

GOAL DUST...

By Jim Swartz

The myth or reality of the advantage of playing at home has held true with the bowl bound Nebraska Cornhuskers. Sporting a 9-0 season record, five of the Husker wins have come at Memorial Stadium in a rather decisive manner, Nebraska has scored 195 points to the opponents 33 for a 39 point average while limiting their opponents to a 6.6 average.

Two of the Husker home wins were shutouts and the most points scored against them was 14, in the opener by TCU. However, with the exception of the Kansas State game, the road games have all been thrillers.

The Husker scoring output lagged to 105 points on the road and a 26.25 average while the opposition accounted for 48 points and a 12 point average.

Road Games Close

If you take the 41-0 Nebraska romping of Kansas State out of the figures you end up with the Huskers holding less than a touchdown advantage. The three game scoring average is 21.3 while the opposition is close with 16 points. Air Force almost passed to an upset victory with Paul Stein while Missouri and Oklahoma State both fell to fourth quarter winning scoring drives, the latter in the final minute.

A quick look at the home opponents indicate that there really were not all that bad. Colorado is assured of an upper division finish and is listed as a bowl prospect. Iowa State could finish in the upper bracket with their 3-3-1 record if Nebraska and Oklahoma State beat Oklahoma in the Sooners' last two conference encounter.

TCU upset Texas, to add even more to the Longhorn's woes. The rest of the home foes are not so impressive though, as Wisconsin and Kansas would like to consider this a rebuilding year.

Saturday's Games

Nebraska has its first open day since Coach Bob Devaney has been here in preparation for the Thanksgiving encounter with Oklahoma. Notre Dame-Michigan State and the Arkansas-Texas Tech matches have everybody talking and will be in the national limelight.

The Arkansas-Texas Tech game will decide the Cotton bowl team from the Southwest Conference championship and might snap the Razorback winning streak. Michigan State has already got its Rose Bowl bid but will put the mythical national championship against Notre Dame, who came back after an earlier loss to Purdue to climb back to the fourth spot in the rankings.

Pity The Swim Team?

Pity the poor swim team. Of all the things that could happen to them they have to go on a ten-day clinic during Christmas vacation. All is not lost however, the tankers will be soaking up Florida sun and will also get to see the Bowl game—it has to be a pretty rough life men.

A new addition to University competition this year has been the expansion of Freshmen games, and in some cases, competition has been added for the first time.

Gymnastics and baseball have added competition, while football and basketball expanded their schedules. This compares to the Big Ten, which has no competition in freshman sports and to West Coast schools, which have a full freshman schedule.

Cagers Prepare For Friday

The cagers were shifted between red and gray units with the reds winning the scrimmage 57-51.

The score was held down somewhat by the length of the game, which was shortened to three quarters. Coach Joe Cipriano noted that the last time the squad had a full-length scrimmage the score was 112-64.

"The over-all pressing defense was poor," Cipriano said. "I was pleased with the team shooting, but we do need to work on team defense."

Two year veteran Coley

Webb made a strong bid for starting honors with a 20 point scoring effort, mainly under the basket. Nate Branch followed with 19, Fred Hare and Tom Baack netted 14 apiece and Ron Simmons rounded out the two-figure scorers with 12 points.

"The sophomores did a good job," Cipriano said. "but we do need a lot of work yet."

Cipriano said that Branch did a good job on offense and also praised Frank Empey, Jim Damm, Webb and Stuart Lantz for a good job.

The varsity is slated to meet the freshmen in the annual contest at 7:30 in the Coliseum in their first public showing.

WALT BARNES... leading defensive lineman. The senior from Chicago leads the "Blackshirts" line with 25 tackles and 22 assists and is currently listed as a prospect for All America honors by the AP. Mike Kennedy leads the linebackers with 26 solos and 34 assists while Bill Johnson heads the backs with 26 tackles and 23 assists.

Jayhawks, Tigers To Clash Saturday

The Kansas Jayhawks, 2-7 for the season, meet Sugar Bowl bound Missouri (6-2-1) this Saturday in Memorial Stadium at Lawrence. A sell-out crowd of 45,000 is expected to be present for the 74th annual football contest between the two schools.

Jayhawks Underdogs

Although the luckless Jayhawks find themselves in the role of underdogs against Dan Devine's Tigers, the K.U.-M.U. clash is never considered on the basis of season records. The series is filled with 'upset' game and perhaps one such contest, the 1960 thriller, will be recalled this Saturday and give an added lift to Coach Jack Mitchell's spirited squad.

Later, Kansas was stripped of its hard earned 1960 football championship by a vote of the Big Eight faculty committee. The members announced that K.U. had violated recruiting rules and the Jayhawks had to forfeit two victories—over Colorado and Missouri. That gave the title to Missouri.

OSU Hosts KSU

Oklahoma State's battered football men move into their final home game of 1965, with equally disheveled Kansas State, on Lewis field Saturday.

State played what many fans are describing as the greatest football game ever played on Lewis field last Saturday, bowing 21-17 to unbeaten Nebraska. The underdog Cowpokes, who yielded the winning touchdown to the Cornhuskers with only 38 seconds left on the clock, then surged to Nebraska's 5-yard line with the ensuing kickoff, were tearfully and bitterly disappointed, of course, as they trooped off the field.

Coach Phil Cutchin will be wondering this week if the Pokes can approximate for Kansas State the determination they showed against the bowl-bound Cornhuskers. The uniforms, sweat-stained and showing the wear and tear, will be back from the laundry, all neat and ready, but Cutchin's worry was how much of last week's burning desire he could cram back into the uniforms this week.

Coach Doug Weaver's Wildcats slapped a 17-14 defeat on OSU at Manhattan last year, policing a blocked punt for a winning touchdown with 4½ minutes to play. That defeat came a week after the Cowboys had fought Nebraska's 1965 Big Eight champions right down to the wire at Lincoln.

K-State bowed 38-6 to Iowa State last Saturday. Neither K-State nor O-State has forged a conference win this campaign, although the Cowboys have come frustratingly close against the league's best. The Pokes are 1-7, the Wildcats 0-9 as they kick off in Stillwater Saturday, with their conference records 0-5 and 0-6, respectively.

Cyclones Face Lobos

Iowa State's passing circus goes on display in Albuquerque Saturday before the man who once made the Cyclones a national passing power.

The season-ending grid game will pit Tim Van Balder, the Big Eight's passing and total offense leader, against the New Mexico Lobos, coached by Bill Weeks.

Weeks is generally rated as the greatest passer in Cyclone history. He performed during the 1948-50 era and set aerial records that still stand, although Van Galder is wiping them out now.

Only last week Van Galder hit 21 of 44 passes for a total of 293 yards. He added 51 yards rushing to hit a record 344 total offense production. Both yardage figures are Cyclone records. Weeks held the one-game passing yardage total at 281 for his efforts against Oklahoma in 1951.

An interesting figure unearthed by the Big Eight Service Bureau points out the fact that the conference record of 220 pass attempts by a player is held by Weeks, who will be trying to protect that record as an incidental by-product of seeking a win over his alma mater. Van Galder has 203 attempts now. He has averaged better than 20 tosses a game so it is likely that he will be zeroing in on another Weeks mark—unless the Lobos come through to protect their boss's record.

The Cyclones are through with Big Eight play, holding a 3-3-1 mark that currently has them in fifth place. If Nebraska and Oklahoma State beat Oklahoma then the Cyclones could move into the fourth place slot.
