Law Library Added

The new library addition to the Law College building, now nearing completion, will contain six book stack levels and a basement. The addition adds about 30 feet to the west of the present structure. Like the new administrative wing, the law library is financed by a one-mill tax levy.

Teachers College Wing

Work on the $600,000 administrative wing to the Teachers College building has progressed as far as the main steel work. The wing will be four stories high, and will contain administrative offices and provide for additional classroom space on the third floor of the Teachers College. When finished, the wing should do away with the temporary wooden buildings now employed for administrative offices and Teachers College classrooms.

NU Building Program Started

One of the largest building programs in the history of the University, involving over $6 million is unfolding on the campuses in Lincoln and Omaha this fall, according to John Selleck, University comptroller.

Plans call for an additional $1,300,000 to be spent enlarging the Student Union at 14th and R. Building will begin sometime this February.

In addition to Lincoln-Omaha construction, the University is also building new office buildings and laboratories at the Agricultural Experiment Stations in Scottsbluff and North Platte. The building projects are valued at $160,000 and $150,000 respectively.

Buildings under construction on the city campus include a $550,000 Student Health Center to be located at 15th & U. According to Selleck, the building will be completed sometime late in 1957. Approximately $850,000 is being spent on a new Administration Building presently under construction at 14th and R. The old Administration Building, located at 12th and R, will be used for academic purposes after a complete renovation.

A $750,000 Pharmacy Building being erected at 14th and Vine. The Pharmacy college is presently located on 13th street, directly adjacent to the Social Sciences Building.

The Law College is adding a new library costing $250,000. The structure will be part of the Law Building at 10th and R.

$480,000 is being spent on an addition to the Women's Dormitory at 16th and S. The wing will house approximately 125 girls.

Parts of two floors of Andrews Hall are being converted into X-ray and surgical rooms for the Dental College. Building costs for this project total $65,000.

Over $750,000 is being spent on a new biochemistry building located on the Ag campus.

A married student housing project is also under way on ag campus. Building costs are estimated at $400,000.

Two new dormitories, one for men and one for women, are being constructed on ag campus at a cost of $850,000. The Women's Dorm will house 65 and the Men's, 235.

The Colonial Terrace Housing project for faculty members was eliminated this summer. The building is valued at $350,000 and will house 36 couples.

The highlight of the building program in Omaha is the new $1,000,000 Nurses Home which will be a part of the medical school.

A $350,000 Service Building is also being constructed on the Omaha campus.

According to Selleck, finances for the building program are coming from the income from the new dormitories, the State Building Levy, a $3,750,000 bond issue, and a $10 increase in student fees.

Last year, as a part of the building program, a new psychiatric hospital was completed in Omaha and a school, University High, was built in Lincoln for $1,000,000.
