No Restrictions on AUF Voting; Ballot Box Stuffing?

By Nancy Brown

No restrictions are being enforced on the number of times a person may vote for his favorite charities to be supported by the All University Fund.

Booths are set up in both the Union and the residence halls, and Greek members may also vote again in their fraternity or sorority houses

No identification cards are being punched, so ballot boves may easily be stuffed by persons enthusiastic about certain organizations

"I feel that the University of Nebraska student is honest and what would be gained by stuffing the bal-lot bax for charity?" stated Gail Simon, AUF vicepresident in charge of publicity

"AUF has been on this campus 12 years. As far as I know the voting has always been done in the same manner. If this is important, why hasn't it come up before?" Miss Simon added. Four to six organizations will be supported by stu-dents' and faculty's money chosen.

Balloting on the charities to be supported by AUF will continue until Oct. 25. Votes will be tabulated by Oct. 27 for AUF members to decide what percentages of the money to be collected should go to each charity. Charities to be included on the poll are chosen by AUF members after reviewing each charity under consideration separately. "We chose those which we thought the students would be most interested in,' stated Miss Simon. Last year, AUF sup-ported the World Univerity Service, the Nebraska Di-vision of the American Cancer Society, LARC School, the Multiple Schlerosis Society, and the National Institute for the Blind. This year, the National Institute for the Blind is not included on the ballot, alstudents voted though strongly enough to support it last year. Community Chest is also not included, the reason given by AUF Publicity Chairman Gretchen Shellburg that CC supports some of the organiza-tions included elsewhere on the ballot.

Only Organization AUF is the only organization on campus authorized to solicit money for charity from the faculty and students. The Student AUF Drive will be conducted from Nov. 6 to 19. Money is given to the chosen charities after the faculty drive in the spring.

Each charity is investigated by the Better Business Bureau before being subjected to the student and faculty poll. Five per cent of the total collected is used either for AUF expences or for the Relief Emergency Fund.

In the past, the relief fund has supported the students in Hungary and flood victims in Omaha. A few weeks ago, money was sent to Chile to help rebuild the universities after the earthquakes.

Charities to be voted on this year will be selected from three groups:

Health, Unfortunate Chil-dren and Improved Living and Education.

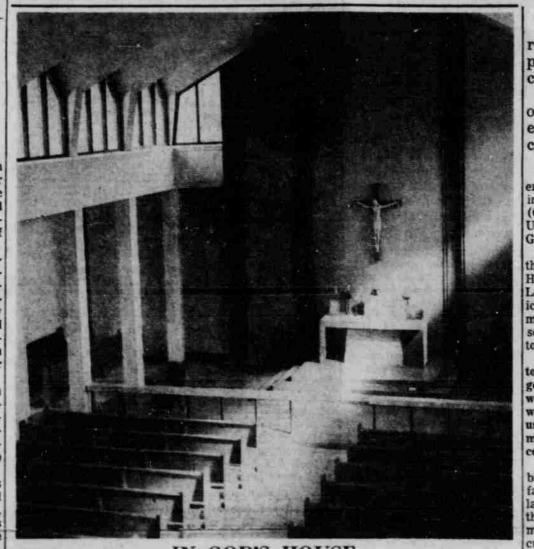

Included under the Health section are the National Association for Mental Health, United Cerebral Palsy, the University Speech and Hearing Laboratory, the Multiple Schlerosis Society, and the Nebraska Division of the American Caner Society.

Unfortunate Children includes the Nebraska Orthopedic Hospital, LARC School (Lancaster Association for Retarded Children), and the Child Welfare League of America.

Tom Dooley, the Nation-al Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the World University Service and the Rehabilitation Center are included under Improved Living and Education.

IN GOD'S HOUSE

By Norm Beatty

Peter Palmer, His Voices and Orchestra, a relatively new group, has been contracted to play at the Homecoming dance October 29, according to Ron Gould of the Corn Cobs.

Palmer and his mixed sextet and 11-piece orchestra "is fast becoming one of the top entertaining organizations in the dance and concert field," according to Gould.

Several Colleges

including Notre Dame, Miami (Ohio) University, Iowa State University and Bowling the musical sounds of Neal Hefti, Ray Conniff and the Lambert, Ross and Hendreicks group into one of the most interesting musical pretoday, according to Gould.

Palmer believes dancers today aren't satisfied with good dance music alone. They want to be entertained as well. For this reason Palmer usually sets up his engagements with a one hour concert followed by a dance.

Palmer's latest Mercury album is "A Swingin' Love Af-fair." Palmer features popu-lar standards because he feels these types of songs will last much longer than some of the current popular hits that are on top today and forgotten

They have played at sev- ing for fraternity, sorority eral colleges and universities and school dances.

Peter Palmer has combined gie," "A Salute to Love," "Slaughter on 10th Avenue." "The Human Voice from the Cave Man to Jazz," and "Cavalcade of Jazz.'

The key to Palmer's style sentations in popular music is the blending of human voices and musical intru-

A "significant 15 per cent increase" in upper class enrollment in the English Department from 1954-59 has resulted in a revision of 200level courses to obtain maximum efficiency, Miller noted.

This is being done by the elimination and -or combination of several courses and the addition of new courses to meet the areas of greatest demand, he sa !.
