NU Research Projects

cently completed study of the feasibility of providing a "learning laboratory" for deaf children similar to the recorded language laboratory programs used throughout the country.

The project was under the direction of Dr. Robert Stepp, assistant director of the University extension division. Funds came from the National Defense Education Association.

The project, which was conducted with students and equipment at Prescott Elementary School in Lincoln, was designed as a pilot case to teach lip reading to deaf children by means of an 8 millimeter movie program rather than through personal contact.

Movie System

The movie system, Stepp explained, would allow a child to practice a lesson in lip reading over and over until he knew the vocabulary without taking up teaching time with this tedious task.

The films were designed, he said, in cartridge form so that a child could operate the machine without taking the teacher's time. A separate booth was provided for each child and students were able to progress at their own speed.

The project, Stepp explained, is the only one of its kind in the country. Plans now are to revise the pilot films and to make 75 new ones that would be distributed to schools for the deaf across the nation.

Senate To Consider Creating New Office

An amendment establishing the office of ASUN second vice president and a proposal giving ASUN control of Homecoming queen elections will be presented to Student Senate on Wednesday.

The amendment would establish the office of second vice president who would be in charge of the executive branch of ASUN effective as of the April 27 ASUN elections.

"There is just too much work for one person," said Larry Frolik, ASUN vice president, "and we want to broaden the base of participation."

Frolik explained that this year the duties of the second vice president have been divided between ASUN President Kent Neumeister, Speaker of the House Bill Coufal and himself.

The second vice president would be the runner-up in the vice presidential race. The winner of the race would serve as vice president in charge of the legislative branch.

Coufal will present a proposal on behalf of Tassels giving ASUN control of Homecoming queen elections beginning next fall.

Provisions of the proposal allow for ten junior women to be selected as finalists by an interviewing board consisting of the ASUN president, three student senators, one member of Tassels, one member of Corn Cobs and the N-Club president.

At an all-University election, voters may vote for one candidate, the proposal continues, and the ASUN will incur the cost of machine tabulating the results.

Other business to be brought before the Senate includes a report on Quiz Bowl and voting on the United Campus Christian Fellowship constitution and the Cather Hall constitution.

Women To Take Over Pool Hall?

The University of Nebraska Women's Athletic Association in conjunction with the Nebraska Union will sponsor a "women only" pool hour Saturday morning between 10 and 11 a.m.

The event will take place in the pool room in the basement of the union. Several COMPETENT male instructors will be on hand to help the women. There will be no charge for those attending.

The "women only" hour has been planned because of the mushrooming female interest in pool around the country.

A total of 12 tables will be available to the women. There will be five snooker tables, five rotation tables, and two billiard tables for the more advanced students.

Language Students Add Russian, Italian Clubs

Russian and Italian language students now have an outlet for practical use for studying the language—two new language clubs have been formed.

The Russian Club and the Italian Club joined three other language clubs which are already established and officially recognized.

The clubs give students an opportunity to meet their professors on an informal basis and to speak the language.

Language clubs at the University now include El Circulo Espanol (Spanish Club), Le Cercle Francais (French club), Der Deutsch Verein (German club), Italian and Russian clubs.

Culture, Politics, Food Meetings of all the clubs are held monthly and feature programs, films and speakers. Interest centers on the culture, history, music, art, politics and food of the respective countries.

French and Spanish are spoken at French and Spanish club meetings. German club members speak both German and English at their meetings and the Italian and Russian clubs have not yet started to conduct their meetings in their respective languages.

According to Rafael Sanchez, faculty advisor for the Spanish club, professors are enthusiastic about the language clubs and encourage students to attend.

Oral Practice

One of the shortcomings of language courses is that they do not give enough oral practice of the language. Sanchez said. At the club meetings, the students have a chance to hear the spoken language and practice speaking it in a social atmosphere.

Membership in the clubs is open to all students who are interested in the language. Sizes range from 20 members in the Italian club to 120 in the German club.

A highlight of the Spanish club is the Mexican supper in December. Christmas is celebrated in the Spanish style with a pinata, Spanish carols and Spanish dinner.

Many students in the Italian club are music majors who are taking Italian as a supplement to music. Consequently, many of the Italian club programs feature music soloists.

NU Hosts Debate Tourney

The 1966 Nebraska State High School Debate Tournament will be held at the University Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Donald Olson, professor of speech and dramatic art and coordinator of the tournament, said approximately 30 Nebraska high schools will compete this year.

The tournament, sponsored each year by the University and the Nebraska School Activities Association, brings together the state's finest high school debaters for five rounds of arguments prior to final rounds of elimination.

First, second and third place teams in two divisions will be recognized.

Olson said the question to be debated this year involves labor and labor relations.

Approximately 130 students and their coaches will attend.
