Stiver Named Show Boss

Harry Stiver, instructor of speech and dramatics at the University, was named director of the 1958 Kosmet Klub production, "Annie Get Your Gun," Monday.

Stiver has directed many University Theatre productions including "Teahouse of the August Moon". Last summer he directed "Twelfth Night" at Pinewood Bowl.

A graduate of Hastings College, he taught speech and dramatics there 1952-54. He received his M.A. degree in speech and dramatics from the University.

Others Named

Other personnel named at the same time were Allan Holbert, music director; Dave Meisenholder, technical director; and Edythe Morrow, choreographer.

Holbert is a graduate from the University school of music and was musical director of KK's South Pacific last year. He is now editor of the Nebraska State Education Association Journal.

Meisenholder is a senior in teachers college, majoring in speech and dramatic art. He was in "South Pacific" and has done technical work in various Kosmet Klub productions.

Miss Morrow is a junior in teachers college majoring in speech therapy and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is a member of Orchestis and has done choreography in Orchestis Programs and the University Theatre Productions.

"Annie Get Your Gun", the Broadway hit by Irving Berlin, will be presented May 23 and 24 at the Lincoln Pershing Memorial Auditorium.

Introduced on Broadway in 1946 and later appearing on the screen, "Annie Get Your Gun" reached a vast new audience. It also played to packed houses at San Francisco and Los Angeles and was selected by NBC for a lavish television spectacular.

Try outs for the production will be Saturday and Sunday, March 9 and 10. Anyone who wishes to try out, should report Saturday, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Finals will be held Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. according to Jerry Brownfield, publicity chairman.

"Anyone wishing to try out for the cast is invited to do so," said Brownfield. "The show has a good many parts that call for a great variety of talent."

Debate Rivalry Aided By Twist Of Fate

But Our Gals Won

A debate took an unusual twist of fate as two old rivals met at the Northwest Tournament held at St. Thomas College in St. Paul, Minn. over the weekend.

Sara Jones and Nancy Copeland, a University team, were victorious over the women's team from Eau Claire, a Wisconsin State College.

The Eau Claire team defeated Nebraskan Misses Jones and Copeland last year at the same tournament. The year before the University team defeated them.

The University women's squad had to compete in eight preliminary rounds, the quarters, semi-finals and the finals. It drew a split decision from the judges 3-2.

The Jones-Copeland team debated affirmatively the women's division topic, "Resolved that the compulsory union membership should be declared illegal."

The two men's division teams that participated in the tournament were George Moyer and Don Epp and Renny Ashleman and Don Binder.

In addition to the irony the debate coaches of both teams attended the same high school.

News Review Panel Planned

The first of a series of News Review Panels will be held in the Union Faculty Lounge Thursday.

Drs. Robert Koehl of the History Department, Clems Thoman of the Economics Department, and Arthur Winter of the Political Science Department will compose the first week's panel. They have chosen as their topic, "Should the United States Return Confiscated German Land." This controversial subject, discussed periodically since World War II, will be presented to Congress by Senator Hruska.

Historical, economical, and political aspects of the problem will be presented by the trio of professors.

The News Review will be informal, followed by a question-answer period designed for students.

Dr. Anderson To Talk Turkey

Dr. Albin Anderson, associate professor of history, will discuss "Education in Turkey" at the monthly meeting of the Teachers College research organization Monday at 3:30 p.m. in Union 316.

The program was organized last semester to provide opportunity for persons working for advanced professional degrees in education to discuss experiences.

All persons working for such degrees are urged to attend. President Vaughn Phelps announced Refreshments will be served.

'Name That Tune' Has Competition

The Union Music Committee is sponsoring a "Name the Record" Contest Wednesday afternoon in the Music Room, Union 209.

Records of a classical nature will be played on the hi-fi record player. Contestants will be asked to identify the music.

The first five winners will be awarded semi-classical record albums.

Entries should be given to the Music Committee in the Music Room. They should consist of the entire name and address.

Get Your Keys, Lockers, Old Desks Here

The University has its own shopping center. It is similar to the new, compact "main streets" that have sprung up in new housing development centers.

This "shopping center" deals in services which range from making keys for gym lockers to supplying second hand desks and filing cabinets for University offices. It is located under the tier of seats in the west football stadium.

There are no large plate glass windows with colorful displays of merchandise. There is no noise of traffic or crowd of shoppers.

Doors to the offices of these services branch off from a semi-circular gray concrete hall. Thousands of football fans surge through this hall to their seats and crowd this hall for refreshments at the concession stands without realizing these offices are here. One hears only the echo of his own steps in the apparently abandoned stadium as he walks along the "main street" of this "shopping center."

Most of the business of these services is carried on by phone.

This "shopping center" would vie with any of the commercial shopping centers for the number of customers served yearly. It serves the needs of about 9,000 students and faculty members.

Japan Flick Set Next

Magnificent 7 Is Tomorrow

Akira Kurosawa's "The Magnificent Seven" will be presented by the Film Society Wednesday night.

Kurosawa received the National Board of Review's award for best director of 1951 for his film "Rasho-Mon."

"The Magnificent Seven," was the combined effort of many other distinguished representatives of the arts in Japan. Included are Asaichi Makai, director of photography; Takashi Matsuyama, art director; Shigeru Mori, in charge of lighting; and Fumio Hayasaka, musical composer.

Typical of the care taken by Kurosawa in casting the picture is Keiko Tsushima, one of Japan's best known actresses, who plays the relatively small but memorable role of Shino, the village girl.

Toshiro Mifune, who made a great personal success in "Rasho-Mon," is seen as Kikuchiyo, the would-be hero.

Takashi Shimura, the distinguished Japanese stage actor, is Kamei, leader of the Samurai.

For research on costumes and manner of living of the period, two archaeologists, Seiton Maeda and Kohel Esaki, offered their services to make "The Magnificent Seven" as authentic as possible.

It is the realism of this picture which distinguishes this motion picture from others which deal with historical legends.

The movie was awarded the "Lion of St. Mark" at the Venice International Festival.

City AAUW Sets Grant

The American Association of University Women, Lincoln branch, will award a $300 fellowship to a woman graduate student at the University, according to Mildred Waide, representative.

Any woman who is now continuing or plans to continue her study on the graduate level, is eligible to apply. She must meet the requirements of high scholastic achievement and evidence of financial need, she added.

Application blanks may be secured at the University Office of the Graduate College, Student Affairs.

Letters of recommendation may be sent to the committee directly by the writer or enclosed with the application, she added. The deadline for the applications is April 1 and applications must be mailed to Mildred Waide, 1938 Washington St., Lincoln, Neb.

Clerical job for woman student interested in working part time during summer as well as the school year. Short-term not necessary. Starting pay $1.00 an hour. Interested students see Mrs. Vogel, Student Affairs Office, Administration Building.

Pinnings Decrease

The student spirit shown for the NU-Kansas game discouraged the number of pinnings and engagements this week. Only two pinnings and three engagements were announced.

Pinnings:
Kathleen Hendry, Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae from Lincoln, to Bill Draper, Beta Theta Pi junior in Architecture from Scottsbluff.

Paula Roehrkasse, Sigma Kappa junior in Teachers from Grand Island, to Eldon Knepper, a Beta Sigma Psi sophomore in Engineering from Waunetta.

Engagements:
Judy Werry, student at Indiana State Teachers College from Poseyville, Ind., to Robert Lindell, a Delta Sigma Pi from Hastings.

Linda Peterson, sophomore at McCook Junior College from Indianola to Bill Falls, senior in Teachers College from Marshall, Minnesota.

Bev Lind, Alpha Omicron Pi freshman in Home Ec from Lincoln, to Ron Kastanek, a Sigma Nu from Lincoln.

Coed Follies Sales Lag

Sales have not reached expectations in the Coed Follies ticket drive, said Jackie Miller, committee member.

"With a week left of sales, we are not panicky, but we do hope they get better," she commented.

So far, from 900 to 1000 tickets have been sold for the March 10 event. Having the Follies in Pershing Auditorium has made a difference in the number of tickets to be sold, Miss Miller added.

Tickets will be on sale in the Union and at Gold's for 90 cents until March 10. AWS workers will be in the Union booth from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. all this week.

The offices of these services utilize space that might be used only for concession stands to feed the thousands of football spectators in the fall or for storage space. The University began using this space for such services shortly after the stadium was built after the stadium was built in 1923 because it needed the space.

"At the time the space was originally used, the operating department had an agreement with the athletic department, who controls the stadium, to use the space for ten years. Then they were to find new space. But instead they enlarged the quarters and made it a permanent thing," said Jack Ford, Maintenance Engineer in the Division of Building and Grounds. Mr. Ford's office has been located in West Stadium since the space was first used for such services.

The original intent of the University was to use this space by building in the north and south ends and have an indoor track all around the stadium. Instead they decided not to build in the ends of the stadium and built the indoor track in the space under East Stadium, Mr. Ford said.

Job Pool and Auto Rental Pool are two interesting University services which have their offices in West Stadium. Job Pool supplies painters, plumbers, carpenters and other maintenance men. Auto Rental Pool furnishes cars for University-sponsored events such as field trips and trips by faculty members to conduct night classes in nearby towns.
