

Phi Deltas, Canfield Score Intramural Track Victory

By DEL RASMUSSEN
Edition Sports Editor

Bob Knab stole the show last night at the annual Intramural Track and Field events held in the Stadium as he put on a one man display of talent sweeping the total number of points for his organization and single-handedly captured second place for Gus I of Selleck.

Knab scored 34 points, snaring three firsts, one second and two thirds. Bob might have scored more points but the list of events ran out to stop the ex-Scottsbluff prepster.

Two all-University records and three Independent marks fell as the thimblads from all over the campus congregated for the annual meet.

Larry Fisher, gold medal winner in last spring's running of the state track meet, smashed the all-University record in his specialty, the shotput. Larry threw the weight a distance of 39'2" to set a new independent record as well as rewrite the all-University mark.

The other new mark was set by another gold medal winner in last year's high school track meet—Joe American Horse who mutilated the old mark and hung up his best time of 4:35.5, in the mile.

The new Independent record came via the vault of Jim Kraft who sailed over the bar of 12'2 1/2". On the overall scene the men of Canfield swept the meet by tallying a score of 94 1/2 points, ed-ing the Phi Delt's by 5/6 of a point. The Phi Delt's rallied to score 93 1/2.

In the Fraternity roundup the Phi Delt's ran away with the competitor, the Phi Psi's by 38 1/2 points. The men of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity scored five firsts, six seconds, three thirds and one fifth. The only event in which they failed to score points in was the pole vault.

The big gun for the Phi Delt's was Nels Kjeldson who grabbed a first in the 60-yard high hurdles, a third in the 60-yard low hurdles, a tie with teammate Ron Callan in the high jump and ran a leg of the winning one mile relay team.

For Canfield, who completely ran away with the Independents, scoring the big gun was Bob Lammell. Bob produced points for the winning team in the 60-yard dash (third), 60-yard high hurdles (second), broad jump (second), 60-yard low hurdles (fourth), high jump (second) and ran a leg of the winning four 1/2 mile team.

Bush Happy Over First Husker Big Eight Conference Victory

By DEL RASMUSSEN
Sports Staff Writer

"The outcome of the Iowa State game could hinge upon whether Lyle Frahm plays or not."

These were the words of Head Basketball Coach Jerry Bush concerning the Husker hoopster's next encounter with the Iowa State Cyclones on Saturday next, after he had considerably lowered his voice after articulating on the Huskers' victory over Oklahoma last Monday night.

"Good afternoon, people of the Daily Nebraskan," said Jerry after pronouncing my identity over the phone.

Bush was ready for the first question and when asked about his feelings of Monday's night's performance he went on with his usual amount of cheerfulness in his voice. "It (the game) was certainly the top efforts of the team for the season, and it most assuredly was a team victory."

When I asked Mr. Bush why he was not keeping with his noted reputation of the "Coliseum Bear" and being rather quiet Monday night, he convincingly returned, "Quiet! Well, maybe I was quiet on the outside..."

And on the conversation went in a most happy manner. The Big reason for the congeniality of the round-ball mentor was, of course, the Nebraska cagers' break into the Big Eight conference win column.

Twice the Huskers have been leveled in their attempts to earn a Big Eight victory, but against the highly touted Oklahoma Sooners the Bushmen got the opportunity they so richly deserved. They snubbed the top flight Sooners for their first "big" win of the season.

As the conversation rolled on, the next scheduled game came into the spotlight of discussion, and for this Jerry Bush had to say, "Certainly Iowa State felt the loss of Gary Thompson but they have a taller squad this year and with each game they play they get much better."

IM Leagues Set For B-Ball Finals

With the Christmas vacation over, the University Intramural basketball league is racing headlong into the final stages just prior to the tournament time.

The conference leads of the various leagues have been narrowed down until the best of each league will represent that loop in the playoffs of the finals.

These play-off—or the last five games of the playoffs—are played on the Coliseum court.

The finals of the I-M basketball league are played as the preliminary game to the State high school basketball finals. This serves a threefold purpose according to Ed Higginsham, Director of Intramurals at the University.

The first of these reasons are to keep the crowd, coming early to get seats, off the basketball court. Many people come very early in order that they might get seats for the perennial spectacle. In the past, these earlycomers would throw things on the floor or some towns would present their band in the center of the floor before the game started. These things and many others left the playing court in bad shape even before the feature attraction took place. Since the finals of the University's basketball are now played there it serves as a means for keeping the spectators off the court.

The second purpose this preliminary game is to entertain these people coming from all over the state to witness the prepsters from all over perform their talents. When these people arrive and come early to get good seats they previously had nothing to do until game time but this game offers a special feature attraction for the fans as well as to keep them entertained before the main show.

The third reason for the playing of the finals of the University Intramural basketball in the Coliseum is to offer parents of the players a chance to see their sons in action and to offer to the people around the state chance to witness a function of the University's extracurricular activities in the process.

ball and track at Nebraska.

Captain Nailed, Regains For Two

Accidents will happen! And even in the reportedly smooth sailing sport of basketball a slipup occasionally occurs and someone is doomed for the hardwood on a three point landing.

That is what happened last Monday night when the Husker cagers faced the rough Oklahoma Sooners, and surprisingly enough, not the football team, although one member of the Husker squad may think so.

Scarlet captain and playmaker Gary Reimers, now serving with the cage crew was surprised to find himself on the floor after some rough playing at the hands of two Oklahoma players.

The situation had occurred after much leading up to. The tense and exciting moments of the game had been building up with every second ticking off the clock. The fans, more boisterous than any group of Nebraska spectators have been for some time, had been screaming at the top of their lungs at the referees, players of Nebraska and Oklahoma. Many inidents had brought the crowd to their feet and many seemed determined to enter the fray—with or without the required equipment. As the game entered into the final minutes Gary retrieved a loose ball and two Oklahoma players converged at the same point where the game captain stood. One OU player lunged for the ball but unfortunately Reimers had moved the ball in order to avert OU's stealing the basketball. When the player missed the ball he happened not to miss Gary and the crook of his elbow struck him on the neck. The other player converging on the two was enough to set the Millard star on his back.

The foul, of course, was intentional and after being revived Gary was entitled to two free throws which he promptly potted to give Nebraska the needed margin to nestle their lead.

When Gary was contacted he had nothing to say of the incident except the fact that he thought it was accidental although the crowd did not share the same feelings.

Prochaska Gets Card Position

Former University of Nebraska grid ace and later, assistant coach for the Huskers, Ray Prochaska, has accepted a job as assistant coach to Frank Ivy, recently named head coach of the Chicago Cardinals.

Prochaska, a native of Ulysses, Nebraska, was Ivy's top assistant the past three seasons when Ivy was winning league championships and Grey Cups for the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian League. Ray played football for Nebraska in the late 30's and also participated in the 1940 Rose Bowl game where he played end for the Huskers. He played professional football with Cleveland in 1941 and started coaching as a Nebraska assistant in 1947.

The 36-year-old ex-Nebraskan had reportedly also been offered the head coaching job at Edmonton and at Regina in the Canadian League.

Ivy was named head coach last week replacing Ray Richards, also a former Nebraska grinder, who resigned.
