Blackeyed Peas: Freshman English Exams Provide Campus Humor

By LUCIGRACE SWITZER
Copy Editor

With exam fast approaching, it would seem the proper time to point out some errors which cropped up in freshman English exams at the University of Illinois.

"Whenever anyone called on the head of the government, the visitor was expected to stand while he sat."

"Tragedy, of course, has the inevitable sad ending; the lover loses the girl or dies in the attempt."

"Your telephone also brings inconvenience to you by ringing when you are cooking and are near a critical point of being cooked."

"Since George Washington, we have had some thirty odd presidents in the White House."

"Like all great Americans, Lee was called to his rest in the year 1870."

"The introduction of the gas driven motor put the finishing touches on the end of the horse."

"When we saw the Pacific, it was miles from the shore."

"Whether raining, snowing or hailing, every person in the audience stands, faces the flag, and if it is a man, he removes his hat."

"It is the fortunate housewife who is able to phone her grocer, repeat to him her specific desires and later unpack them in her own kitchen."

who is able to phone her grocer, repeat to him her specific desires and later unpack them in her own kitchen."

Better Relations

A headline in the North Carolina "Daily Tar Heel" probably presages better relations between the administration and the athletic department. The headline: "Chancellor Runs Into Side of Baseball Coach's Car."

Luncheon

A fascinating item from the Texas "Battalion" reports the consolidated schools luncheon menus for the week. In case anyone is interested the lucky kiddes got blackeyed peas on Wednesday, English peas, Thursday and (what a lucky break) mustard greens to end the week on Friday. That should end it.

Tour Pictures

Students who want on the Mor tar Board Foreign Student Tour and then ordered and paid for pictures taken on the Tour may pick up their pictures from Carole Unterseher in the Cornhusker Office, Union basement, any afternoon this week.
