

Human Relations Council Backs Mitchell In Letter

Regent Welsh's Press Views Create Alarm

The Executive Committee of the Lincoln Council of Human Relations backed Dr. C. Clyde Mitchell, chairman of the department of agricultural economics, Monday in connection with the right of a professor to express personal views.

In an open letter to the University Regents, the committee stated: "May we express our alarm at the views attributed in the press to Regent J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha and a chapter of the American Farm Bureau Federation, with regard to the continued tenure of Agricultural Economics Chairman C. Clyde Mitchell."

THE COMMITTEE was appointed in 1952 by the Lincoln mayor to promote amicable relations among racial and cultural groups and to study and make recommendations for dealing with conditions which strain these relations. Members include representatives of the University faculty and administration, Richard B. Johnson, administrative assistant of the Student Health Service; James M. Reinhardt, chairman of the department of sociology, and Frank Z. Glick, director of the Graduate School of Social Work.

AN ARTICLE written by Dr. Mitchell, advocating fixed price supports for farmers rather than flexible supports, drew unfavorable comment from the Hall County Farm Bureau after it appeared in "Capper's Farmer."

A members of the Board of Regents, J. Leroy Welsh, of Omaha, criticized Dr. Mitchell for his "writings and speeches... made over the state."

The Farm Bureau requested that the University Regents "take action against Mitchell." The Regents, however, decided Saturday to wait until this week's meeting before taking any definite stand.

IN THE letter, the committee said, "Our point of view is that of the American Association of University Professors, which, speaking for its 42,000 members in its 88th Annual meeting at Chicago, March 27-28 of this year, declared:

"Experience has abundantly demonstrated that neither the organizational affiliations of a teacher, if lawful, nor his social, economic, political or religious opinions, however difficult for others to understand and however distasteful they may be, are sufficient evidence of disqualification for work in the academic profession.

"The tests of the fitness of a college teacher should be his integrity and his professional competence, as demonstrated in instruction and research."

"THE AMERICAN university exists to serve the enlightened, felt needs of the local, national and world community and not the exclusive purposes of any special interest group. Within this frame work, there must always be room for every kind of honest, informed opinion."

The officers of the Executive Committee are: President William Brown, of the Family Service Association; Vice-President Sidney H. Alexander Jr., executive secretary of the Urban League; Secretary Mrs. William Byron Davis, member of the Urban League and past officer of the Council of Church Women, and Treasurer Mrs. Ada McGinnis, an accountant-clerk at the City Hall.

OTHER MEMBERS are Miss Grace Bennett, executive secretary of the Lincoln YWCA; Herbert W. Burton, head of the boys' department at Wells and Frost; Rev. Isaiah Dumas, minister of the Unitarian Church; Mrs. Louis Horne, chairman of the Women's Guild; Ferner King, insurance salesman; Robert T. Malone, director of Unemployment Insurance in Lincoln; Mrs. Grace McCoslin, of the Nebraska State Employment Agency; Rev. Vin White, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Urania Wedgewood, member of the Lincoln Business and Professional Women's Club.

Knowles Views NU Coeds As Adventurous Or Average

"There are average activities and those that are potentially adventurous," Rev. Rex Knowles, student pastor of Presbyterian - Congregational House, told Coed Counselors at a mass meeting held Tuesday evening in the Union.

"Pep and size characterize average activities while power and significance are qualities of the adventurous organization," Knowles went on to say, "and the average girl will go through college taking part in average activities. She will participate in campus social life, study to a moderate degree, show school spirit and work in a few campus organizations."

"The adventurous girl," the student pastor said, "will achieve much in the realm of ideas as well as studies. She will become acquainted with people and above all she will share."

Knowles emphasized that some girls are "eternally lonely" and never realize a full college life. These girls, he believed, think other people are trying to wrong them in some manner.

"Our opinion of others is reflected within ourselves and our opinion of the University and people is reflected in the way we act," Knowles said. He concluded by saying that "what you think other people are doing to you is often responsible for your opinion of others—and their opinion of you."

'Caine Mutiny' Stage Show Set For Thursday Opening

Reduced Prices For Students

Student tickets are available until Thursday noon for "The Caine Mutiny Courtmartial" to be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Tickets are being sold at the union booth. The special student price is $1.25.

Dick Powell is the director of the stage production of the courtroom scene from Herman Wouk's recent novel "The Caine Mutiny." The best-seller derives its name from the non-existent mine-sweeper Caine.

IN THE Union-sponsored production Henry Fonda is cast as the shrewd lawyer Lt. Greenwald who defends Lt. Maryk, John Hodiak, accused of mutiny by Capt. Queeg, Lloyd Nolan.

Lt. Maryk pleads not guilty to Queeg's charge by declaring Queeg insane and claiming he had to be relieved of his command in the interest of ship and crew. Maryk had taken command of the Caine during a violent tropical storm.

The production, slated for Broadway in January, presents the courtroom scene during the trial and shows the battle of Greenwald's wits against overwhelming evidence.

THE THREE raised student sections will be on the main floor between public seating areas costing $3 and $4 per ticket. Balcony seats are $2 and above.

A special extended stage for the production is in construction. It will be built by the Nebraska Masquers working in coordination with the Union.

The extended stage has been designed to increase visibility and improve acoustics which should increase the feeling of the audience that they are actually taking part in the action.

Mutiny Ticket Sales Slow-Lake

Production Attracts Capacity Crowds On Route Here

Union Director Duane Lake reported Tuesday that ticket sales for "The Caine Mutiny Courtmartial" production are about six days behind the usual sales on Union presentations.

He added he was surprised at the poor student response, and said the more expensive general public tickets are selling rapidly. Lake went on to say reduced-price tickets for students are made available because the Union productions are primarily given as student entertainment.

THE PRODUCTION includes top-notch performers and has played to capacity crowds during its tour. Under the direction of Dick Powell, members of the cast include John Hodiak, Lloyd Nolan, Henry Fonda, Russell Hicks, Stephen Chase, Charles Nolte, Ainslie Pryor, Robert Gist, and Eddie Firestone.

Lake said that in choosing presentations, the Union selects shows for cultural values as well as entertainment. The show "Caine Mutiny Courtmartial" ranks at the top of the two criterion because of an excellent cast, production and direction, he noted.

THE UNION lost money on the First Drama Quartet, Lake said, and that show went on to become one of the top Broadway productions of the year. He added that he thought the same thing might happen with "The Caine Mutiny Courtmartial" production—"we lose money on a show that becomes famous."

However, Lake said, the Union did show a net profit on its productions last year. The wonderful response by students to Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians and "The Biggest Show of 1953" made up for losses on the productions that did not seem to appeal to University students.

Citizenship Project Research Completed

Circulation Set For Near Future

"Citizenship Education for Secondary School," a published research project financed by the Nebraska American Legion and directed by the Nebraska Citizenship Education Project at Teachers College, will be ready for circulation in about two weeks.

Dr. Royce Knapp, professor of secondary education who is director of the project, made this announcement Thursday.

LAST MARCH, the American Legion made a resolution commending Nebraska public schools for their work in promoting good citizenship in students. At this same time, they established a fund of $1,000 to pay for the research, writing and printing of this pamphlet concerning civic education in secondary schools.

A master's thesis by Ralph E. Kellogg, social studies teacher at Pueblo, Colo., concerning background studies of recent developments in citizenship education is a source of information in the pamphlet.

DR. KNAPP did the general editing and writing of legislative and administrative requirements for civic education in Nebraska. Other authors of the 85-page publication are Lauren Sewitow, social studies teacher at Scottsbluff who selected and edited visual aids; and Willis D. Moreland, instructor in citizenship and education at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y., who was in charge of pamphlet literature.

Paul M. Allen, research assistant in the Nebraska Cooperative School Study Council wrote and edited material on administration of the citizenship program.

"History was made in Nebraska when the American Legion underwrote this project," Dr. Knapp said, "and this is the first time that such a group sponsored such a project on education."

Indo-Chinese Strife Compared To Korean

Clauser Reviews War Situation

The Indo-Chinese war is no longer colonialistic; it can now be compared to the Korean war in importance and possible consequences.

This was the opinion of Dr. Hubert Clauser, bio-chemist from the University of Paris, in his speech Tuesday morning on the situation in French Indo-China.

Dr. Clauser, addressing history classes, added that if French forces are defeated, the Communists will have a relatively free path in taking over Siam and Burma and threatening India.

FRANCE'S PRESENT military expenditures are equal to the country's total non-military expenditures, Clauser said. This explains in part he added, the apparent slowness of France's rehabilitation and reconstruction program.

Clauser also pointed out that the American share of financing the war is increasing. In 1952 the U. S. supplied 32 per cent of the cost. This will increase to 70-80 per cent in 1954.

Coffee Hour Friday

Instructors and graduate assistants may attend a coffee hour Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Union Faculty Lounge.

Miss Sue E. Lane, instructor in the Classics Department, will be hostess.

According to the provisions of the Korean armistice agreement, all prisoners must be given their freedom in 120 days after being turned over to the repatriation commission.

A recent suggestion made by Indian Prime Minister Nehru was that the question of release of the POWs should be considered anew by both sides in the Korean controversy if the proposed political conference did not take place.
