

Orientation Will Explain Function Of Activities

Names of organizations can be confusing... especially to freshmen, believes Cynthia Holmquist, now a sophomore in Teachers College.

"I was unsure about a number of campus organizations such as 'Union' and 'Builders' because I couldn't determine their function from their name," Miss Holmquist said.

attending the annual Mortar Board orientation for freshmen women which enabled her to "find out exactly what each organization was and what it did."

As a result she is now active in such organizations as Cornhusker Yearbook, Coed Counselors and YWCA.

This year's orientation will be held tomorrow night in the Student Union. The theme is "The Campus Community and You."

Six aspects of community life will be discussed and then applied to specific campus activities according to Sue Schreiber, chairman of the event.

Six Topics

The six areas include communications, government, politics and international relations, community center and community service and entertainment.

They will be discussed by upperclassmen Skip Harris, Mary Lu Keill, Nina Herridon, Jan Rhoda, Pat Porter, Sue Carkoski, Janet Hansen and Shirley Parker.

Jane Foster will discuss the AWS Activities Mart to be held October 19.

This orientation program differs from past years when a representative of each campus organization was invited to discuss her activity.

The event has been sponsored for the last two years by Mortar Boards.

Audubon Films Begins Thursday

Wildlife films presenting studies in natural history will be sponsored by the University Extension Division and the National Audubon Society this year.

The films, said to be authentic portrayals of wildlife in dramatic action, will begin Thursday at Love Memorial Auditorium at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

A FAMILY PROBLEM?

Do ghosts have family problems? They do in University Theater's rehearsal of the production "Six Characters in Search of an Author". Here the stepdaughter ghost (Sharon Purbaugh) is chastized by her father (Zeff Bernstein) while tearful mother (Margery Coffy) and the disapproving son (Stan Rice) look on. The Theater's first presentation will be Nov. 2.

University Bookstore Opens Soon

Date for Moving In Not Yet Definite

The grand opening of the University Bookstore is gradually becoming a reality as construction in the basement of the Student Union nears completion, according to Bruce Campbell, bookstore manager.

"We can't say definitely when we will be able to move in. Some of the heating and air conditioning fixtures haven't arrived yet," Campbell said.

He indicated that the official opening date "looks like either the first or the 15th of November."

Campbell said he hopes to move from his present location in the basement of the old administration building in a single day. He added that he hopes to keep the store open for as long as possible during the moving.

Although there will be no specific changes in the set up of the new store, Campbell said the bookstore's position in the basement of the Union will be "a nice bright location which should be a real service to students."

There will be opening ceremonies, including specials to students which will be announced later, according to Campbell.

Mum's the Word On Ag Sunday

The University's 1960 "Mum Day" will be held this Sunday from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Ag campus.

Consisting of some 2000 individual plants representing 270 varieties of flowers, the exhibit will feature many new varieties introduced under Glen Viehmeyer's direction.

Sleeping In Classes May Count As Cuts

A chemistry professor, Dr. Charles Goetz, at Iowa State suggests that sleeping in classes be counted as cuts.

He made this announcement after conferring with other faculty members who were also trying to find ways to help freshmen students. The purpose of the suggestion is "to protect students from their own weaknesses."

Goetz added that "instructors are not trying to be mean to the students. They are trying to help the students."

Smoking has been banned in the halls at Princeton University.

Dr. Robert F. Coheen, president of the University, said the ban would apply to students and teachers. He added that the new regulation would save about $16,700 annually in cleaning and floor refinishing costs.

A new innovation at Colorado State University has been initiated to promote more cheering at CSU football games.

The new "Howling Hundred" is a group of students who sit on the fifty yard line at each home football game and form the nucleus of the entire student cheering section.

Midnight yell practice is being used throughout the school year at Texas A&M "to get the spirit."

The Battalion reports that previous midnight sessions have been successful but all students are warned to avoid "obscene remarks or display of disorderly conduct."

Talent Show Tryouts Are This Week

Tryouts for the annual University talent show will be held Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

The dancing acts, combos, band groups, poetry readings, dramatic readings and other types of talent entered in the auditions will be judged on originality, entertainment, and talent said Bill Connell, chairman of the event.

All acts which audition will be filed in the Student Union file.

Master of ceremonies for the talent show, to be held Nov. 13, will be Kent Searl. The director has not yet been chosen.

This year's theme will be "Into the Future with the Stars of NU."

Judges for both the auditions and the final performance have been selected from a panel of outstanding students and faculty members and professionals in the fields of music and drama.

Ag Union Effort

All Ag students and faculty interested in promoting a new Ag Union are urged by the Ag Exec Board to attend a 7:15 p.m. meeting Wednesday.

The board plans to discuss an all-out effort to get a new Union, said Dick Frahm, Ag Exec president.

Frahm said that a new Ag Union has been encouraged by a few sources in the past but has failed because of lack of a culminated effort.

"We hope that all students, faculty and organizations on the Ag campus will promote the new effort," he said.

Ag Students To Attend Conference

Pro Opportunities Slated for Dec. 1

Ag students may receive helpful information concerning their careers when they attend the Professional Opportunities Conference Dec. 1.

The conference will replace the job opportunities program and will be expanded to include an afternoon session as well as the evening session. All Ag College classes will be dismissed for the afternoon session, Dr. F. E. Eldridge, dean of resident instruction, said.

Professional Leaders

Approximately 25 professional leaders representing various Ag career fields will be attending the conference. Each student will have the opportunity to attend two career sessions in the afternoon and one in the evening.

Coordinating the program along with Dr. Eldridge are Charles Adams, chairman of the faculty planning committee, and Larry Williams, representing the Ag Exec Board.

Dr. Eldridge said that all Ag students are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunity and should attend the conference. Advanced registration will be taken to determine who is going to attend the conference, he said.

Preceding the evening session will be a banquet and a program which will feature a speaker, Dr. Eldridge said.

Candidates To Discuss Social Work

Nebraska's gubernatorial candidates will express their views, ideas and philosophy on the social work policy in Nebraska Friday at the Student Union.

Senator John Cooper, republican and Frank Morrison, Democrat, will be guest speakers at the Friday luncheon of the two day meeting of Nebraska Social Work Institute.

Their scheduled topic, "Social Work Policy" will be delivered before approximately 300 social workers.

AlphaLamb Adds Few More to Clan

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's scholastic honorary, will have pledging Tuesday.

Pledging will be held in the Pan American Room of the Student Union at 5 p.m. Cornhusker pictures will be taken at 5:15.

All members are asked to attend.
