

Grade Reports Show No Perfect Marks

MISS SEMIN . . . 8.941

Scholastic matters seem to be toughening at the University.

The first semester of the present academic year failed to produce one perfect scholastic mark of 9.000 for 12 or more hours. Last spring, 12 students mastered the seemingly impossible feat.

However, three students missed the perfect grade by less than a tenth of a point.

Ann Marie Semin, a sophomore majoring in chemistry, earned an average of 8.941 for 17 hours—the top grade among the 8,000 given to full-time undergraduates last semester.

Her grades were earned in chemistry, mathematics, zoology, German and band.

William Dresselhaus ranked second with a 8.938 average for 16 hours in chemical engineering. He is a freshman.

DRESSELHAUS . . . 8.938

George Novotny Jr., a freshman in electrical engineering, received an 8.929 grade average for 14 hours. Rounding out the top ten scholars last semester, all earning grades between 8.800 and 8.999, were:

—Chery Wagner, freshman in English.

—Thomas Hallinan, sophomore in chemistry.

—Frances Murdock, sophomore in English.

—Maureen Frolick, junior in English and French.

—Stephen Kellison, junior in economics.

—Susan Unthank, sophomore in Spanish.

—Janet Vavra, junior in political science.

Investment Series Set On Tuesdays

The University will offer another series of lectures on wise stock investments beginning April 2, and running every Tuesday night thereafter until May 21.

The course will be limited to the first 40 persons who register with the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

The classes will be conducted by Dr. Keith Broman, associate professor of business organization. He will discuss investment risks, stocks, bonds, mutual funds, savings, investment techniques and security analysis. The text will be the "Intelligent Investor."

The course, which will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m., is designed for persons who have only limited time to study the stock market, and for those who are just getting started in investments.

More Than 1,000 Will Attend Ag Campus 'Hospitality Days'

More than 1,000 high school girls from all parts of Nebraska will be visiting the University's School of Home Economics on Hospitality Days, March 26 and 27.

"Headlining Home Economics" is the theme for the event designed to highlight career opportunities in home economics. Girls attending will tour the School of Home Economics, view displays and demonstrations, meet college students and ask questions.

The girls will see how they may prepare for careers in family life and child development; clothing, textiles and design; food and nutrition; housing and equipment and home management; Extension, Journalism and vocational education. Students and faculty members in the various divisions of the School will present individual programs ranging from films to demonstrations and discussions.

A style show is also planned. Each costume will be modeled by the student who made it in home economics classes.

Joan Kesling serves as general student chairman and is being assisted by Del Rae Beerman, Dr. Dorothy Lavery, associate professor of housing and management, is faculty advisor.

Chairmen of the various committees are as follows:

—Points of Interest — Judy Polenz.
— Registration — Sherry Berg.

Women's Elections

All Women's Elections are being held today in the City and Ag Student Unions. All women students are eligible to vote. The polls will close at 6 p.m., on the city campus and at 5 p.m., on Ag campus.
