Bitter adjust your watch, ocean, we've just be- neve moving into a new time zone.

On Coed Hours

The American Student Women's Association (ASW) has decided to move to a 4:30 P.M. class time, effective Thursday, to improve the sense of normalcy of their academic environment.

The change will take effect next fall. But, these are still the best. First semester freshmen women have to bear in mind that this change will affect every semester after this.

And if you think this would help dignify the upper class chosen from the seniors and sophomores and Sen- ior Taylor, associate of Student Affairs, concerned in that it would need to save the upper division students.

And that is the problem. There is too much griping and shaking. Maybe it is too rigid to treat freshmen girls as much. But it is difficult to determine the number of people that come to the University and their school handicap.

Our needs must be classified, grouped and honored; many authoritaries to be put in a group of generally understood and irresponsible beings who are well justified in taking measures for themselves. If this is not the case, there are motives here to right and that given a little more credi- ble, it becomes a student's part that it must be treated in order to respect such freedom. We much have to be the guardian of this respect. We must have to be taken care of.

The University Student magazine has discussed the fairer position of these girls as well as the personal sacrifice the students make in the struggle for higher standards. It was stated the Society can build that if it could raise the morale that it might raise the girls that it is not the right time for it.

We suggest that the student magazine also discuss the women's Outlook of the University Student magazine.
