Rhoades To Head RE Week

Dave Rhoades has been selected by the University Religious Advisory Board to head Religious Emphasis Week for 1958.

"Dynamics of Faith" was chosen as the theme for RE Week which will be held February 9-13. Reverend Donald Bliss and Miss Betty Wilson were named as the religious advisors.

Other chairmen include: Vivian Long, Ag Program chairman; Sara Jones, publicity; Bill Duffey, organizations; Mary Bradley, hospitality; Dean Ruey, treasurer, and Paula Hemphill, secretary.

Susan Rhodes, orientation and coffee hour; Cella Madsen, city dorms and co-ops; Barb Brunstrom, ag dorms; Brian Erickson, fraternities; Joanne Wertz, worship and Dr. Franklin Eldridge and Dr. Niles Barnard, faculty advisors.

"We will be seeking this year to emphasize a personal faith for each student and the power which this faith can create within the individual," Rhoades stated.

Present plans call for a spiritual retreat to be held in each of the religious houses on Sunday evening following the mass orientation meeting for campus organization presidents and Greek presidents.

According to Rhoades, buzz sessions guided by the REW speakers with the cooperation of the RAM Council, Pan Hellenic, and the IFC will be held in the sororities and fraternities, dorms and co-ops.

The REW speakers, Rhoades announced, will again go into the organizations. Seminars on special topics will be conducted on both Ag and city campuses.

"It was noted by one of last year's REW speakers that the faculty was completely remote from the week's activities," Rhoades stated.

"We are seeking to correct this by planning faculty seminars and departmental meetings to be guided by the REW speakers," said Rhoades.

"The various religious houses are already beginning to contact outstanding men in their demotion in the fields of history, philosophy, science, education, agriculture and economics for REW speakers," Rhoades added.

Women's Army Corps Offers July Training

The Women's Army Corps now presents four weeks of summer Reserve training with salary and absolutely no obligation to college juniors.

The training will be given at Fort McClellan from July 14 to August 10. During this period, students will learn about the organization of the Department of the Army, the role of women officers, and the important assignments and array of interesting positions held by members of the Women's Army Corps.

To qualify, a candidate must be in her junior year of college, pass a standard physical, meet enlistment qualifications, provide background information on personal history, and have a recommendation from the dean of her college and two from residents in her community.

Selectees will receive travel allowances, meals, lodging, uniforms, medical and dental care without charge and a salary of $123.

Applications are due in by May 25. The dean of women can supply interested persons with a list of the nearest military installations.

Student Chapel Dedication Delay Revealed

The dedication of the new Presbyterian-Congregational student house chapel, originally scheduled for mid-May, has been postponed until Sept. 8, according to Rex Knowles, pastor.

The reason for the delay, according to Knowles, is because the original date would conflict with the Presbyterian General Assembly, and because the building will not be completely finished by May, "the latter reason more than the former," he added.

Moreover, Knowles pointed out, the September date will come in New Student Week and thus we will be able to move directly into the use of the chapel.

Speakers for the ceremony are not yet known.

Fellman: Books, Delinquents Said Not Related

A Wisconsin professor said Tuesday evening that the oft-asserted connection between so-called obscene literature and juvenile delinquency "is based upon almost no concrete evidence."

Dr. David Fellman, a professor of political science, spoke to the annual meeting of the Association of American University Presses, on "The Censorship of Books."

He said he felt "the effect of so-called obscene literature upon behavior is vastly exaggerated. Studies show that juvenile delinquents read much less than those who behave themselves. There is reason to believe that there is a greater danger than bad reading, and that is not reading at all."

Dr. Fellman said that "while I believe it is impossible to formulate an adequate legal definition of obscenity which will supply a sure guide to the resolution of concrete cases, we are not without some practical guidance if we look to experience for it."

He listed these guides: "The standards of judgment should not be geared to the needs of tastes of the most feeble-minded, or most unstable, or most suggestible, or most corruptible members of the community, or the most immature. "A book should be judged as a whole and not on the basis of isolated passages.

"A single person, whether a police sergeant, or a public prosecutor, or a trial judge, should never have the power to make a final adverse judgment.

"It is to be hoped that in the future the U.S. Supreme Court will show greater willingness to take cases involving book censorship, for they raise a basic constitutional question which the nation's highest court ought to resolve.

"It is not inappropriate to consider the motives of the author, and the channels of distribution and sales promotion techniques which are utilized.

"Finally, we should always bear in mind that freedom is the rule with us and restraint is at best only an exception to the rule. Every reasonable presumption, therefore, is against the restraint, and every doubt should be resolved in favor of publication. Courts should be resolved in favor of publication. Courts should always take into account the unsatisfactory state of our knowledge regarding the effect of literature dealing with sex. Accordingly, statutes dealing with this subject should always be construed strictly, so that the area of restraint is kept as small as possible. We should also bear in mind that history demonstrates the long-run futility of censorship."

Rag Award: Outstanding Nebraskan Nominations Now Open

The Daily Nebraskan is ready to receive nominations for "Outstanding Nebraskan" according to Fred Daly, Editor. The nominations may be submitted to the Daily Nebraskan office.

Any student may nominate a candidate for the honor, which is awarded semi-annually by the Daily Nebraskan staff, he said. The Nebraskan originated the award to recognize outstanding contributions to the University community and outstanding pedagogical efforts, Daly explained. The winners will be announced in the Daily Nebraskan at the end of the semester.

The rules governing the election of "Outstanding Nebraskans" were revised two years ago because of confusion as to who was eligible for the honor and how the winner was selected.

To be eligible, a faculty member or student must have made outstanding contributions to the University and be either a senior or a graduate student or a faculty member who has served at least two years as a staff member.

Anyone may be nominated. Letters of nomination must be submitted in writing and signed by the person making the nomination. The names of persons making nominations will be kept confidential.

The letter of nomination becomes the property of the Daily Nebraskan and any or all parts of the nomination letter are subject to re-print in the Daily Nebraskan.

Candidates for the award may not be associated with the Daily Nebraskan in any way such as members, reporters, columnists or members of Faculty-Student Subcommittee on Student Publications.

The winners of the award will be selected by vote of the paid staff members of the Daily Nebraskan. Letters of nomination may be turned in to Fred Daly, editor, in the Daily Nebraskan office, Union Room 20.

Winners of the "Outstanding Nebraskan" awards last fall were Dr. Knute Broady, Director of the Extension Division, and Diane Knotek, a senior in Arts and Sciences.

Twenty-six "Outstanding Nebraskans" have been selected by the paid staff members since the Daily Nebraskan inaugurated the award in 1949.

Why "LIZZIE" is Recommended for Adults only:

We believe motion pictures are for everyone. However, the theme of "LIZZIE" is so special (it has never before been attempted on the Screen)—its intimate probings so sensational (they will shock some)—this motion picture may not be suitable for younger people without worldly experience. As unusual, and unusually gripping entertainment "LIZZIE" is being seen by a wide audience—but we believe it is best that adults only attend.
