

Coleman Should Be Ready

Regular defensive end Langston Coleman appears to be ready to find his way back in the lineup, as the Huskers prepare for Saturday's Parents Day clash against the Kansas Jayhawks.

Coleman received a shoulder injury against Iowa State and has missed both road trips and seen only limited action in home games.

Husker scout Tom Osborne

notes that "the question is not how good was Kansas three or four weeks ago, but how good Kansas is now."

He continued "the Jayhawks have a fine team, capable of giving us a difficult time. They have resolved the quarterback problem and are now jelled."

The Husker camp is making its game preparations with the starting and alternate backfields at full strength. Halfback Ron Kirkland is back with the first unit and the other backs are injury free.

The only doubtful for the contest is linebacker Lynn Senkbeil, who limped out of the Missouri game with a foot injury. Several players are being groomed at Senkbeil's spot, including Rick Coleman who filled in for him last Saturday.

LANGSTON COLEMAN . . . top defender probably back.

Cyclones Out To Stop Sooners

Iowa State's "Music Men" hope to gain a big season edge in Band Day performances when they face rugged Oklahoma in Norman Saturday.

So far this year the Cyclones have won two, one loss. The Cyclones whipped the University of the Pacific and the University of Kansas while losing to Nebraska before a horde of high school bands.

It is not just that band day aspect, however, that leads the Cyclones to desire victory Saturday. A 4-32-1 record against the Sooners is one incentive. The chance to finish in the first division of the Big Eight after a predicted last-place finish by the forecasters is another reason. And just plain old desire to win is as important as any reason.

Coach Clay Stapleton, whose 37 career wins, makes him the winningest coach in Cyclone history, figures that he will have to have a near-perfect performance from his young players to keep up with Oklahoma. The Sooners have been tested by some mighty rough customers and appear now ready to do something about a first-division finish of their own. Since Coach Gomer Jones moved Gene Cagle in at quarterback the signs of a solid Oklahoma attack have been more and more evident.

One new feature of the Sooner attack is the greater use of the forward pass. Last week against Colorado the Sooners sent Gordon Brown home with eight receptions for 110 yards, the most passes a Sooner ever caught in a single game.

Iowa State, too, is using the pass more frequently than any time since the heyday of the Bill Weeks-Jim Doran combination. Tim Van Galder has thrown 141 times and at that rate will be close to the record 220 tosses Weeks had in 1950. Eppie Barney has caught 23 of them for 310 yards and second place in the Big Eight standings. Van Galder is second in loop yardage, just 12 yards behind the 734 of K-State's Vic Castillo.

A new running star joined Les Webster against Oklahoma State with Willie Robinson collecting 120 yards and moving into ninth place in the Big Eight.

Tigers Face Letdown, Buffs; Kansas State Seeks First Win

Colorado's Golden Buffaloes entertain the Missouri Tigers Saturday at Boulder, in what should be the deciding game for the Big Eight runner-up.

Last Saturday the underdog Buffs upset favored Oklahoma, 13-0 at Norman. The Tigers were outplayed in a 16-14 match with the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Columbia.

The contest will be an important one for the nationally ranked Tigers. If they can bounce back from the Nebraska defeat their effort should be good for a bowl bid and a second-place conference finish.

Winless and injury ridden Kansas State will entertain Cincinnati in a nonconference battle at Manhattan. Early reports indicate that the injury ridden Wildcats will have a hard time coming up with a two-deep offensive and defensive lineup.

The Missouri Valley Conference foe stands 4-3 for the season, after losing its last two starts to Tulsa and North Texas State.

Next week's opponent, Oklahoma State, is idle. The Cowboys will be preparing for the Nebraska game, slated for Nov. 13 at Stillwater.

Plane Crash Hospitalizes Track Coach

Two men, including University track coach Frank Sevine, remained hospitalized Sunday from injuries sustained when their small plane crashed Saturday night one mile north of the Lincoln Municipal Airport.

The rented plane, piloted by Sevine, was returning from the football game in Columbia, Mo., when it crashed while coming in for a landing.

The three passengers and pilot were reported in good condition Sunday.

Passengers in the plane included: Dick Perry, sports director of KFOR radio station; Jim Huger, assistant principal of Lincoln Southeast High School; and Jack Fogarty.

Sevine and Huger were hospitalized with facial lacerations and back injuries respectively. Fogarty sustained bruises but was not hospitalized. Perry received facial lacerations but was released from the hospital Sunday.

Yearlings Host KU Friday

The Nebraska Freshmen football squad host unbeaten Kansas in a 2:30 meeting tomorrow at Memorial Stadium.

This will be the first home appearance for the frosh, who hold a 1-1 season mark. In their road trips the yearlings beat Kansas State 38-14 and lost to Missouri 14-6 last week.

The Missouri loss was the first for freshmen coach John Melton, whose freshmen teams have compiled an eight win and one loss record since he started coaching three years ago.

Kansas has a 28-0 win over Kansas State and a 24-8 decision over the Oklahoma freshmen.

This is the first year that the Nebraska freshmen have played a four game season, adding Missouri and Kansas to this year's schedule.

There will be a knothole section for Nebraska students who hold regular season tickets, according to ticket officials.

Game A Sellout

Nebraska officials remind fans that there will be no knothole section for Saturday's game, the Parents Day clash is a sellout. Fans are also reminded that no air horns are allowed in Memorial Stadium.

Come On Fans...

By Jim Pearse

What is a champion made of?

For six weeks Nebraska's Cornhuskers had waltzed their way to comparatively easy wins. Each time Big Red had delivered the first blow from which no opponent recovered.

Then came last Saturday. In Columbia, Missouri, the line was drawn.

The Missouri Tigers had compiled a six game record of 4-1-1, while playing three nationally ranked teams, as they awaited the arrival of Nebraska.

Mizzou had played Kentucky even, but lost 7-0 when Johnny Roland fumbled in the end zone. The Tigers clawed their way past Big Ten title contender Minnesota, 17-7, on the gophers home ground. And only two weeks prior to the Husker encounter, Mizzou fought back from a two touchdown deficit to tie once-beaten UCLA.

Only one touchdown had been scored against the Tigers by a ground attack (Nebraska's forte), and that was by Iowa State after Mizzou was home free, not by one of the three nationally ranked clubs.

To add a touch of toughness, Missouri climbed into the top ten the week of the battle.

Nebraska invaded. Missouri waited, anxious to test the Huskers' claim to the Big Eight Championship.

The Homecoming throng in Columbia let the Tigers know about another plus for Missouri—they were playing in their own backyard, familiar with every tuft of grass.

Anticipation, preparation, spiritual boost, the home field, and the finest football team Nebraska had faced all year greeted the Huskers Saturday afternoon in the Pit.

For the first time this year Nebraska did not throw the first punch.

The powerful Tigers pawed their way to an early touchdown the first time they got the ball. It was their best drive of the year, according to some press box observers.

But Mizzou wasn't finished. The old grads had hardly settled down or the cheerleaders stopped counting the points when WHAM—the Tigers' paw caught Nebraska full-face and sent the Huskers to their knees. A 14-0 lead and first quarter was still not out.

The impressive Tigers had decked the Champs.

The question was whether or not the Champs had a glass jaw. Could they come off the deck? Was Nebraska's light schedule catching up to them?

The distinguishing characteristic of a Champ is his ability to come off the deck and conquer, like a Derby winner coming from eleven lengths back to win in the stretch, or the golfer who knows he must birdie the final holes, and does, to win the Masters.

So Big Red got off the deck.

Poise, exemplified in Fred Duda, charged the offense, and heart, like that of Mike Kennedy, led the defense.

Poise and heart, a rare combination in a collegiate football team, but the necessary one for a championship team.

Nebraska got close, 14-13, by the half, but needed two points more to win. They got them, grudgingly, against a Missouri team that demanded Nebraska to "Show me."

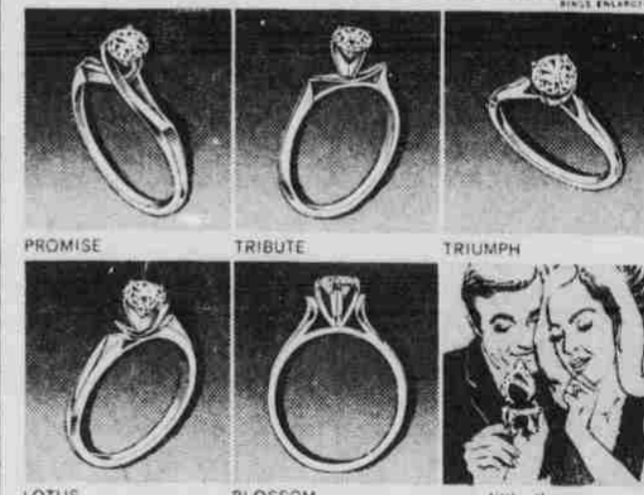

Nebraska's greatness brought them the Missouri win. The greatness of Champs, the ability to get off the deck. The Champs are still Champs. They weren't called on to prove they were before Saturday, and they won't be called on again in the regular season to prove it.

Missouri called on Nebraska to Be Champs, and Nebraska was.
