Regents Board To Accept Bids From Manufacturers For Room Furnishings For New Men's Residences

The Board of Regents Saturday accepted the low bid of Pegler & Co. of Lincoln for kitchen equipment for the new men's dorms.

Summer Sessions Planned

Program Lists Clinics, Forums

A bulletin from the office of admissions has been released concerning plans for the 1954 summer sessions at the University. Varied instructional programs featuring public affairs clinics and forums on world trouble spots will be offered during the summer. Students may pick up credit hours in most of the courses offered in the regular fall and winter schedule. Outstanding University staff members and noted guest instructors and lecturers will be on hand for the summer courses.

CONGRESSMAN CARL Curtis from Nebraska and Amjad Ali, Minister to the United States from Pakistan, will lecture during the public affairs clinics.

Other noted speakers who have been invited for the summer sessions are Roger Albright, Director of Educational Motion Pictures of America; Walter Cocking, editor of the magazine "School Executive"; John Furbay, representative from Trans-World Airlines; Willard Mouch, Latin-American specialist in the Foreign Operations Administration of the U. S. Government; Wayne O. Reed, Assistant U. S. Commissioner of Education; Marilyn Link, Executive Secretary of Link Aviation Promotion of Education in Aeronautics, and Charles Ford, Vice-President of Compton's Encyclopedia.

THE SUMMER sessions will be divided into two sections, the first a six-weeks session from June 9 to July 16 and the second an eight-weeks session from June 9 to July 30. Students may obtain 6 hours credit in the six-weeks session and 9 hours in the eight-weeks session. June 9 is the date for general registration. Classes will begin on June 10th.

"WE WOULD like to maintain a year round educational system at the University," Frank Sorenson, director of summer sessions, said, "and we invite all interested students to attend summer school."

NU Faculty Members Write Recently Released Publications

Several members of the University faculty have recently had books released by publishers or have had articles appearing in periodicals.

DR. ALBIN T. Anderson, associate professor of history, has an article appearing in the January issue of "World Politics." The title of the article is "Origins of the Winter War: A

Former NUer Plans Political Career

A former student at the University may enter the race for a seat in the State Legislature. She is Mrs. John C. Mason of Lincoln. Mrs. Mason entered the University in September of 1942 and studied business administration.

MRS. MASON, who thinks the Nebraska Legislature could use some women members, reportedly may enter the race. The 30-year-old Lincoln housewife and mother of two said she had not definitely made up her mind.

Sorensen Named To National Board

Frank E. Sorensen, chairman of the University department of educational services, has been named to the technical assistance board of the Link Foundation. The newly-created board will supervise the national program of the Link Foundation, which promotes the advancement of scientific, technological, general education and charitable projects.

Air ROTC Plans Florida Field Trip

The Air ROTC department is planning a field trip to Coco, Florida in the near future, according to Major John Truell. "The trip to Patrick Air Force Base (Coco) will be similar to the field trip we recently took to Nellis AFB, Las Vegas," Major Truell said.

"We contemplate making these trips to various bases in the United States as a portion of the Air ROTC program at Nebraska," Major Truell said. Major Truell also announced that "certain qualified freshmen will be deferred as soon as grade reports come out." Freshman attaining a certain undisclosed scholastic average will receive the benefit of this deferment.

washer, ranges, steam kettles, kettle racks, canopy, five small refrigerators, an ice cream cabinet and other equipment. A large walk-in refrigerator and other refrigeration equipment will be purchased from another firm.

Architectural planning and availability of merchandise contributed to reducing the cost below the original estimate of $100,000, according to the office of procurement and purchasing.

BIDS FOR room furnishings and furniture will be accepted after an investigation of designs and materials submitted by various manufacturers. Manufacturers designed furniture incorporating specifications set up by the University and will submit samples for inspection.

Bids are now being accepted for chairs for individual rooms. Specifications require an exceptionally sturdy chair especially built for dormitory service.

DESKS ARE being considered which have a special top surface highly resistant to stains and abrasion. Desks will be built according to dimensions which the dormitory management has found to be most suitable from experience with present dormitories. Top surface material is being tested in the chemistry department with the idea of possible later use on laboratory desk and table tops.

Beds in the new buildings will be 36 inches wide and 79 inches long—7 inches longer than most beds made today. The beds will be built of solid maple and incorporate a coil spring section under the center of the net spring. This type of construction was designed particularly for dormitory service.

Former University Student Gains Recognition For Welfare Work

Jim Adams Supervises $750 Capitol Charity Job

Jim Adams, former University student who was one of two students appointed Senate jobs after the fall election of 1952, has gained recognition through his charity in the national capital.

Washington welfare officials invited to attend the conference, estimated Adams engineered and supervised a $750 clean-up and repair job at a District of Columbia juvenile delinquents' home, Adams, a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity at George Washington University and plegemaster of the freshman class, organized 21 pledges in an all-day work session at the home.

Presbyterian Conference To Open Friday

The Presbyterian Church Vocational Conference will be held at the Presbyterian Congregational student house Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Purpose of the conference is to contact those interested in church vocations, especially those interested in Presbyterian Church vocations.

THE CONFERENCE will include a dinner Friday at 6:15 p.m. and a film strip and speech. At 8 p.m. a panel will discuss "Educational Requirements and Opportunities."

Panels discussing the specialized ministries, music, rural preaching and nursing will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. In the afternoon discussion groups and individual counseling services will be held. A banquet will be held at 5:30 p.m. A worship service will close the conference.

A REGISTRATION fee of $2 will be charged for Friday dinner, Saturday lunch and Saturday dinner. High school juniors and seniors as well as college students are the building was built about five years ago.

THE HOME is a detention home for juvenile delinquents whose cases are awaiting disposition. Built to accommodate 43 children, the home averages a daily population of 90 and has weekend over flows as high as 130.

The fraternity-sponsored "Help Day" was donated as a public service and to encourage a change from the traditional "Hell Week" of many colleges and universities. The project was widely publicized in Washington papers, radio and TV stations. A story of the "Help Day" will appear in a spring issue of the "National Education Association Journal."

RECENTLY ADAMS, a junior majoring in political science, was elected president of his Delta Tau Delta chapter.

Adams, along with Dan Tolman was given the opportunity of transferring to George Washington University in Washington, D. C. Tolman returned shortly and has continued his work at NU. Adams remained and kept his Senate job under the sponsorship of Nebraska's senior senator, Hugh Butler. Both students were active in Nebraska Young Republicans prior to the election.

Phi Chi Theta Names Officers

New officers of Phi Chi Theta, women's business administration honorary, are: president, Martie Hill; vice president, Wilma Larson; secretary, Kay Pasco, and treasurer, Dottie Sears.

Program co-chairmen are Corliss Kruse and Pat Morgan. Rush Chairman is Barbara Medlin.

The group will meet Wednesday, when a recording of a student's interview with an insurance company will be played.

Students Speak On Aspects Of Prayer In All-NU Service

The All-University Day of Prayer for students was observed by the University in an all-campus service Sunday in the University Episcopal Chapel.

Miss Jan Osborn, sponsor of YWCA estimated that between 100 and 150 students attended the service. She said that four or five student houses were well represented. Miss Osborn added that she thought the congregation was a "good" but not a "complete" representation of the University.

IN DIRECTING the service, the Religious Welfare Council tried a new experiment. Instead of having a speaker from off campus give the address, the council presented three University students who spoke on the various aspects of prayer.

Don Hogg, a senior majoring in philosophy, spoke on "The Purpose of Prayer." In his message, Hogg emphasized the importance of not allowing the functionalism of one's life to become a part of one's praying.

MARIE LINDGREN, a graduate student in social work, spoke on "The Nature of Prayer." She said that prayer was more than a means of thanking and petitioning God; it was also the means by which God directed the lives of His petitioners.

In his message, "The Power of Prayer," Dale Johnson said that the power of prayer was the "power to remove burdens from the soul."

The order of service began with an invocation and a hymn of praise. The Litany of Confession and the Prayer of Thanksgiving followed.

PRAYERS of intercession were given to "bring before God the needs of the students of the world." The benediction asking that the fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with the student, ended the program.

University students directed and conducted the entire service. Jack Rogers, chairman of the Religious Welfare Council committee, presided over the service.

Vaughn Monroe says: "In high school, I spent all my spare time playing with local bands. I had a lot to learn before I could lead my own band. I studied singing; eventually did the vocals — and found that the colleges kind of liked my recordings. Been performing for 'em ever since!"

Reorganization Planned By YDs

Plans to reorganize a Young Democratic Club on campus were revealed Tuesday night at a meeting of students headed by Ed De Mar, organizational chairman.

An organizational rally is planned for 7:30 p.m. March 3 in the Union. A speaker, to be announced later, will address the meeting, which will be open to any regularly enrolled student or faculty member interested in the Democratic Party.

A large turnout is predicted by De Mar for the March 3 rally.

Union Dance Lessons To Re-Open March 3

Due to popular demand, a new program of social dance lessons will be offered this spring by the Union dance committee. Miss Donna McCandless, professional dance instructor, will teach classes for beginning and advanced dancers.

Lessons will begin on March 3 and continue for six weeks. They will be held every Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

Students may request instruction in any type of social dancing. Lessons are open to all University students.

Trials Of A Disc Jockey Forseen By Radio Major

Late-Hour Program Characterized By Commercials, Coffee, Records

By NEIL UNGER
(Neil Unger, University radio major, has had for many years one ambition — to be a disc jockey.)

Like many students, he has certain ideas concerning his future life.

Here, for all prespective disc jockeys, or for any student having thoughts about his future, is an amusing speculation about a desired career.)

When people die, there is usually a lot of publicity. You read about it in the newspaper or perhaps hear it over the radio or television. I wonder how many people realize that people "die" every day without one line of notice in the newspaper or one word on the airways.

The disc jockey is one of these unlucky few. This tale relates the futility of the situation of this poor soul, the Radio Disc Jockey.

Twelve to four are the hours when most of the human race are blissfully and peacefully pounding their ears. But not our little man, who is hard at work at the local station. Very often he is the only living object there, and if by chance you happen to get lost and wander up to our dear little friend's studio, you would find him "hard" at work—trying to keep awake.

HIS DESK is always in shambles. He wouldn't feel at home if it weren't. A pot of black coffee is steaming near by and a bunch of scribbled notes—laughingly called commercials—are in front of him (though I doubt if he could read them if it weren't for the coffee at his left). At his right are his records, piled rather high. The four hour extravaganza usually consists of coffee, records, commercials, coffee, records, and still more coffee.

Yet, even more interesting is this happy man's clientel. Most of them are insomniacs, who are trying to keep their minds blank.

MOTORISTS who are trying to stay awake tune in our old friend, the Disc Jockey. And what does he play? "Sleepy Time Gal," "I'll See You in My Dreams," and "Dream and Music" with a real "solth" beat to it. Now what happens? One dead motorist.

For the most part nobody bothers him and he doesn't bother them. I said, "for the most part." However, there are times when peculiar things occur. Occasionally people telephone for requests.

AS THE HOUR of four approaches, although ever so slowly, he says the magic words, "It is time for our theme." He picks up his coat and hat, and leaves a deserted radio station. He starts for home through the sleeping city.

The sun is peeking its orange head above the skyline as he sticks his key in the keyhole and makes his way up to his lonely one-room flat. Lying on his bed, smoking a cigarette, and listening to the city awake, he wonders if it is all worth it.

Kicked in the Face by a Bootee

OR...Who Ever Called it a "Blessed Event"?

Once there was a Sophomore who had a Sister. He also had a Girl. A Coincidence would have it, both females labored under the Baptismal Handicap of Ermintrude. Small world.

The sister (call her Ermintrude I for the record) got married. In due process, she produced an Offspring. So, fraternal-like, Our Boy sat down and wrote her a Letter of Congratulations, starting "I hear you have a Baby..." Only trouble was, he forgot to mail it. Went off for the Weekend, leaving it on his desk, where his Roommate spotted it.

The letter, being The Soul of Honor, didn't read any farther than the lead-off... which was, logically enough, "Dear Ermintrude." Jumping at a Conclusion, he addressed an envelope to Ermintrude II, slapped on a stamp and dropped the Missive in the Mails.

Our Sophomore still has a sister named Ermintrude. No Girl. And he still has No Idea why.

Had he but had a Telegrammer, he'd have known Enough to send Sis and Spouse a handsome Congratulations telegram. (Telegrammer — an idea-packed, pocket-size guide to telegraph use. To get one, free, just write to Room 1727, Western Union at 60 Hudson St., New York City.) Telegrams get to the Right Destination... carry Good News, Invitations, Bids for Dates (or Cash) more resultfully than any other Form of Communication. When you have a message to send that Means Something, just call Western Union or sprint to your Western Union office.
