

KUON-TV

NU Television Set For Monday Start

University station KUON-TV will be dedicated Monday when it formally goes on the air at 9 a.m. University and state dignitaries have been invited to attend the dedication ceremonies, Bob Schlater, producer-director said. Governor Robert Crosby has notified station officials he will be present. Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin will make the dedication address. Ken Keller, director of public relations, will act as master of ceremonies. University personnel will be introduced and a preview of coming programs will be presented. The ceremonies are scheduled from 9 to 10:45 a.m., when a filmed program will be shown until 11 a.m. A telecourse on the geography of Europe will be presented by Dr.

Colbert C. Held of the department of geography. A telecourse is a televised college course without credit.

Telecourses will be offered for credit next semester through the University Extension Division. Other non-credit telecourses being shown this semester include "The Flower Box" and "Yesterday in Nebraska" and a survey in health. Wayne Whitney, University Extension Horticulturist, will explain the care and culture of house plants and how they can be effectively arranged on the table on "The Flower Box" at 10 a.m. on Mondays.

Dr. James C. Olson, lecturer in history, will explore features of the Nebraska State Historical Society Museum on "Yesterday in Nebraska" at 10:30 Thursday.

Tom Gable, University public health specialist, will conduct a course in health.

The program schedule of "live" programs and telecourses will be completed by filmed educational programs presented through affiliation with Educational Television and Radio Center, Ann Arbor, Michigan, of which KUON-TV has become a member.

Among the filmed programs to be presented are American Political Parties, explaining the role of political parties in democracy; Of Men and Ideas, exploring topics ranging from economics to semantics; Great Ideas, Thursday's interviewee being Mortimer Adler, philosopher and teacher and This is the Life, dealing with the problems of a typical American family presented in co-operation with the National Council of Churches.

Station KUON-TV will use the facilities of KOLN-TV located at 40th and Vine.

Registrations Due For Study Course

Friday is the last day to register for the Study Improvement course sponsored by the Junior Division and Counseling Service.

Such areas as planning time, specific methods of studying assignments, note-taking and preparation for examinations are included in the course. The material is intended for the student who is primarily interested in improving his method of study.

There will be four sections of the course, two on Mondays and Wednesdays and two on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Classes will begin Nov. 1, and the course will last for three weeks.

Registration is in the Junior Division office in Temporary A.

Chancellor Addresses Physicians

Chancellor Clifford Hardin spoke to 500 physicians at the Omaha Midwest Clinic Society meeting at the Paxton Hotel Thursday. "All of us—the members of your profession, the medical educators and the general public," he said, "can give thanks for the vision which has enabled us to utilize rapidly the benefits of fundamental research in medical education." Hardin said he is encouraged by the willingness of the medical profession to assist with the adjustment which medical schools are making in their programs to shift the emphasis from medical facts to medical principles.

The Chancellor also stated that physicians have been accorded a special place of leadership in the eyes of most laymen, a fact which brings into focus the need for education to consider the medical student first as a human being and then as a trainee in a highly responsible field.

Council Considers Possible Speakers

Discussion of possible commencement speakers was the main order of business at the Student Council meeting Wednesday.

Several speakers were considered, as well as the advisability of having political speakers at a University graduation.

Andy Smith, reporting for the elections committee, announced that 2150 ballots had been cast at the COA and UMOC election.

Judiciary chairman, Art Raun, told the Council that the constitutions of WAA and Orchestras had been returned to those organizations for revision.

Old Cornhusker 'Bunk'

Yearbooks Include Reading Directions, 'Voices Out Of Past,' Slams On Greeks

By GRACE HARVEY Staff Writer

"What is this so-called 'Student Life'?"

This was the introduction of the 1928 Cornhusker gave to a section of "fun 'n games." Anticipating that the average student would need some directions in order to get "the proper enjoyment from the reading of this bunk," one of the editors made out the following key:

1. Open the book to the student life section only when in the seclusion of your own room.

2. Make sure that the door is tightly bolted, otherwise someone may notice your facial expression when you find your true self revealed on one of the printed pages.

3. After finding your secrets (which you thought forgotten) disclosed, practice laughing. Then perchance you may be able to fool someone into thinking the book was wrong.

A section entitled "Voices out of the Past" listed classifications of fraternities and sororities from the 1911 Cornhusker. Some of the gems were:

Kappa Alpha Theta—Make good housewives. Noted for their talent, rather than their beauty. Sigma Chi—Members of the Anti-Saloon league. Recently entertained for Carrie Nation. Kappa Sigma—Late to bed and late to rise. Shrinks the brain from its normal size.

Alpha Tau Omega—Famous only for their grub. Would be ruined if the price of food should rise. Delta Tau Delta—Guardians of Tige. Prefer dog fights to formal parties despite the fact they own thirteen dress suits. Delta Gamma—Before making application for admission must present a certified copy of the Family Tree.

More slams were in order in a section in the 1927 Cornhusker entitled "Why You Should Join Us?" and subtitled "A Survey of the Various Rushing Talks Set Forth by Fraternities and Sororities During That Pleasant Little Week Early in September."

The refined Betas said, "Well, let's put on that old Beta button and we'll pass the loving cup around. Barger, bring us a couple of bottles of milk." The Phi Psis said, "You won't have to worry about probation, for we've discarded that."

Tri Deltas queried rushees, "Oh, have you been over there? How did you like them? Oh, you did? That's funny. You probably didn't get to know them very well, did you?" An Alpha Chi said, "Oh, being in activities means playing around over at Ellen Smith and being on drives for missionaries and things."

Acacias explained, "When you come into our institution you will be entering upon your first experience in life. Here we have men, real individuals who can hold their own any place. Let's see, you're 17 now. You can be initiated in four years." Sigma Chi said, "We're going to come up in scholarship next year, although we were twenty-fourth this last semester. What! You won't pledge! That's funny, you're the oddest fellow I've known for some time."

Sigma Nu—"Yes, we have a number of chapters. We're aiming at the million mark." Delta Upsilon—"Yes, we have the oldest fraternity on the campus today. It was discovered in 1834, ninety-three years and two months ago, to be exact. We are a fraternity though, and don't let them tell you any different." Phi Delta Theta—"You say you're from Omaha. Funny we haven't got a hold of you sooner; we have some awful good boys from Omaha." Farm House—"Just put on this button and we'll go out for a
