Peace Corps To Conduct Senior Training Program

Washington (CPS) — A pilot Peace Corps senior year program will get under way this spring when 500 to 700 college juniors who have applied for the Peace Corps will be invited to a six-week summer training program.

"The senior year program," Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver said, "represents a major effort on our part to increase the quality of Peace Corps training programs by encouraging juniors to start training while they are still in college."

At both stages of training, there will be no cost to the trainee. The Peace Corps will provide room, board and pocket money, plus a $175 monthly "readjustment allowance", normally given at the completion of overseas service.

The Peace Corps urged interested college juniors to immediately fill out a Peace Corps questionnaire, write senior year program on the front of it, and submit this when they take the next national placement test on Feb. 8. Interested juniors who have already submitted questionnaires should indicate their interest by writing to the Peace Corps (Division of Selection), Washington, D.C. 20525.

Another Poll, Maybe?

In reference to purpose number one — girls who do not wish to study are not going to do so whether they are locked up or not. By the age of 21, the decision on the study question should hardly be a traumatic experience for a girl. It would be better to allow those non-studiers to go elsewhere so that the residence could have a "quieter" academic atmosphere.

time she flunked out and got some experience learning to say "no" — if she gets the opportunity to be in such a situation at all. Voting to drop consideration of such an important problem directly under the University's jurisdiction certainly seems strange. Or is there a problem at all? Maybe we should have another all-campus poll?

Future J-School Interns To Meet With Hall Today

A meeting of journalism students planning summer internship is scheduled today at 3:30 p.m. in Room 329, Nebraska Hall, according to Dr. William E. Hall, director of the School of Journalism.

Requests for 1964 interns have come from more publications over a wider geographical area than in any time of the eight year history of the program.

Dr. Hall added that the Personnel Director and Assistant Managing Editor of the "Miami Herald" will be on campus in February to interview Journalism School juniors for internships and seniors for full-time employment upon graduation. The exact date of these interviews has not been determined.

Sophomores are welcome to attend this meeting. Dr. Hall said that every year there are more jobs listed than interns to fill them. Once the interns are placed sophomores desiring job experience are given priority.

Meet Set For College Editors

Philadelphia (CPS)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will head a list of State Department officials who will hold a special day-long briefing for college newspaper editors in Washington on Monday, Feb. 3.

The briefing will comprise the final session of the Sixth Annual College Editors Conference on International Affairs, sponsored by the Overseas Press Club, the U.S. Student Press Association and the U.S. National Student Association under a grant supplied by the Reader's Digest Foundation.

Rusk, speakers will include W. Averell Harriman, Under Secretary of State; and G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs. The briefing will be similar to those held regularly for senior correspondents and will be the first such session opened to college editors. Over 400 editors have been invited to attend.

The State Department session will climax the two-city conference which begins at the Overseas Press Club in New York on Friday, Jan. 31 and moves to Washington Sunday, Feb. 2. During this time, the editors will hear many of America's leading newsmen and political figures and will participate in seminar discussions with outstanding senior correspondents.

Speakers at the New York session will include David Halberstram, New York Times correspondent in Saigon; James Wechler, editor of the New York Post; Robert Considine, columnist and foreign correspondent for the Hearst Headline Service; Overseas Press Club president Barrett McGurn, a member of the editorial board of the New York Herald-Tribune and other veteran newsmen.

Major speaker at a luncheon on Saturday, Feb. 1 will be Senator John Tower, R-Tex.

The Church . . . For A Fuller Life . . . For You

LETTER TO THE OCCASIONAL CHURCH-GOER

Dear Sir: I understand your problem. For years it was mine. I'd say to myself, "George, it's about time you went to church." And I'd set the alarm, and put on my best suit, and start out with great intentions. Then the kids would defile me: "See, he's not going with us!" I felt awkward through the service I felt stiff, uncomfortable, and very conspicuous. So I'd stay away six more weeks—or result! So I figured there was something wrong with the church—of 16th St. . . . I decided to try something different. I had to prove the fault was with the church. Strange! Along about the third week the awkward feeling disappeared. And the kids stopped expressing amazement. And I began understanding a great many things about the Church . . . and myself . . . and God! There's more to religion than meets the eye—after you get used to the Light.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Table with 7 columns: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday. Rows: Psalms, Matthew, Mark, Luke, Luke, Luke, John.
