

The Benchwarmer

By TOM CARODINE

(Editor's Note—After a column Monday in which the editor questioned Mr. Carodine's entrance to the University, he and the editor agreed that an answer by Mr. Carodine was the only fair thing to do.

This is the Tom Carodine story. As we all know, I have been the main topic around campus for the past few weeks. I have been asked to give my side of this subject.

First I would like to say that so far as my getting booted off Nebraska's football team; it was my own doing and I can only blame myself. It was stated in the newspapers that I was dropped because of failing to attend classes. I will not say I have not missed some classes, but you show me one student who has not missed one or two classes. From my standpoint, I was dropped from the team because I failed to come to one practice. And we all know Mr. Glassford's rules, which are if you miss one practice you are dropped from the team.

I missed that practice, and I did not call in, so I knew my outcome before it appeared in the papers. As a person, I feel that if Mr. Glassford had let me get by with missing a practice, he would have to let others do it. Of course, I don't feel good about being dropped from the squad because football is what I live for, and it is part of me.

But it taught me a lesson that there are more things in life than football. Most of the students here read Monday's Daily Nebraskan in which Mr. Bob Banks wrote an article about me. His article was correct in parts but there were other things which I would like to correct. He stated that I was admitted to the University of Nebraska without it having knowledge that I had previously attended another university. This statement is wrong and I am sure and the Administration officials knew that I was once at Loyola University in Los Angeles. I have never tried to hide it from anyone.

As far as my being dismissed from Loyola, I was not dismissed. I left on my own and I did not return because I was married during the summer in which I returned to Omaha and it was too far to travel at that time. This is my true reason for not returning to Loyola.

Mr. Banks said that I did not deserve another chance. I do not go along with Mr. Banks on this. Chances are not given to an individual. They are made by the individual. I truly believe this because you take any football player or any person who has accomplished anything; they work hard before they accomplish a certain goal. As far as my having another chance of playing football for Nebraska I will come up to the Nebraska standing. And when I do return to the team I will prove without a doubt my ability outside the football team.

Carodine
Lincoln Journalist

If I can't prove this, I don't want to play football because I wouldn't be a credit to my race or to my school and I want to play football here at Nebraska. It was hard for me to read the paper the day I was dropped from Nebraska's football team. But I read it and cried within myself, but that did not keep me from wanting to try again.

Today everyone is talking about the football situation in the nation, but out of all the persons who are talking, how many of them are taking personal feeling for the players as individuals? I would say there are not too many. Football today is not put on a job basis because you are not forced to play football. Of course a football player puts in a lot of work on the field. But ask any football player why. He would say, "I like the game." Football doesn't teach you everything, but it does teach a man to receive as well as give. Our team is receiving this year, and I believe without a doubt that they will dish out some before this season is finished.

I have dropped out of school this semester because of reasons which I care not to mention. Believe me when I say it has nothing to do with my not playing football. I will return to Nebraska next semester, and I will play football if Mr. Glassford will let me. Mr. Glassford told me I could play if I prove myself a student as well as an athlete.

I believe in Mr. Glassford because he is truly a man of his word. If I can prove to myself that I can hit the books, I will wear Nebraska's colors, and I know I won't fall because the determination is in me more than ever.

Sooners To Invade Manhattan

Coach Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma Sooners play their first Big Seven Conference road game this season when they go to Manhattan, Kan., Saturday for the 37th annual clash against Coach Bill Meek's Kansas State Wildcats.

Oklahoma will try to defend a string of 14 consecutive victories over Kansas State teams. Kansas State's last victory was scored in 1934 by Coach Lynn Waldorf's Big Six Conference champions of the nosed Coach Lewie Hardage's Sooners 8-7 at Norman.

Oklahoma leads the lifetime series with 23 wins to 9 for Kansas State. Four games were tied. The Sooners will fly Friday afternoon by chartered plane to Topeka, Kan., and establish headquarters there at the Kanhattan hotel, arriving at 2:45 p.m. The Oklahomans will practice at 3:30 p.m. at the Washburn University field and spend Friday night at Topeka.

The Oklahoma squad will go by bus Saturday morning to Manhattan, and after the game have sandwiches in the dressing room, then take the bus back to Topeka, explaining from the Kan-State's last victory was scored in 1934 by Coach Lynn Waldorf's Big Six Conference champions of the nosed Coach Lewie Hardage's Sooners 8-7 at Norman.

Although Kansas State lost their first five games, they have been notoriously tough against Big Seven foes at Manhattan, tying Nebraska 6-6 while widely out-gaining the Cornhuskers and Topeka, Kan., and establish headquarters there at the Kan-standstill while losing 7-20.

Weaver Wins IM Tennis Title

By NITA HELMSTADTER
WAA Sports Columnist

Walt Weaver, Phi Delta Theta, came from behind to win the Fall Tennis tournament by defeating Mike Holyoke, Beta Theta Pi, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

Theta Xi won the all university tennis crown with a total of 25 points.

To gain the finals, Weaver had beaten Erv Peterson, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Jimmy Collins, Alpha Psi; John Schroeder, Phi Kappa Psi; and Jim Fafelita, Delta Sigma Pi.

Harry Weiner, Independent; Don Davis, Phi Kappa Psi; and Bob Crook, Theta Xi, had previously fallen before runnerup Holyoke.

Students To Pick Outstanding Player In IM League Poll

At the beginning of the intramural football season we of the sports department said that we would bestow a trophy on the most outstanding intramural squad player. This outstanding player would be picked by the individual teams through a vote of their team members.

The tabulated votes would then be brought to The Daily Nebraskan's sports department where we of the staff will look over the qualifications of the chosen players and through our accumulated facts, we will decide a winner.

In the intramural season thus far there have been many outstanding players who have shown some very fine playing ability. The showings in the playoffs should determine the most outstanding player of the university.

Because a team was not entered in the finals is no reason for them not to enter their most valuable player in the trophy contest. Any teams are eligible for entry in this contest.

Would-Be Coaches Evaluate Problems

Problems confronting prospective teachers and coaches were evaluated Thursday in an open forum by the first district student section of the Nebraska State Education Association.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, national professional physical education fraternity, sponsored the student section discussion with the district convention of the association.

Jim Buchanan, president of the Nebraska chapter of the honorary, led the discussion. George Nuss and Glenn Beerline were also on the forum.

Bondarin, Cohen, Rische Lead Prediction Experts

The prognostication parade continues as The Daily Nebraskan selectors check their record books in preparation for this Saturday's fifth week of football predictions.

The experts are being led by a freshman member of the sports staff, Arley Bondarin, Jack Cohen and Tom Rische, .745 averages. Cohen is business manager of the paper and Rische is editor.

There is also a tie for fourth and fifth place between sports editor Bob Banks and sports reporter Douglas Wilcox with a .722 mark.

Arne Stern holds sixth place by two percentage points over Ron Gibson. Stern is assistant business manager and Gibson is a member of the sports department.

Marshall Kushner, assistant sports editor is in eighth place with a .645 and Tom Becker and Don Pieper are tied for ninth and tenth with .620 averages.

Shirley Murphy, only female expert found on the selectors chart is eleventh with .600 even and Dale Reynolds, ag editor, finishes the list with a .575 average.

Business experts lead the departmental experts with an average of .719 with sports staff second with .692 and editorial department third with .635.

Aquaettes, girls' swimming club, announces its new members today. Suzanne Adams, Mary Belle Baldwin, Kay Barton, Dixie Borgaard, Donna Borgaard, Jane Brode, Jean Bryson, Sally Parnham, Judy Plansberg, Eileen Gorman, Pat eHaley, Lynn Holland, Ann Kokjer, Donna Krouse, Mary James Napes, Nadine Osborn, Dorothy Perry, Bobbie Russell, Jean Sandstedt, Judy Schner, Marilu Thomassen, Barbara Turner and Margaret Weston will be donning swimming suits every Thursday night as new members.

The new members were chosen on their ability to do simple diving and rhythmic swimming. The club's main project is its annual spring pageant.

Tennis intramural double champions for the 1951 tournaments are Janet Bailey and Denise Bohrer. Bailey and Bohrer won the double championship for Alpha Phi by defeating the Delta Gamma French and Georgia Hulac 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

The French-Hulac combination started out by taking the first set six love. The second set went to Bailey and Bohrer by score of 6-3 which meant a third set would be played to decide the champions.

The third and deciding set looked like French and Hulac would take the match since they were ahead three games to one. Bialek and Scher came from behind to win the set 6-4. Deuce games which were very prevalent revealed the even match of the two teams. Both teams had to work for every point. Bailey and Bohrer won the right to play in the finals by defeating the Chi Omega team Rosemary Amos and Carol Patterson. French and Holac went to the finals through defaults of their scheduled opponents.

Intramural volleyball began Monday. Twenty-six teams will be participating in this double elimination tournament. Ten girls constitute a team. Volleyball is the first intramural sport in which freshmen coeds may participate. Jan Champagne and Joe Ann O'Brien together are responsible for the running of the volleyball tournament. Delta Gamma and Chi Omega each have five teams entered.

Indiana lost its star halfback Bobby Robertson when he reported to the Bloomington, Ind. draft board for immediate induction into the army.

Robertson has been an Indiana squad member since 1949. He ranked third in the Western conference last season and led the team in rushing.

Big Ten kickers two years back. Robertson racked up 30 points for Indiana during the 1949 pigskin season, and scored 43 points during the '50 football year. He made touchdowns against Notre Dame and Ohio State this season.

Bobby accounted for 2,799 yards in 23 games between his two years with Indiana.

The Fine Arts ensemble, Emanuel Wishnow directing, has chosen Howard Hanson's "String Quartets Op. 23" for the first concert of its third full season.

The concert which will be in the Union ballroom Thursday at 8 p.m. is sponsored by the Friends of Chamber Music.

Hanson is a native of Wahoo. His career includes the directorship of Eastern School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., which he has held for some years.

On the same program are Beethoven's "Quartet in C, Op. 18 No. 4," and Faure's "Quartet with piano, in C Minor, Op. 15."

The artists, besides Wishnow, who plays violin are: Truman Horstman, second violin; Max Gilbert, viola; Rosemary Howell Madison, cello, and Gladys May, piano.

The same concert was presented at Joslyn Memorial earlier this week.

Astronomers Receive Mount For Telescope

A specially constructed telescope mount has been purchased for the astronomy department. According to O. C. Collins, assistant professor of astronomy, the mount will be set up soon on the roof of Ferguson hall.

The mount consists of four main parts. They are the base plate, the polar axis, the frame which is parallel to the axis of the earth and supports the polar axis, and the declination axis.

The purpose of the mount, in addition to holding the telescope, is to keep it turning and pointing in the right direction.

The structure, which Collins said was expensive, was made in Angelbury, N. J. To insure the safety of the machinery, John H. Paustian of the University department of engineering brought it to Lincoln from New Jersey in his car.

Music Fraternity Pledges 23 Men

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, honorary music fraternity, pledged 23 new members at its weekly luncheon Thursday.

New pledges are: Jack Anderson, Joe Babcock, Paul Bieberstein, Dick Brodfeuer, Dennis Carroll, Walt Cole, Cliff Cowles, Jack Davis, Frank Dolezal, Keith Eck.

Dance Lesson Attendance Improves

Male wall flowers were non-existent at Union dancing lessons Wednesday night.

In contrast to last week's lessons when there were five men for every woman, an equal number of both sexes were present. An extra number of female dance partners was made possible

Minnick Returns To Grid Team As Huskers Prepare For Jays

By RON GIBSON
Sports Staff Reporter

With the Missouri game gone and forgotten, Coach Bill Glassford's Cornhuskers are preparing for the Homecoming game against the Jayhawks of Kansas Nov. 3.

The Scarlet and Cream will go into the Kansas game at full physical strength. No casualties resulted from the Missouri tussle.

Jerry Minnick, outstanding sophomore tackle who missed the MU game because of an injury suffered in the Minnesota game of the previous week, will be ready for the Jayhawks. Minnick suffered a concussion when he was elbowed by a Gopher lineman on the first play of the game, Minnick says he is "feeling great."

Barring additional injuries in practice sessions, Glassford will start the same lineup against Kansas that he used against Missouri. The Husker coach said he contemplated no changes in personnel this week.

"Everyone did a good job, except for a few mistakes," said Glassford. The Huskers viewed movies of the game with the Tigers to see some of those mistakes. Again it was a case of a second period defensive collapse, the same difficulty which caused the Huskers' downfall against Minnesota.

Glassford cited Kay Curtis, junior guard, as the most improved player in the game with the Tigers. The burly Cornhusker mentor said that Curtis was doing the good work which the coaching staff knew he was capable of.

Another policy which Coach Glassford will continue is letting

Young Jensen May Join Tony Sharpe's 1970 Crew

Attention, Tony Sharpe!

In planning your 1970 Husker baseball squad, you'll not want to overlook young Mark Jensen, a red-hot shortstop prospect who at present throws right and bats left, according to his father, Bill Jensen.

Mark, a seven-pound, six-ounce husky, arrived in a local hospital at 5 p. m. Sunday. He's the first youngster for Bill, shortstop on last year's Husker diamond crew and at present a member of the Lincoln high school coaching staff.

Bob Reynolds call the plays and signals. For the first time in his Cornhusker career, Reynolds acted as quarterback. In his Grand Island high school days, Reynolds had been a quarterback but last Saturday was the first time he served as a signal caller for Nebraska.

Reynolds will also be used on defense throughout the season. Against the Tigers, his pass defending was one of the bright spots of the game for the Scarlet and Cream. Glassford said that the All-American halfback would probably be a "60-minute man" for the remainder of the season.

Ken Schroeder, who started his first game of the season as a line-backer, will again be used in that position against the Jayhawks. Schroeder is also a junior.

The Huskers will be hoping for a dry field for the KU game. The last three games have been played on wet sod. The turf at Columbia was damp and loose, making it hard for the backs to get a good footing. Long range forecasts indicate that the two teams will get a weather break for the Homecoming fray.

The visiting Jayhawks will go into the game with a 4-2 record, and a 2-2 conference record. By comparative scores, the Kansas beat TCU 27-13 and trounced Kansas State 53-14. The Scarlet absorbed a 28-7 beating at the hands of TCU and tied K-State 6-6. The Kansas' only defeats came at the hands of tough Oklahoma and Colorado, the top teams in the Big Seven.

Can Your Vote Count?

For years a male Greek body has controlled the campus politics to the consternation of many individuals, such as sorority women, independents and some fraternity men. This monopoly in bloc voting has been unfair to University students as individuals. This clique will march to the polls Thursday and check the dictated names to give you puppet officers.

The Engineering Executive Board has chosen a slate which it feels will represent the University students as individuals and not special groups. This democratic cross-section is composed of independents, and fraternity and sorority members.

If you are in favor of honest politics, please vote for the following:

SENIORS	JUNIORS
Jack Lliteras President	Phil Ostwald
John Adams Vice President	Joan Hanson
Bob Haight Secretary	John Marks
Dick Phelps Treasurer	Jack Savage

Remember, this clique is a minority on the campus.

Your vote will decide th election.
