

Scientists Examine Cheese Production

A NEW WAY TO EAT CHEESE?—Dr. Kem Shahani (left) and K. M. Nilson check the vitamin content of cheese at University dairy laboratory.

Marketing Aid Research Aim

University of Nebraska dairy scientists, with the support of the American Dairy Association, are making important contributions in research designed to keep cheese in a competitive position with meat and other non-dairy foods in the eyes of the consumer.

Studies by the University of Nebraska and other research groups have sought to shed light on a lack of information regarding the importance of cheese as a source of vitamins, particularly those of the B-complex group.

Experiments over the past several years by University dairy researcher, supported by the American Dairy Association, have disclosed that vitamin content varies widely, not only in different varieties of cheese, but also in different samples of the same variety.

With increased scientific knowledge of the bacteriology and chemistry involved in the manufacture of cheese, it is hoped that each step in the process of cheesemaking can be controlled more precisely.

Campus Calendar

TOMORROW

YOUTH FOR GOLDWATER will meet at 7 p.m. in the Union. Lt. Governor Dwight Burney will address the group.

ASSOCIATION FOR CHILDHOOD EDUCATION (ACE) will meet at 4:45 p.m. in 200 Teachers.

CORN COBS will meet at 5 p.m. in the Union North Party room.

Medical School Faculty Members Present Papers

Three representatives from the College of Medicine presented papers before the American Association of Anatomists at their meeting in Denver March 31 through April 3.

They were Dr. John Latta, professor of anatomy, Dr. Paul Gardner, post doctoral trainee in anatomy, and Dr. Kenneth Brizzee, research assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology.

Latta's work was entitled "Effects of Reserpine on the Secretions of Cells of the Adrenal Medulla." David Sell, graduate student in anatomy, is the paper's co-author.

Gardner presented "Fine Structure of the Spermatid of the Swiss Mouse." Co-author of the paper is Dr. E. A. Holyoke, chairman of the department of anatomy. Holyoke also attended the meeting.

Brizzee's paper was called "A Method for Obtaining Tissue Samples from Individual Hypothalamic Nuclei for Neurochemical Studies."

Dr. James Benjamin, associate professor of anatomy, and Dr. Roland Meader, associate professor of anatomy, also attended the Denver beginning today and running

Deadline Today For Pre-Med Day

The annual Pre-med Day will be held at the College on Medicine in Omaha on Saturday.

The all-day open house and program is for junior and senior students interested in medicine, medical technology, nursing and X-ray technology, as well as interested faculty members.

Campus tours, displays, medical presentations, discussions and a luncheon are scheduled.

Students interested in attending should sign up by today on the premedical bulletin board outside room 204 Bessey Hall, or write or telephone T. B. Thorson, Extension 2725.

Registration will be at Conkling Hall, 42nd and Dewey, from 8 to 8:30 a.m.

Fees Pay Services

Of the total tuition and fees paid by each resident per semester, only $102 goes for tuition. The remaining $30 in fees are distributed as follows: $13, University Health Service; $11.50, bond issues for student facilities; $4.50, Student Union; and $1, DAILY NEBRASKAN.

—HOME ECONOMISTS TO SPEAK— Hospitality Days Hosts 2,000 Girls

Nearly 2,000 Nebraska high school girls will attend the 14th annual Hospitality Days tomorrow and Wednesday sponsored by the University School of Home Economics, according to Del Rae Beerman, general chairman of the event.

Dr. Doretta Hoffman, a nationally known home economist and dean of the Kansas State University College of Home Economics, will return to her native Nebraska to be guest speaker. Along with Dr. Ruth Hoeflin, associate dean of that college, she will speak on the theme of "See Yourself in Home Economics" by exploring the future of home economics and its career possibilities.

Girls attending will tour the School of Home Economics, view displays and demonstrations, meet college students and ask questions about the home economics careers. During the afternoon they will be entertained at a tea hosted by University home economics students, who will model costumes they made.

The program, which will be identical both days, will be opened with a welcome by Miss Beerman. Others who will speak are Vice Chancellor and Dean of Faculties Dr. A. C. Breckenridge, Dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics Dr. E. F. Frolik, Director of the School of Home Economics Dr. Virginia Trotter, and Mrs. Helen Suled, faculty advisor for Hospitality Days.

Dr. Hoffman, the guest speaker, received her bachelor of science degree with high distinction at the University. Her master of science degree was awarded by Michigan State University and her Ph.D. from Cornell University.

Once the chairman of the Department of Home Economics at the University, she is now secretary of the resident instruction section and a member of the executive committee of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and States Universities.

Dr. Hoffman has written articles on biochemistry, nutrition and home economics which have appeared in professional periodicals.

She is a graduate of Iowa State College, has her master's degree from the University of Michigan and received her Ph.D. from Ohio State.

A FUTURE PICASSO IS ENCOURAGED—The University School of Home Economics child development center is one of the places that high school girls will observe during Hospitality Days. Watching a child paint in the laboratory are the event's general chairman Del Rae Beerman, assistant decorations chairman Lori Kjer and publicity chairman Jo Ann Luzio.

Three Performances Left In Gallery's Shakespeare

Shakespeare at the Sheldon Gallery will include three more performances as part of the "Shakespeare on the Plains" festival.

Music from Shakespeare's world featuring the Madrigal Singers will be presented this Thursday evening at 8 p.m. in the Sheldon auditorium. Professor John Moran will direct, with commemorative compositions by Robert Beadell.

The "Faces of Love," scenes from Shakespeare's plays, directed by Dallas Williams, will be presented at Sheldon April 23.

"The Homage of a Poet," readings from his own poetry by Karl Shapiro, will conclude the Sheldon Gallery presentations April 30.

While Nebraska celebrated Shakespeare's birthday with the "Shakespeare on the Plains" festival, other celebrations will be occurring throughout the rest of the United States.

Leading authorities on Shakespeare from Canada, U.S. and Britain will gather in Stratford Canada, to participate in the fifth annual Shakespeare Seminars from August 2 to 16.

The Stratford Festival Company left early in April for Chichester, England to present a number of Shakespeare's plays.

Over 387,145 tickets have been sold for the twelfth season of the Stratford Festival.

Pershing Rifles Top Phalanx Drill Session

University Pershing Rifles placed first in the drill team competition Thursday night in the annual Phalanx drill competition.

University Cadence Countesses and Omaha University Angel Flight members were each presented cups for participating. Creighton University won the squad drill.

Three Nebraska schools were represented in the three competitive drills held in the Union Ballroom. They were Omaha University, Creighton and the University.

Late books on Shakespeare released include "William Shakespeare," by A. L. Rowse (Harper and Row, $6.95). He "solves all puzzles and paradoxes" of Shakespeare's life. "Shakespeare of London" is by Marchette Chute (Dutton) Paperback, $1.65).

"Shakespeare's Memorial Theater" (1954-57 edition, Theater Arts Books, $5) is an album of photographs of scenes from plays.

A new Caedmon recording of "Hamlet", starring Paul Scofield, has been released. It is available in both monophonic and stereo.

Alfalfa Weevil Poses Threat To Production

The alfalfa weevil is now the greatest potential threat to alfalfa production in the North Central States, Dr. G. R. Manglitz, University entomologist, reported.

Economic damage has been very light in this portion of the area, with the exception of areas in western Nebraska and South Dakota.

Insecticides have been tested and recommended for the weevil, but the possibility of their developing an immunity is minimized because controls are needed only occasionally.

The western source of infestation does not appear to be an immediate threat to the rest of the North Central area.

Unionizing—Folksongs Featured On Friday

By Bill Harding

Big things are brewing in the Union this week and the biggest is the arrival of folksingers, Steve Addiss and Bill Crofut. The internationally known pair will be featured in concert Friday night in the Union Ballroom. They will present two shows at 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Tickets are one dollar and may be purchased at the Union main ticket booth. The two folksingers have recently completed a tour for the State Department and have sung and played in over 20 languages throughout the world. Their show will be "A World's Wealth of Talent," and well worth anyone's time.

Besides the shows, Addiss and Crofut will present a folk music forum Friday at 10:30 a.m. in 232-234 Student Union. This will give those interested an opportunity to learn and ask questions about folk music around the world. These events are sponsored by the Union special events committee.

After the strumming, music type activities, on Friday, most students will be interested in a "Period of Adjustment," the hilarious movie that fills the weekend film spot for this weekend. Shows are 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Friday and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

NEBRASKAN WANT ADS

FOR RENT:

Apartment to rent. One large bedroom, large living room, kitchenette and bath. $65/month. Call 477-2705.

FOR SALE:

1962 MGA Convertible, red, immaculate. Must sell. Best offer buys. 466-2436.

1963 Ford 500XL, Burgundy, black interior, bucket seats. 477-4839.

MISCELLANEOUS:

LEARN TO FLY. Start today — budget plan. Arrow Airport. 466-2289.

JOBS:

Urgently need industrious sophomore or junior male, part-time position, campus student travel field. Apply immediately by phone to Chicago COLLECT at 326-6214.

He summers in seersucker—wears Deansgate's suit that stays crisp and composed in Dacron* polyester and cotton.

Galey & Lord

147 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

A Division of Burlington Industries

Eleven Students Attend Arnold Air Society Conclave

Eleven University students represented the local Joyce-Johnson Squadron of Arnold Air Society at the National AAS conclave last week in Denver, Colo. They spent their time in business meetings and various social functions.

Those attending were Glenn Schaumburg, local commander; Loysen Schneider, Orley Coolson, Don Walters, Mike Culwill, Steve Magorian, Warren Paul, Robert Caster, James O'Neil, Christy Brehm, and Marilyn Masters.

Miss Masters was chosen by the local squadron as its candidate in the area level "Little Colonel" contest, which she won, and was therefore the area F-2 candidate in the national "Little General" contest.

The schedule of events at the Conclave included a tour of the Air Force Academy. Also attending the conclave were six general officers of the USAF, including General

Curtis LeMay, Chief of Staff of USAF; General Schriever, head of AF systems command; and General Kelley, Commander of MATS.

SEE ME LATER!

Is this your reply when the subject of life insurance is mentioned? Sure, you're in a hurry—appointments, meetings, family obligations—they all keep you on the go.

But, the time spent in discussing the protection and savings aspects of a life insurance program today can mean a world of difference for you and your family in the future. We welcome your inquiries about a Connecticut Mutual Life plan.

Dick McCashland
Suite 707
Lincoln Building
432-3289

Connecticut Mutual Life
INSURANCE COMPANY

Man, the stampede's on for BRASS RINGER

Go see Colonel Keds fly with the Bell rocket belt in "Leonidoff's Wonder World" at the N. Y. World's Fair Amphitheater!

Hop to it, meet the new "Brass Ringer," it really gets around. It's clean and lean. With man-size brass eyelets and wraparound top guard. Long on looks, strong on comfort, great on wear. Made of washable cotton duck in a new smoky white chino, also in white. N & M widths, sizes 5 to 12, 13, 14. Stamped on down to your nearest store and let 'em rustle 'y up a pair. Ask for "Brass Ringer" Keds® today! It's a Ⓞ.

Look for the blue label

United States Rubber
Rochester Center, New York 20, New York