Homecoming Tradition Will Reign

Thirty-Five Plan House Displays

Dance To Reveal 1952 Pep Queen

By DICK COFFEY
Staff Writer

Thirteen sororities and 20 fraternities will participate in the homecoming house decorations contest Friday night. Two independent student houses, Terrace Hall and the Men's Dorm, will also participate in the house decorations.

The decorations will be judged on size, originality, movement and the centering of the theme around the game of the week and welcome to alumni.

Regulations governing the decorations set a $50 limit on expenditures and a deadline of 6 p.m. Friday for completion of the entries. A list of expenses must be turned into Bob LaShelle by 6 p.m.

Winners of the men's and women's divisions of house displays will be awarded a traveling trophy by the president of Innocents Society at the Homecoming dance, Saturday.

House decorations will be judged immediately following the rally Friday. The judges are: Marge Mengsholl, manager of Magee's advertising department, Charlotte Workman, advertising manager for Hovland-Swanson, Col. C. J. Workman, professor of military science and Frank Hallgren, assistant dean of Student Affairs and Manfred Keller, professor of art.

To facilitate movement of traffic Friday, Innocents Society cooperating with the University police, are asking for cooperation in following their traffic pattern. Cars must be out of the traffic pattern by 1 p.m. Friday. Friday night, the traffic will enter from 17th and R to 16th and R, turn right on 16th to Vine, left on Vine to 14th, Jack to 16th on R. Turning right, they will exit at 16th and Q. Signs will be posted giving directions, and all traffic will be one-way.

Any cars found parked on these streets after 1 p.m. will be hauled away.

Saturday at 10 a.m., Homecoming festivities will continue with a Homecoming parade.

Thirty floats are entered in the parade. Judging will be based on art work, unity, originality, good taste and welcome grade theme. The marquee of Magee's will be used for the judges' stand.

Judges will be Dr. Josephine Brooks, associate professor of home economics, Leroy Burket, assistant professor of art, and Don Lodge.

A traveling plaque will be awarded at the Homecoming Dance to the first place winners in the men's and women's division. Honorable mention will be given to the runners-up.

Floats for the parade will line up in front of Avery Laboratory, start at 12th and U Sts. and proceed down U to 14th St., north on Vine, east on Vine to 16th, south on 16th to O St., west on O to 11th, north on 11th to R, east on R to 12th, north on 12th to R where the parade will disband.

An alumni luncheon will be held for returning alumni and their families, Saturday from 11:30 to 12:45 in the Union ballroom. Mortar Board alumni and active members of the Alumni Association have special tables.

Dentists' HC Activity Plans Ready

Approximately 150 dentists from 25 different states are expected for the annual homecoming of the University College of Dentistry to be held Friday and Saturday.

The program for the convention includes registration and open house at the Dental College on Friday morning, and a short business meeting that afternoon in the Love Library auditorium. Friday evening will feature a banquet at the Cornhusker Hotel at which about 300 are expected.

The Friday afternoon session will be the scene of the election of officers for 1953. The present officers and their posts are: Dr. Elmer F. Bay, president; Dr. R. F. Krejci, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Glenn Laymon, president-elect.

On Friday afternoon there will be a technical session in which the dentists will hear a discussion of denture implant procedures by Dr. E. J. Kresse of Denver.

On Saturday morning there will be a discussion of diagnosing cancer of the mouth by Dr. B. A. Thomas of the University of Washington School of Dentistry at Seattle.

Saturday afternoon will feature a work session to be held at Love Library auditorium. The work session will conclude the two day convention.

HOMECOMING!

Music by Ralph Materie, a Pep Dance by the Union and a new queen by popular choice will highlight the galaxy of Homecoming events this weekend.

Following the rally and the review of house displays on Friday, the Union invites students to drop in for dancing in the Round-Up. The dance, a star or couple affair, is one of the Union's come-as-you-are dances.

The 1952 Homecoming Queen, Barbara Hershberger, will be presented at halftime of the Minnesota-Nebraska game. Miss Hershberger was revealed as Pep Queen at the annual Homecoming dance last season.

Five finalists for the 1952 Pep Queen were chosen by the members of the Tassels organization from their group. The Pep Queen was chosen after the rally preceding the NU-Missouri election. The identity of the Queen will be revealed at intermission time during the Homecoming dance Saturday night.

The finalists are Darlene Gooding, Susan Reinhardt, Norma Lothrop, Connie Clark and Barbara Bell.

Ralph Materie and his orchestra have been engaged to play for the Homecoming dance Saturday night. The bandleader, whose rise to popularity has been attested to by Billboard's poll of the nation's disc jockies, is hailed as one of the country's foremost music makers. Rumor has it that the smiling maestro is also an amateur cook of the first order.

Tickets to the dance sell for $3 and are available from Corn Cobs and Tassels. Dancing will begin in the Coliseum at 8 p.m.

Returning alumni arriving Friday night or Saturday morning will find the campus looking much as they remember it, but they will have missed the preparation. Their ears will not have been assailed by the Corn Cobs and Tassels hawking dance tickets. The corps of balloon salesmen, cowbell peddlers and N-flower hucksters, however, promises to function as usual. This year the alumni of recent vintage will have missed the last minute rush to get house decoration up by the deadline and the sleeping in shifts to guard the displays.

Corn Cob and Tassel alumni will have missed wallowing in bales of crepe paper and napkins to decorate the Coliseum and build the float. They are now entitled to attend the alumni luncheon and to attend the game wearing "plain clothes."

Grads to whom the "welcome" signs are addressed have one privilege which belongs to them alone. When they hear hammering on Sunday morning that signals the demise of this season's Homecoming they can turn over and go back to sleep.

Ag Educators Award Honor To Chancellor

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson was honored Wednesday by Epsilon Sigma Phi, national honorary fraternity of agricultural educators, for leadership in services to farm and rural life.

Chancellor Gustavson addressed a general session of the 66th annual convention of Land-Grant College and Universities in Washington Tuesday.

Dr. Knute O. Broady, director of the University Extension Division; Miss Florence Atwood, Extension Home Economist; Dr. Dorceta Schlaphoff, chairman of the Department of Home Economics and Dean Roy M. Green of the College of Engineering and Architecture completed the University convention delegation.

Dean Green was a member of a committee reporting on irrigated agriculture and water resources.

NU Student Comments On European Trip

"Agricultural and industrial practices are the main differences between Yugoslavia and Russia," Joan Krueger, University senior, said at a Hiram Club meeting Wednesday.

While touring Yugoslavia last summer, Miss Krueger discussed industrial and agricultural problems with governmental officials and journalists.

Cooperative farms on a voluntary basis, machinery owned by the individual farmer, self-set production goals, and self-selected markets are just a few of the many steps taken in the break from Communist Russia, she said.

With everyone rushing to the Cornhusker office to make last minute picture appointments, the editor appointed one of the section heads to handle the appointment book.

Everyone who entered the office was confronted with her question—"Would you like to make an individual picture appointment?"

She became embarrassed, however, when she was informed that one person whom she just asked was none other than Frank M. Hallgren, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs.

Beauty Queen Judging Set Wednesday

Judging to determine the 12 finalists for Cornhusker Beauty Queen will be held Wednesday night in the Faculty lounge of the Union, according to Bernice Wishnow, Beauty Queen section head of the 1953 Cornhusker.

Houses are asked to submit the names of their candidates to Harriet Wenke in the Cornhusker office no later than 3 p.m. Tuesday. Each house is entitled to one candidate for every 25 Cornhuskers sold in that house.

The names of the 12 beauty queen finalists will be announced at the Mortar Board Ball, Dec. 12. The finalists and the six Eligible Bachelors will be presented during the dance intermission.

Colin Jackson To Speak At University Tuesday

A prominent British lecturer, broadcaster and writer, Colin Jackson, will speak at a University Convocation Tuesday night.

The convocation, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Love Library auditorium, is not an All-University Convocation. No classes will be dismissed for that hour.

Jackson has lectured at universities throughout the United States and Canada, and spent last summer as a guest lecturer at the University of Kansas City summer session.

During World War II, Jackson was a major in the India Army for five years, serving throughout the Middle East and also in Italy.

After completing graduate studies at Oxford, he toured South and East Africa studying political and economic problems. He also carried out an extensive tour of the Middle East, India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Malaya in 1949 to investigate social and political situations.

Jackson is now preparing a book comparing the aims, methods and achievements of American and British Universities. To gather material for the book, he plans to remain in the United States until early in 1953.

When in England, Jackson broadcasts frequently for British Broadcasting Company on British and American affairs. He also lectures for the Imperial War College and the Bankers Institute. At present, he is lecturing on British social history at the University of Kansas City.

Jackson's appearance here is being sponsored by the University Convocations committee.

Activities Queen Filings Due Today

Friday is the filing deadline for Activities Queen applications, according to Harriet Wenke, chairman of special events for the All University Fund.

Candidates will be announced Monday.

Eleven campus organizations eligible to nominate a sophomore coed for the honor: BABW, Cornhusker, The Daily Nebraskan, Coed Counselors, Union Activities, Builders, YWCA, Tassels, WAA, and AWS.

The AUF executive board will interview the candidates Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Room 313 of the Union. Six finalists will be chosen on the basis of quality of participation in activities, interest, enthusiasm, scholarship, and ability to work with people.

The names of the finalists will be made public on November 20. The Queen will be chosen on Dec. 10 at the AUF auction by ticket balloting.

Swindler To Speak Sunday At Presby

"From the Hellbox," a discussion of religion and journalism, will be Dr. William F. Swindler's topic Sunday afternoon at the Presbyterian Congregational Student house.

Dr. Swindler, director of the University School of Journalism, will address an open meeting which any University student may attend. The meeting will begin at 3 p.m.

Special invitations have been sent to Presbyterian and Congregational journalism students, but any interested student is welcome. Arrangements for Dr. Swindler's address were made by The Post, Presby house publication, under the direction of the editor, Mary Kay Mundeil.

Ag Union Hobby Show Invites Student Entries

The general entertainment committee of the Ag Union is sponsoring a hobby show, to begin Monday.

Any student interested in displaying his hobby should contact Mrs. Peters in the Ag Union office immediately.

Mrs. Peters asks that students displaying hobbies make a list so that there will be no mistakes in returning the collections. The collections will be locked in so that there will be no chance of losing them. All Ag students are invited to bring their collections in for display.

Religious Groups To Study Union

Baptist and Disciple (Christian) youth groups will hold a series of three joint meetings to study their denominational histories and the proposed plan of union between the two denominations.

The first meeting will be held Sunday at 5 p.m. in the First Christian Church, 16th and K.

Olga Arrago, Donna Keys, and Gerald Britney will present the history of the Baptist Church. The second meeting will be at the Baptist Student House. The final meeting will concern the possibility of combining the groups.
