Hohn, Jeter, Kramer Returning

Practice To Begin In 35 Days

Nebraska sports fans may temper their baseball enthusiasm when the University football team begins fall practice September 1.

Approximately 75 members of the University football team will arrive in Lincoln Monday, August 31 for the annual press photographer's photo day, according to Don Bryant, director of sports information at the University.

Halfback Bobby Hohn, end Tony Jeter and left tackle Larry Kramer are the three returning starters of the 1963 Cornhusker team. The three are all candidates for regional and national honors, according to Bryant.

The 1964 football team will have less experience and less physical power than the 1963 team, according to Bryant.

Approximately 30 players, who were on the 1963 freshman football team, will begin practice with the varsity in September.

"It was the most impressive freshman team in the Big Eight last year, Bryant said.

The Cornhusker team is expected to work out twice a day for two-hour intervals until the week prior to the first game of the season.

KUON-TV Tonight 'Filipinos' Featured

Channel 12's Cultures and Continents program presents "Portrait of the Artist as a Filipino" tonight at 7.

When the Spaniards colonized the Philippines, they believed they were rescuing the natives from the Mohammedans. Americans who invaded the island said they came to civilize its people and bring Christianity to the islands.

Tonight's program is about the unusual cultural heritage of the Philippine people and Filipino sing, enact scenes, and give dramatic readings that express the Filipino as an individual.

THE VICTOR

The sun does tantalize And tease our bones As in winter it hangs Cold, unwinking in the icy heavens.

We feel its warmth on our backs And know it is good as our noses freeze.

In summer it stares, A ball of yellow hell fire.

It draws up the moisture To kill the earth and cover it with dust.

After a bit he sends it back, In torrents of rain Or blizzards of snow.

In the summer he smiles, Oh wretched smile, And laughs at our discomfort.

Burning the grasses and stealing their drink, He is happiest now While bearing his wrath.

As the last green sprout Wilting, gives up its soul, And man the master Has been turned to dust; He laughs at last His destruction complete.

Cooper Foundation Will Support $5,000 In Memorial Fellowships

The Cooper Foundation of Lincoln informed the University of Nebraska Foundation Saturday that it will support $5,000 in fellowships in business administration for the 1965-66 school year as a memorial to eight of its former trustees.

In addition, the Cooper Foundation also approved a $2,050 cancer research grant for use by the University's Institute for Cellular Research under the direction of Dr. Donald Pace.

Harry R. Haynie, University Foundation president, said the fellowships will be given in honor of the late trustees John E. Miller, Charles Stuart, Joseph C. Seacrest, Max V. Begholt, T. B. Strain, Samuel R. McKelvie, and Arthur S. Raymond, all of Lincoln; and Sidney R. Kent of New York.

Dean Charles S. Miller of the College of Business Administration, called the Fellowship Program "a tremendous lift for the newly-established graduate program in road business managerial training."

Leading to a Master of Business Administration degree, the program is directed toward students holding bachelor's degrees principally from engineering, arts and sciences, agriculture and pharmacy colleges.

These students will receive an understanding of all phases of a business organization so that they will be able to combine their knowledge in their particular field of training with that needed to make intelligent business decisions.

Miller said: "The Cooper fellowships will allow us to embark upon a competitive scholastic program so as to induce the most outstanding graduates of the various undergraduate colleges to enter this graduate training of 36 hours."

Sealed bids will be received by the University of Nebraska on used Audio-Visual equipment, Tape recorders, motion picture projectors, miscellaneous projection equipment, television receivers, etc. This equipment can be inspected at Nebraska Hall, 901 North 17th Street, Room 421, Lincoln, Nebraska before August 5th, 1964.
