industrial companies, which will permit university and other experts to study the problems of American industry.

Dr. Reinhardt and Dr. Robert J. Meyer of Rhode Island State College were invited this year to study the U.S. Steel plant. Dr. Reinhardt will attend the Foundation's course beginning Aug. 1. He expects to study the company's labor-management problems for a period of about four weeks.

The company has suggested to Dr. Reinhardt that upon the conclusion of the course that he submit a report of his observations.

Dr. Reinhardt is the author or co-author of several books and many articles in the field of sociology. He joined the University of Nebraska staff in 1931 and became head of the sociology department a year ago.

Union Sponsors Square Dance Friday, July 29

Following the trend from coast to coast, the Union will sponsor a Square Dance Friday, July 29, at 8:30 p.m. in the air-conditioned Union ballroom.

Instruction will be featured for beginners, with the advanced dances doing the demonstration squares. Live music will be featured.

Square dancing has grown in popularity across the nation and each year Square Dance clubs in the city of Lincoln, as well as all major cities, hold a festival.

Dancers are urged to come informally; cottons, full-skirted for the girls—levis for the boys. And remember, square dancing can be enjoyed by any age.

N.U. Art Gallery Loses Painting

The Nebraska Art Galleries announced Tuesday the loss of a painting from its permanent collection, an oil painting entitled, "Abstraction" by Paul Kelpo.

The picture measures 15 inches by 30 inches, signed "P K '36" in the lower right corner. It is framed in a square moulding painted white. The subject, as indicated by the title, is simply a composition of geometric shapes.

The picture is part of an allocation to the University by the Federal Government and is of documentary, as well as artistic, importance within the University collections. Placed in Architectural Hall on the University campus, the picture disappeared late in April. Investigation since has failed to uncover any trace. Persons knowing the whereabouts of the picture are urged to notify the Galleries.
