

WAA FAIRER SIDE Phys. Ed. Majors Hold Outing At WAA Cabin

By SAROL WILTSE
 Welcoming in the new year, several of the physical education majors held an over-night party at the WAA cabin. Since I am not a major, I was uninvited, but from what I heard it was quite an outing. The Misses Mulvaney, Becker, and Perbix were the sponsors for this affair. Despite the cold weather everyone came back in one piece and minus a few hours of sleep.

The WAA cabin is available to all groups for an overnight or cook-out. Having three rooms, including a kitchen, the cabin is well equipped for all excursions. For a small fee of two dollars — (We need the money to buy cokes for our board meetings) — the cabin is yours.

Two tournaments, basketball and table tennis, are in their second week of games.

Miss Wiltse

Basketball, a double elimination tournament, will be played by all teams at least twice regardless of a loss or default. However, if a team is forced to default, the members will be unable to participate in the next tournament. Table tennis is a single elimination tourney with all defaults being called promptly at 5:05 and 5:30.

Several changes were made in the heads of the tournaments last Wednesday at board meeting. Jan Shrader will head the table tennis tournament until the start of second semester when Barb Holmes will resume the tourney. Cis Lonsbrough will be in charge of the bowling tournament, replacing Cathy Hodder who was forced to drop WAA because of an injury she received in an automobile accident.

Starting the second semester, WAA will sponsor a trampoline Tuesday and Thursday at 5 p.m. for the experts as well as the amateurs. Joan Huessner will be in charge of the club, and members may sign up through their house reps.

Cornhuskers Grapplers Open Mat Season Against Minnesota

By MAX KREITMAN

With the Nebraska basketball quintet taking the week off, wrestling moves into action this Saturday in a meet with the University of Minnesota matmen at the Coliseum. It will be the season's opener for Don Strasheim's crew.

The Huskers will field a somewhat inexperienced team with John Crancer and Arnold Morton the only returning seniors. Both are two-year lettermen, Crancer wrestling in the 137 pound class and Morton weighing in at 157. Other returning lettermen for the Husker grapplers include Jack Bryans at 147, Marshall Nelson at 123, and Jim Owens at 130. These three lettermen are all juniors.

Gone from the 1954-55 roster are Charlie Bryant, the all-Big Seven football star and all-conference wrestling champ at 167 pounds and heavyweight Larry Goll.

Promising squadmen who will go to the mat wars for the first time include Bob Pickett, a high school standout from Cheyenne, Wyoming, who will be wrestling in the 167 pound division, and Jerry Wheeler, the former heavyweight mat champ from the state of Illinois, who did his prepping at Rock Island, Illinois, high school.

Other first-year men include Warren Diefendorf at 137, and Bob Walgren, a 123 pound junior from Platte Center. Another squadman, Marv Hein, will be ready to go at the semester. He is another heavyweight.

Last year experienced a bad year for the matmen, as they went winless through a twelve game schedule. They lost a close duel to the Minnesota squad last year 19-13. They also bowed to Mankato

State 19-9, Colorado State 21-3, Colorado University 25-2, Camp Carson, Colorado 21-9, Iowa University 31-3, Iowa State Teachers 27-3, South Dakota State 16-12, Kansas State 19-11, Cornell College 22-6, Wisconsin 25-3, and Iowa State College 22-8. They finished fifth in the Big 7 meet behind Oklahoma, Iowa State, Colorado, and Kansas State.

Besides the Minnesota tilt this Saturday, seven other matches are on tap before the Big 7 affair at Ames, Iowa. Following the Gopher clash, they meet South Dakota University there the 16th of January. They follow this up with Colorado State at Lincoln the 21st, and Kansas State the 28th at Manhattan. In State in Lincoln the 13th, and Iowa Teachers at Cedar Falls the 25th. They then round out their schedule with a meet the 1st of March against Iowa State at Ames and return home the 3rd of March to close out their regular schedule against the Colorado Buffs. They then trek to Ames for the finale at the Big 7 meet the 9th and 10th of March.

THE NEBRASKAN SPORTS

Gardner Stars: Individual Showings Pace IM Cinderfest

A lithe, mustachioed speedster by the name of Keith Gardner continued to cast his spell over Nebraska track followers. In the finals of the Intramural Track Meet last night, Gardner not only broke intramural standards but threatened conference records.

He opened the evening with a narrow win in the 60 yard dash over another frosh flash, Bennie Dillard, being clocked in :06.3. This was an intramural record and one tenth off the conference mark and only two tenths from the world standard. Making his performance even more amazing was the fact that spikes were not worn in accordance with the intramural ruling. Dillard was only a shadow behind the winner.

The applause had hardly died when the Jamaican streaked through the tape again in a :07.1 timing for the 60 yard high hurdles, tying a record. He also topped the timbers in a sizzling :07.1 in the low hurdles for another record.

He wrapped up the evening with a 22 foot effort in the broad jump. To make things even more complicated, his speciality? The 440, although he didn't enter it in the meet.

Another top performance was turned in by Dick Wood who bested Phi Delt teammate Dick Skold in the shotput with a heave of 51' 3/4". Skold had paced the prelims with a 49' 8".

In the independent division Don Ficke posted a 29.3 for the one lap run. Ficke had been in the background to the Gardner-Dillard duel earlier. Latham Mortensen took the mile with a 5:07.4 effort and J.V. Navarro won the 880 in 2:16.2.

In the fraternity competition Dan Farrington of Phi Delta Theta was clocked in a creditable :06.6 60.

For one more top race ATO Berdnie Randolph nudged teammate Rod Schroeder at the tape in a flight of low hurdles. Ken Pollard of Delta Upsilon captured the lows in :08.0 besting Randolph.

NU Tankmen Journey To KU Saturday

Nebraska tankmen once again take to the waterways as the Cornhusker mermen journey to Kansas University for a dual meet this Saturday.

The Huskers will be going after their second win of the season, having downed Grinnell College in Lincoln 58-31, Dec. 15. In their other meet, the Nebraskans swam to a tie with the Kansas State Wildcats 42-42.

Coach Hollie Lepley's swimmers are well on their way to improve their 2-3-2 mark of last year. Returning to the NU fold this year are four lettermen. They are Gene Cotter, a diver; Tom Houchen, an individual medalist in the breast stroke; Wyman Kenagy, a sprinter; and Bill Tagney, who competes in diving and the sprints.

With the return of Cotter, diving should be one of Nebraska's stronger events. He placed second in the Big 7 Championships in 1953. Other promising Nebraskans include Tagney, and Steve Gaines, a sophomore from Grand Island. Other sophomores who have looked good so far include Carl Bodensteiner, who was a double winner for NU against Grinnell, and Paul Schorr, a sophomore back-stroke from Lincoln.
