

Huskies Prep For K-State

By RON GIBSON
The honeymoon is about over. Coach Harry Good's Nebraska basketball squad, now sharing the Big Seven conference lead after dropping Colorado 63-61 Saturday night, journey to Manhattan next Saturday to take on Jack Gardner's Kansas Wildcats in what may be the toughest test of the season for the young Husker flippers.

And almost everything points to a Wildcat victory. The K-Staters have the edge in height, experience, shooting ability and rebounding skill. With Bob Carby, Jess Priscock, "Hoot" Gibson and a host of other red-hot roundballers, Kansas State is loaded with basketball talent, a fact which is reflected by their seventh-place rating in the national AP poll.

However, Husker fans point to Nebraska's showing in the first quarter of the somewhat hectic affair with Colorado. Nebraska scored 24 points in the first quarter of the game, while holding the Buffs to 15.

Coach Good cited the play of Fred Seger, Stan Matzke, Paul Fredstrom and Charlie Ott as instrumental in the Colorado victory. Good named these four as men who had showed up well enough in pre-conference play to merit a trial in Big Seven competition.

Some interesting statistics on the Colorado game reveal a few surprises. One surprise is the decided rebounding edge the Huskers had over their opponents, taking 53 rebounds to the Buffs' 36. The rebounding leader for the Scarlet was Charlie Ott with 10. Ott took six offensive rebounds and cleared the boards four times on defense.

Husker statistics for the Colorado game:

Player	fg	ft	reb.	asst.	pt
Buchanan	5-13	3-9	6	3	23
Fogler	0-1	0-0	1	0	0
Fredstrom	5-8	2-5	2	4	12

As proof of the fact that there is no rest for the weary, the Huskers will take on Kansas, the nation's number one team, next Monday at the Coliseum. That is just two days after the K-State game.

Harry Good feels that the experience of playing two top clubs like the Kansas teams will be better for the Cornhuskers than would a series of games with weaker schools. Good commented that teams like Kansas and K-State give the Big Seven a great deal of national prestige, although it makes things tough for the five other schools in the league.

The NU coach figured his team's chances would probably not improve this season, for the simple reason that as the Huskers get better, the other clubs get better too.

As for the Wildcats of Jack Gardner, Good said "there are no one or two men that can be stopped. They have good reserve strength. If the starting five isn't doing too well, Jack (Gardner) can put in someone just as good." Good picks the Wildcats to be the team to beat in the Big Seven next year.

The game will be the first conference test for the K-Staters, who last week trounced Arizona 71-43.

Meanwhile, Good announced three lineup changes for the Huskers. Last week's starting quintet of Good, Buchanan, Johnson, Fredstrom and Matzke will see some changes.

Next week's starting five will consist of Paul Fredstrom and Joe Good at the forward spots, Charlie Ott at center, and Jim Buchanan and Fred Seger at the guards.

Good will move from a guard position to a forward spot to make room for "Hopalong" Fred Seger. Joe will be used at both the guard and forward positions throughout the season, as he is needed. It will not be the first time Good has made the change.

A look at the complete statistics for all games reveals that Jim Buchanan is pacing the Cornhuskers in the point department. The cumulative scoring in the 12 games played show Buchanan with 202 points. The Cornhusker point makers:

Player	GM	FG	FT	PP	Pts
Jim Buchanan	12	247-57	47-28	21	202
Joe Good	10	106-34	30-23	32	91

Presidents Say Abolish Bowl Games

All athletic scholarships should be abolished and football practice and games should be limited to the period between September 1 and the first Saturday in September.

These were two recommendations of the special sports committee made up of college presidents which is currently investing athletics in American universities.

Along with these two proposals, the committee, on which Nebraska's Chancellor R. G. Gustavson is a member, proposed a six-point program to abolish many practices now common in college sports.

The committee recommended that:

1. All post-season games of any kind be abolished.
2. Basketball games and practice be confined to the period between December 1 and March 15.
3. Baseball games and practice be confined to the period between March 1 and commencement.
4. Not only should no freshman be allowed to play on a varsity team, but also that any transfer from a junior college should put in a year of residence before being eligible to play.
5. Scholarships should be given strictly on the basis of the student's educational ability and his needs.
6. That in no case should any scholarship be for more than educational expenses at an institution.

Dr. John Hannah of Michigan State college, the chairman of the committee, announced the program Monday.

Before the committee's plan could go into effect, it would have to be approved by the executive committee of the American Council on Education. Hannah said he hoped the program could be put into effect by the start of the next school year.

However, Hannah pointed out that any existing contracts for bowl games, such as the Big Ten-Pacific Coast pact, would be allowed to stay in effect until the contract ran out.

Hannah said the plan would have to be enforced by the NCAA, the schools themselves and their conferences.

If the committee's program is adopted, it would mean the end of all bowl games, out-of-season basketball tournaments, and all out-of-season practice.

Intramural Track Meet Finals Thursday Night; Phi Deltas Lead

Phi Delta Theta returned from Christmas vacation with the lead in the intramural track meet and the Phi Deltas are prepared to maintain their point margin when the finals roll around Thursday at 7 p.m.

The Phi Deltas have compiled a total of 26 points thus far in the meet and have a slight edge over second place Sigma Chi with 20 points in the fraternity division.

The Alpha Tau Omega cinder-men are riding in third place with 8 points and Phi Gamma Delta has six points for fourth place. Delta Upsilon and Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Nu are fifth and sixth with four points and one point respectively.

The Spikes are currently running away with the independent competition, with the members of the varsity track team, for the most part, spearheading the Spikes attack.

In the fraternity 880-yard run, Charley Hunley of the Phi Deltas kicked off a 2:15 clocking to win the pre-lim. Sigma Nu Jean Cloare was second with a 2:17.0 clocking. Jerry Collins of the Sigma Chi and Don Wahl of the Phi Deltas fought for the third place with former winning in 2:20.

In the independent 880-yard race, Clayton Scott, former Grand Island trackster and representing the Men's dorm in the intramural meet, won in 2:08.7 seconds. Harold Sampson and Forrest Doling, both of the Spikes, took second and third place behind Scott.

The one-mile relay in the fraternity class found the Phi Deltas winning another blue ribbon by posting a 3:51.4 timing. The team was composed of Jack Anderson, Keith Glorfield, Don Wahl and Charles Hunley.

The Sigma Chi's took second place honors with a 4:04.1 time recording. Running legs for the Sig Chi's were leadoff man, Al Barnard, followed by Colling and Johnson, with Phil Heidelk running the anchor leg.

The Spikes came through in the independent class competition with an excellent 3:44.4 timing. Blake Cathro, Bobby Fairchild, Jim Hurley and Hoppy McChue composed the membership of the winning team.

Results of the fraternity 60-yard dash finals showed Don Sterba, representing Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Chi; Jerry Barton, DU; Jim Phi Delta Theta second. Jack Hofstetter, DU; Dick Husmann, James, Dick Westin, Ted Connors, Phi Kappa Phi; Jim Sommers, Phi and Jack Scoville finished in that order.

James is a Phi Gam, Westin a Phi Delt, Connors a Sigma Chi and Scoville represented Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

In the high hurdles, Dick Westin, Phi Delt, won in 8.0 flat. The DU's Jim Hofstetter traveled the 60 yard route in 8.8, and Pat Lange of SAE finished in 9.0.

Eldon Lovell, Phi Delt, Charles Thompson, DU; and Ted Connor, Sigma Chi finished in that order behind the first trio.

Gaylord Smith led the independent 60-yard high hurdles race by winning 8.0 also. Dan Lindquist, Lutheran Student house; Blake Cathrop and Tom Stoup, Spikes; finished in that order.

In the fraternity one-lap run, Phil Heidelk sped the distance in 29.7 to nudge out Jack Scoville who covered the lap in 29.8. Charley Hunley was third with 29.9.

University men interested in playing varsity football should contact Coach Bill Glassford at his office in the Coliseum before Feb. 20.

Independents who qualified for the high jump are John Denny, Men's Dorm; Don Sjogren, Student SA; Danny Lindquist, Lutheran; Hoppy McChue, Spikes; Gaylord Smith, Spikes; and Tom Stoup.

Simon Wins Tom Novak Grid Trophy

Frank Simon, Nebraska's representative in the East-West game at San Francisco, has been named the most valuable senior during the 1951 Nebraska season and will receive the Tom Novak trophy.

The choice was made by press and radio representatives who followed the Cornhuskers through the season.

J. Gordon Roberts of Omaha annually awards a trophy to the most valuable senior. Charles Toogood won the award in 1950. The presentation will be made Monday night between halves of the Kansas Nebraska basketball game.

After playing three years with Nebraska without an injury, Simon broke his right thumb in practice sessions for the East-West contest which limited his play to a short turn on defense at San Francisco.

Although born in Nebraska, Simon played his high school football at Newcomberland, Pa., returning to the Cornhusker state when his father was named superintendent of schools at Burchard.

During his three year tour of duty with the Cornhusker at end, Simon caught 40 passes for 760 yards and four touchdowns.

Bill Voegtli Still Leads IM Scoring

Bill Voegtli, playing for Ag Men Number 1, continues to lead all intramural basketball scoring this week with a total of 87 points.

Voegtli, is far ahead of Cliff Rogers of Ag YMCA, who is second in scoring with 69 points, and Ralph Meston, Red Guildons, who ranks third with 59. All three compete in League 3.

Don McArthur, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, leads League 1 with a 48-point gathering, just two points more than Sig Alpha Gus Lebsock's accumulation.

In League 2, Bill Alexander of Delta Upsilon's 36-point total is high, followed by ATO Leo McKillip's 31 and Kappa Sig Buck Everett's 30.

Jim Weber, Farm House, and D. Heiss, Farm House are in a close battle for top scoring honors with 45 and 42 points, respectively in League 3.

Jay Ziegler, representing Cornhusker Co-op, is the new leading scorer in League 4, with 38 tallies. He is pressed by Wes Weber of Pioneer Co-op, who has 37.

Murl Maupin and Tom Toom of Phi Gamma Delta B are the top two scorers in League 5, with 33 and 31 points, respectively. Third high man is Ben Leonard, Sigma Chi, with 29 counters.

In League 6, AGR Vince Kramper tops the scorers with 33 points, followed by Dave Alkire, Phi Kappa Psi, who possesses a 22-point total.

Ray Vlasin, Farm House B, leads League 7 scorers with 29 points. Bill Griffin of Newman Club is far ahead in League 9 with a 39 point gathering. Navy ROTC player Bob Parks is tops in League 10 with 32.

Delta Sig Cecil Valls' 49 points leads League 11 point-gathers. Jim Worth, Ramblers star, leads League 12 with 48 points.

The Benchwarmer

By RON GIBSON Sports Staff Writer

On the cover of the latest issue of The Sporting News there was a cartoon showing some baseball fans sitting around a stove and remarking that there wasn't much fuel for the "old hot stove" just now. In a woodbox beside the stove were three logs, labeled "DiMaggio Retires," "Stanky To Manage Cards," and "Cincinnati-Philadelphia Trad."

These seem to be about the only topics being discussed in the hot stove league right now. So here goes for a rundown of each. Joe DiMaggio finally made public the fact that he is no longer going to play for the Yanks. Joe, who played on the great Yankee pennant-winning teams of 1936-39, and also on the flag-winning outfits of 1941-43, 1947, and 1949-51, has done something which many great athletes have been unable to do: retire before they became "bums."

A lot of athletes want to hang around after they are far past their peak, and in doing so only hurt themselves physically in addition to hurting their reputations. But not the Yankee Clipper. Joe stepped down just in time. And he stepped right into a well-paying job telecasting Yank games. Now DiMag will always be remembered as the great star he is. There is no tragic story of a washed-up ball player, quietly fading out of the picture. Joe made a smart move, quitting when he was ahead.

With the signing of Eddie Stanky as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, baseball witnessed a strange thing. Here was Eddie the Brat, who in his days at Brooklyn fought harder against the Cards than probably anyone else in the National League, now leading his old enemies.

It seemed odd when Leo Durocher, another fire-eater, went from the Dodgers to the Giants in a surprise move one day in 1948. And look what the Giants did with Durocher at the helm. Perhaps Stanky can do the same thing for the Cards.

At any rate the Cards can do little better than they did last year, finishing third when they were expected to finish in the second division. Despite illnesses which ruined the Redbirds' chances in the early part of the season, the Cards put on a late-season drive to wind up in third place.

Maybe the Brat can shove the Cards up a couple of notches, although the club needs a first baseman, another outfielder, and possibly some pitchers.

One of the most recent deals in the majors was a big swap between Cincinnati and Philadelphia. If past performances are any indications of a ballplayer's ability, it seems that the Phil's got the short end of the deal. For they sent Dick Sisler and Andy Seminick to the Redlegs for Howie Fox. There were other players involved in the deal, but they were what might be termed "throw-ins."

Although the Phils could use a replacement for Curt Simmons, it looks like they have cut off their collective nose to spite their face. Admittedly, Seminick is growing old. But he can still handle pitchers, especially young ones.

Sisler can be one of the top boys in the majors, with his speed and hitting. This marks the second time in his career that Sisler has been traded to another club just when he was looking like a corner. Sisler's first experience in being traded away came when the Cards sent him to the Phils in 1946.

So these are the main topics of discussion in the hot stove league, except for Don Newcombe's getting drafted. This is going to hurt the Dodgers tremendously, as the Brooks rely on Big Newk to do the lion's share of their mound work.

It is rumored that in Brooklyn there is talk of seceding from the union.

IS Cagers To Play Buffs At Boulder

The scrapping Cyclones of Iowa State are facing another terrific battle this week and love the prospect.

The cagers of Coach Chick Sutherland have had to battle from behind in every contest this year and on six of the nine occasions have fought to the top spot at the final gun.

"Battle and desire have been the outstanding characteristics of this 1952 squad," Sutherland said yesterday. "They like to win and love a battle. It is a good thing they do for we'll have a full evening at Colorado Saturday night. Coach Bebe Lee's Buffs have a lot of scoring power and will want to get the home season off to a winning conference start."

Any freshmen interested in being track managers should contact Coach Ed Weir either at the Field House or his office in the Coliseum immediately.
