

BEST OF THREE . . .

Brown for Governor

History has given each age and crisis throughout man's tenure on this earth men who are able and willing to rise, confront, and defeat the forces of evil. We all know of these brave, noble, and far-sighted individuals.

Today we as a state and the free nation as a community are confronted by problems more serious, complex, and intensive than our forebearers ever envisioned. Yet, at a time when strong unerring and wise guidance is most needed few men have risen to the task. Of these men some have proved themselves incompetent and a few are in the process of doing such right now. Our only hope, then, rests with someone, who, if given the opportunity, will straighten this whole damn mess out.

We need a leader who is able to take the burdens of our state with self sacrifice and nobility. We need a leader who is able to withstand the rigors and taunts directed at his office with a philosophical attitude and a determination to improve.

Where are we going to find this man? I say that Nebraskans need not look any further than our everyday life.

The man we need is with us at this very moment and eager and willing to give us the benefit of his vast experience. The more astute of you will already know about whom I am talking, but for those still in doubt: Citizens, I give you CHARLIE BROWN!

Those of us who are familiar with Charlie the sagacity of my choice becomes immediately apparent, however, a few words (even though the most complimentary adjectives will not be sufficient) should be directed to the few remaining sceptics.

Nobility, self-sacrifice, and the ability to meet a challenge are so associated with this man that we fail to view them as admirable qualities, rather we accept them as commonplace.

The record, however, is there for us to examine. Charlie Brown, the man who piloted his baseball team through 66 straight losses over three seasons and lost the final game through his error. The losses are immaterial compared with the qualities shown by Charlie during the worst crisis. The fact that he has learned to accept defeat and still come back for more is overshadowed only by his ability to accept responsibility in the face of tremendous odds.

Charlie Brown is the man to continue leading us down the road of mediocrity. In this sense he is no different from the present administration, however, Charlie will do so with the dignity which our Republic deserves. He will make no apologies for doing what he believes is right. He will make no concessions to the forces of normalcy and insipidness. He will face these with the courage and determination of a great Governor, and, when he is defeated he will not bow his head.

Charlie Brown is the only person capable to continue leading us down the road in the proper manner.

Nebraska needs you Charlie. No longer will we have to select our state leader from the better of two evils — we'll have the best.

The need is apparant, but it is up to us as citizens to find the answer. Where can we start? The road is certainly rocky and uphill, for the battle is not only with evils of the "spoils" system but also with organized ignorance such as Grand Island's Think and Act committee.

We start right here in our front yard, Nebraska, the "white spot" of the nation is the state to carry Charlie's banner to victory. Certainly far-sighted and informed citizens such as we have here will grasp this challenge and not pass what may be our last opportunity. (B. N.)

Open Letter to Team, Coach

In about 27 hours the Huskers will take to the field against South Dakota. It will be the first game of the season. It will be the first game for the new and bigger football team. It will be the first game for a fine new coach and staff. It will be the first game for an excellent, new Athletic Director. What more could Cornhuskers want?

It is with this in mind that the Nebraskan staff takes this opportunity to send its best to the 1962 Husker football team and staff. The University has never fielded a finer team — thanks to their exceptionally hard work and the dedication and enthusiasm of Coach Devaney and Director Dye.

Nebraskans here and elsewhere in the nation will be watching confidently this season. They, and we are fully behind the Huskers. Spirit in anticipation of the University's greatest season will be at its highest Saturday as the Scarlet and Cream takes to the field. No one doubts Nebraska's potential, talent or formability this fall . . . no one, least of all, we the students.

Reports from the practice field tell of a new Husker spirit among the players. Its not the normal team that has been pushed around the grid iron in years past. They now work as a unit, a team in its full sense.

This editorial may seem to be aimed at inspiring both team and fans, but its not—they don't need it. Rather, it is addressed to the players and their coach from the Nebraskan staff as the official voice of student opinion of confidence in this year's team before the season starts. I suppose that it would have been sufficient to repeat the feeling of the campus, state and Nebraskans everywhere — GIVE 'EM HELL, HUSKERS!

notes in protest: an answer

Grilled cheese and peanut butter sandwiches cost the same as hamburgers in the Crib only because you get chips and slaw on a big plate. (Sandwich alone is a dime cheaper than a Union hamburger.)

The city Union doesn't make more money in a day than the Ag Union does in a month. However, it used to be that way up until 18 months ago.

City Union admits to the question concerning friendliness. Reason: 7 staff members serve 5,000 customers daily—Ag union's 5 serve 1,000. (Union plans to issue its employees name tags.)

Lights in the Crib are dim because the lighting system is incomplete. (Seems they are waiting for a "dimming" board to arrive.)

Messiness of Crib is admitted and is blamed on the usual inefficiency of the staff at the start of a new year . . . confused student employee situation. Also, students must be blamed for a great deal of the mess . . . must you students put cigarettes out on seat cushions, over tura drinks on the tables, play the upside down cup full of water trick, etc.?

(Editor's Note: The above is a series of answers to a list of questions directed at the Union management. Most of the questions that appeared in yesterday's Nebraskan were unfair and based on hearsay, but were asked in print to clear up many misunderstandings concerning the Union's management.

prices, activity, etc., that many upperclassmen and freshmen alike were complaining about this last week. Anything bothering you? Try asking someone who knows about it. It is a very effective method.)
