

Delt's, AXO's Win Displays:

Janis Davidson Chosen '56 Homecoming Queen

Janis Davidson, junior in Home Economics and a pledge of Chi Omega, was crowned 1956 University Homecoming Queen Saturday, to climax the traditional alumni and football weekend.

Nebraska-Missouri game by Carol Link, the 1955 Queen. She was escorted to the throne by Don Beck, Yell King, and was presented to the spectators in Memorial Stadium by Chancellor Clifford Hardin.

The Queen was selected from five finalists by an all-University vote Oct. 19.

Her activities include Tassels, women's pep organization, Coed Counselor's Board, and treasurer of CIL.

Attendants were the other four finalists, all junior members of Tassels as is Miss Davidson. They were Sandy Kadleck, Donna Sawyell, Janice Shrader and Nancy Tucker.

The judging of the displays by Mrs. Carl Deitermeyer, Mrs. Evalena Snipes, Kenneth Clark and Frank Clark took place Friday night.

The judging of the floats was made Saturday morning, and the disclosure of the winners in both events was announced at the Homecoming dance Saturday evening.

Alpha Chi Omega and Delta Tau Delta took top honors in the house display contest and were awarded the traveling trophies. The Alpha Chi's, winners of the women's division, followed the theme of "Safari we see, the Tigers will flee." A Corn Cob hunter with the help of several cannibals was scaring away the Tigers, indicating a Nebraska victory.

A similar theme was used by the Deltas for their "Tiger Hung." Husker football players were perched in a howdah on top of a large red elephant. The Huskers were shooting at Tigers that were being trampled upon by the elephant.

Second and third place honors in the women's division went to Delta Delta Delta, "Cool Mazou," which was a tiger in a block of ice, and Sigma Kappa, "Ding dong dell, Tiger's in the well," which was Tiger being lowered into a well.

Phi Gamma Delta fraternity won second place with their display "Testing Nu's Strength," a Husker hitting a carnival strength-tester that registered the score of a Husker victory. Alpha Tau Omega was third with "Testing The Tiger," a Tiger being taught his football by a Husker.

Honorable mentions were given to Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Nu. In the small house division Delta Sigma Phi won with their display, "Tiger Hung," a Tiger in a cave moaning, "With luck I'll be dead by noon." Second place went to Acacia and Theta Chi was third.

First place honors in the Homecoming float parade competition were shared by Adelphi, Delta Upsilon fraternity and the Varsity Dairy Club.

The dairy club won the campus organizations division with their "Tiger Fodder and Husker Milking Machine," which featured a live cow. Second place went to Builders.

Adelphi's "Melted the Tigers" for top honors in the Women's division. Terrace Hall was second.

A giant stork proclaimed that "The Alums are Expecting Victory" for the Delta Upsilon's winning float in the men's division. Second place went to Farmhouse.

It was estimated that 30,000 to 40,000 persons viewed the Homecoming displays Friday night.

Besides the presentation of the Homecoming Queen and the awarding of the trophies to the winning displays and floats, the Hilltoppers and Charlie Spivak completed the Homecoming Dance.

John Nelson, president of Corn Cobs, estimated that about 800 couples watched the Hilltoppers sing in spite of the fact that they had been stuck in a snow storm in South Dakota. They were trapped in their car for five hours, and performed at the Homecoming dance without their own arrangements.

Nov. 30: Ticket Sales For Military Ball Reported 'Progressing Well'

Ticket sales for this year's Military Ball, Nov. 30, are reported to be progressing strongly, according to John Dahlmeier, chairman of ticket sales.

One of the big attractions of the ticket sales is the combination of being presented by the ticket committee. A dinner for two at the Cornhusker Hotel, a corsage and transportation from the hotel to the Ball and back are being offered for $8.50.

Through the cooperation of the Cornhusker Hotel, arrangements have been made to serve the nationally famous Continental Buffet dinner to approximately 430 couples. The remainder of the combination includes an orchid corsage and bus transportation.

This $8.50 ticket does not include the dance tickets which may be purchased individually and separately for $3.00 per couple. Anyone may then purchase a combination ticket at a later date for $8.50. This totals $11.50 as originally announced.

Another innovation of this year's Ball is the reserved table section. Approximately 100 tables will be arranged around the edge of the dance floor. These tables have been set up to seat four couples.

Tables may be reserved in the Military and Naval Science Building by presenting all tickets for one table. At the present time, Both dance and combination tickets are being distributed to the individual men's organized houses.

The forty-fourth Military Ball, traditional opener of the campus formal season, will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., an hour longer than formerly.

The dance will feature Richard Maltby and his 16 piece band. This year's band, playing 23 major engagements on college campuses last year, was rated the "Most Promising New Orchestra" by the Cashbox Operators' poll.

Rehabilitation: Regents Approve Children's Center

The University Board of Regents Saturday gave tentative approval to leasing agreements for the establishment of a $1,500,000 rehabilitation center for handicapped children at the College of Medicine at Omaha.

The contracts are with Rehabilitation, Inc., the School District of Omaha, and the Hattie B. Monroe Home for Convalescing Crippled Children, all of Omaha.

The agreements were passed subject to the granting by the Nebraska State Hospital Advisory Council of approximately $125,000 in federal Hill-Burton funds for the Nurses' Dormitory addition at the College of Medicine.

Earlier in the week, State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers announced that the Council had informally approved the funds, but had not determined the exact amount. Chancellor Clifford Hardin said Saturday the University had requested $133,500.

Allocation of the funds, Chancellor Hardin said, will free a like amount from the University's medical building fund, which in turn can be used to extend steam lines and improve the power plant.

This work, he explained, is necessary to furnish steam to the proposed rehabilitation center, as stipulated by the agreements.

Under the contracts the University agrees to lease land to the three Omaha agencies for a term of 99 years for one dollar a year. The sites are located between 44th Street and Saddle Creek Road and Dewey Avenue and Farnam Street.

Rehabilitation, Inc., will construct a therapy center, to cost not less than $500,000, within the next five years. The building will be known as "The C. Louis Meyer Therapy Center."

The School District will build the J. P. Lord School for the education, care, and rehabilitation of handicapped children.

The Hattie Munroe Home for Convalescing Crippled Children will build a nursing home for the care and rehabilitation of handicapped children within five years.

All three facilities will be made available to the College of Medicine for teaching, training, and research purposes, according to the agreements. Transfer of patients between the therapy center and University Hospital is also permitted.

In addition, the University will extend, at its own expense, the steam line and furnish, at cost to the agencies, laundry service and the necessary steam for heating and hot water.

Under the agreement with Rehabilitation, Inc., the therapy center may be made available for medical education of students of any accredited medical college or school of nursing.

The authority to lease the land was provided by the 1955 State Legislature which appropriated $480,000 to the University for acquiring land adjacent to the College of Medicine campus for a children's rehabilitation center.

Rain Predicted

The highs for this Tuesday will range from the lower 40's in the west to the lower 50's in the eastern portions of Nebraska.

In Lincoln there will be little change in temperature and the weather for Tuesday and Tuesday night calls for considerable cloudiness and light rain.

Snow flurries are on tap for the central portion and occasional light rain is in store for the eastern.

Election: Experts Say Ike To Stay In Office

According to recent estimates over 61,000,000 people will cast their vote Tuesday in the 45th presidential election.

The two leading candidates for the presidency, incumbent Republican Dwight Eisenhower and Democratic hopeful, Adlai Stevenson have both put away their soap boxes after several months of strenuous campaigning.

From all reports President Eisenhower will be re-elected, although Stevenson appears to be running a little stronger than in '52. The polls also indicate that the Democrats will more than likely capture at least one if not two of the Congressional houses which will create an interesting political situation for the next two years.

Political clairvoyants maintain that the recent uprisings in eastern Europe and the near East will have little effect on current election trends, which point to Ike. Also there seems to be little evidence of a farm revolt as had been indicated some months ago.

Foreign policy and defense, especially during the closing weeks of the campaign, have been discussed the most by both presidential candidates and their respective political aides.

Stevenson, early in the campaign, recommended a program whereby H-bomb tests would be curtailed. This move, deemed by some experts as a definite bid for popular support, seems to have had a minimized effect on the voting public.

Student Campaigners

University students of voting age will exercise their voting right Tuesday at Lincoln's polls, or by absentee ballot to their home county, as the 1956 election campaigns roll to a close. Although the majority of students are not old enough to vote, some are taking an active part in either the Republican or Democratic campaigns. Wayne Thompson, left, sophomore in Business Administration, and Louis Schultz, right, junior in Electrical Engineering, head the Lancaster County Young Democrats and the University Young Republicans, respectively. The Young Democrats are not connected with the University, although most of their members are students. The Young Republicans recently submitted a constitution to the Student Council.
