Proposed Ticket Ban Is Defeated

Motion Suggests $500 Prom Loan

The Student Council Wednesday put its stamp of approval on the Junior-Senior Class Board efforts to sponsor a successful Junior-Senior Prom for all University students.

By a 20 to 3 vote, the Council passed the following motion:

"That the treasurer of the Student Council request a $500 supplementary budget to the proper University authorities, to be loaned to the Junior-Senior Class Board under the following conditions:

"a. That the prom be underwritten by the members of the Junior and senior classes.

"b. That the class members will be under no obligation unless at least 1,400 signatures are obtained."

The action followed an appeal by Don Pieper, president of the senior class and chairman of the Junior-Senior Class Board, in which he reported results of a recent poll regarding the prom and submitted a proposed budget "necessary for a successful prom."

Pieper said his appeal stemmed from Tuesday night's meeting of the Junior-Senior Class Board, at which members showed "a great deal of enthusiasm" for sponsoring a successful prom, and thus, "justifying their existence, in a sense."

Results of the poll, as reported by Pieper, indicated that, of 462 students polled, 339 favored holding a Junior-Senior Prom. Four hundred thirty students said they would attend the prom if a nationally well known band were playing. If a band such as a regionally well known band were playing, the poll showed that 191 students would attend, and 205 would not. One hundred thirty-two indicated they would attend if a local band were playing and 282 said they would not attend. Of the 462 polled, Pieper said, those favoring an informal prom totaled 322, while 119 wanted it formal.

The poll also included a preference rating of possible places to hold a prom. The vote on this point was: Turnpike, 157; and Coliseum, 54.

Pieper informed the Council that proms in past years have been "anything but successful." He said last year class officers and Class Council members underwrote the prom and had to pay $10.80 apiece.

Jim Collins, speaking as a Junior Class Council member, said he felt a "definite responsibility" to the members of his class to make the prom a success. At Tuesday night's meeting, at which the Class Board discussed its continued existence, Collins said he would be "the last to resign" in case the Board felt its existence was not warranted.

Other Board members at Tuesday's meeting indicated that if no prom were held, there would be little reason for class officers and Council members. For this reason, Pieper said, the Board members put their full support behind the proposed prom.

The proposed prom budget, presented at Student Council meeting, included about $1,850 for a name band, $300 for the Coliseum, $100 for publicity and $400 for taxes.

Immediately after the Council meeting Wednesday, three Class Board members conferred with Duane Lake, managing director of the Union, in regard to joint sponsorship of the prom. Lake said he planned to submit to the Union Activities Board a plan for a joint Union-Class Board sponsorship.

NEBRASKAN

Nominees Swell To 13 Last Day

Ruth Odell, Margaret Hawkins and Robert Knoll complete the list of nominees for Outstanding Nebraskan.

Nominations for the award closed Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Names of one faculty member and one student who receive the award will be announced in the Friday issue of The Daily Nebraskan.

In the letter nominating Ruth Odell, the writer said, "She displays in her classes a warmth and humanness that is, after all, the foundation on which a university must rest. She takes a personal interest in her students and makes them feel that they are welcome to come and talk to her at any time."

Miss Hawkins was nominated in two letters. One letter stated, "Her cheerful patient hand is never reluctant to aid campus women who come to her. She's a loyal Nebraskan if there ever was one for she follows our fortunes in games, elections and campus activities of all kinds. Her contacts are with so many different groups both on and off the campus that we feel she has spread the true Nebraskan spirit far and wide."

Robert Knoll was nominated because, "His classes are packed with knowledge, yet they are fun to attend. Seldom is he so busy that he will not take time out to listen to a student's problems, discuss literature, or just plain gossip about the pleasures of campus life. He possesses a friendly quality too often lacking in many classes."

Nominations before Wednesday included: Ira Epstein, Dr. E. N. Anderson, Sylvia Krasne, Joan Hanson, Rocky Yapp, Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, Joan Krueger, Doris Carlson, Ed Husmann and Wayne White.

Epstein is a member of the Innocents Society and Yell King for 1952-53. His other activities include Athletic Board of Control, "N" club and secretary of Corn Cobs." Epstein is a freshman in Law College and president of Sigma Alpha Mu.

The letter nominating Dr. Anderson stated his qualifications for the award, "The way he has faced this serious problem, his patience under attack, his magnanimous attitude towards his severest critics, and his integrity, that despite criticism, has led him to continue to do what he knows to be right—these things lift his ordinary cast to the level of significance."

TRY, TRY AGAIN Registration Gate Crash-Proof

By DICK COFFEY Staff Writer

Registration entrance checkers have nabbed over 16 students trying to crash registration every hour. Various methods have been tried to get by the checkers, but none seem to work.

Some students work very hard at changing the numbers on their cards, but it usually turns out into a big smudge. The best way to do this is to use ink eraser. There are two solutions and you apply the solution in the bottle labeled one, first.

When this is dry you apply the second solution. The original numbers should have disappeared, but they never do. Then the forger is furious and usually ends up with a hole in the little yellow card, after trying to erase it.

Don't be discouraged, there is a much easier way—try the back door. If this isn't successful you might try saying you are an athlete or on the Daily Nebraskan or Cornhusker. This doesn't work either—they have a check off list.

One student said that she had tried telling the checkers that she had left her glove in the ROTC lounge but was turned down and it was really the truth.

If there are any other possible means of getting in ahead of your number it's beyond me. I would appreciate any suggestions.

Oh well, what's the use. Even after you get in you have so much trouble. If the section you wanted isn't closed, you have to stand in a line several blocks long. Most people spend half their time erasing to transfer sections and by this time the other section is closed and you have to run all over campus trying to find your adviser to approve another course.

Even after all your careful strategy you still run into difficulties, but then there are the lucky students who "buzz right through."

Left Overs

Doctor: Has your husband taken the medicine I prescribed? A tablet before each meal and a small whiskey after?

Wife: Maybe he's a few tablets behind, but he's months ahead on the whiskey.

You just can't let a little warm weather and thawing fool you! It was just the prelude to the cold freezing weather and drifting snow that we will have today. Temperatures will range in the 20's today and here's hoping you didn't send your long underwear and slip-proof boots home to mother.

The Red Cross lecturer was visiting one of the fraternity houses on campus to boost the drive for blood. In the course of the lecture he said, "Of course, all of you know what the inside of a corpse is like."

Whereupon the chairman remarked, "Most of us do, but you'd better explain it for the benefit of those who have never been inside one."

The hardest thing about making money last—is making it first.

Man: Person who falls in love with a face and makes the mistake of marrying the whole girl.

A lady of fashion was out airing her Pekinese when she stopped to look down into an excavation where men were working. A tractor was tugging away without success, trying to haul a giant crane out of the hole.

Presently the foreman approached the woman and asked, "Lady, could we borrow your Pekinese?"

"Whatever for?"

"We'll hitch him up and pull out that crane."

"What? Tie this poor little dog to that crane? It's impossible."

"That's all right, lady," leered the foreman. "We have whips."

All Junior men who have actively participated in campus activities please leave their name and address in the Innocents box in the basement of the Student Union by Friday.

Council Receives Alternate Plan

The Student Council Wednesday afternoon defeated a proposed amendment to the by-laws of the Council's constitution which would have outlawed the use of "a ticket prerequisite" in choosing "finalists for any campus election."

In its place Dean Linscott, chairman of the elections committee, proposed an amendment to the special elections article of the by-laws.

The amendment provided:

- "Only students with identification cards will be allowed to vote."
- "A voter will be allowed to cast one ballot."
- "A ballot may not be included on a ticket."

According to the Council's constitution the proposed amendment will come before the Council at its next meeting, Feb. 4.

Linscott presented the new amendment as a recommendation of the elections committee after an investigation of present ticket elections.

The proposed amendment "will work," he said. "It will satisfy parties on both sides of the argument. It will not stop ticket balloting, but it will stop the unfair practices carried on."

He referred to charges that organized houses purchase large numbers of ticket ballots and distribute them with the name of their candidates written on the ticket.

He said that he thought the three provisions would answer most of the objections of the women's houses supporting abolition of ticket balloting and also satisfy the organizations now using the practice.

Linscott presented the report of his committee on investigation of election methods. The committee conducted hearings at which representatives of Coed Counselors, Kosmet Klub, Builders, All University Fund and Junior-Senior Class Board presented information and opinions concerning their respective ticket-ballot elections.

Coed Counselors, the committee reported, has been "very lenient in the number of tickets allowed to one student" in voting for the outstanding booth at its Penny Carnival. Ticket voting counts 40 per cent in selection of the booth, 60 per cent being determined by faculty judges.

The committee reported that the Counselors board voted 8-7 in favor of a compromise solution resembling the amendment presented by Linscott. The board testified, however, that Counselors and the Carnival would be able to function if ticket balloting were banned.

Kosmet Klub told the committee that banning ticket balloting would cut receipts of its fall show by 40 per cent. The fall revue would not be eliminated but the quality of its productions would decline, the Klub said.

Truman Makes Final Report

WASHINGTON—President Truman predicted that the United States can achieve production of half a trillion dollars annually within a decade if it beats a potentially serious threat of depression after this year. The President made this statement in his last major message to Congress, the annual economic report.

Truman ignored the split in his Council of Economic Advisers which disagree on the outlook for deflation in the next three years when defense spending is due to taper off. He followed the conclusion reached by Chairman Leon Keyserling and Herbert C. Turner that if government and business move wisely and promptly to expand markets, the post-defense dip can be held to proportions they termed "manageable."

Truman's message dwelt on economic progress since 1929, a period roughly corresponding to that of his party's tenure in the White House. He emphasized the protections against economic collapse which have been developed in that period and cautioned President-Elect Eisenhower and the new Republican Congress against reducing foreign military or economic aid "sharply or prematurely."

Watershed Bills Introduced

LINCOLN—A bill for "home rule" watersheds was introduced in the Nebraska Legislature by six state senators Wednesday. The bill is designed to allow the formation of watershed districts to combat flood and soil erosion in the areas where the dangers originate. It is a result of a Legislative Council committee study authorized after a previous watershed bill was killed by a split vote of the 1951 Public Works Committee.

Under the new plan, a watershed district would be initiated by the filing of a petition with the county clerk. A majority of votes cast at an election after a public hearing would create the district.

Tax Measure Entered

LINCOLN—The first highway revenue measure was introduced in the State Legislature Wednesday. Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff introduced a 2 per cent sales tax bill for highway construction. The tax would be effective from Oct. 1, 1953 until Sept. 30, 1955, with all the revenue, above the cost of collection, going into the highway cash fund.

By matching the fund with Federal funds, it could mean $80 million for highway construction in Nebraska. The tax would apply to goods sold at retail in Nebraska, to services such as gas, electricity and water, and to goods bought outside the state for use in this state.
