

J-School To Recognize Scholarship Winners

More than $13,000 in scholarships and awards will be presented to University journalism students at the 43rd

'New' Stage For Theatre

The University Theatre has been going around in circles this semester, and rightly so, for they are using a newly constructed revolving stage for "Mother Courage."

The portable stage can be removed and stored away, a way, according to Jack Oblak, technical director of the University Theatre.

Driven by a one horse electric motor, the stage consists of aluminum, pie-shaped sections extending out from a rectangular center. The top is made of 3/4 inch plywood and rides on castors six inches above the stage.

The revolving stage, 26 feet in diameter, cost about $3,000. It was designed and put together by Charles Howard, assistant professor in speech and dramatic art, and the Lincoln Steel Corporation, according to Oblak.

"By merely turning the table, we can give a multiplicity of settings without major scene shifts," Oblak commented. "In Mother Courage it creates the image of great movement which cannot be done by merely moving across the stage."

The University Theatre previously had a revolving stage, but it was driven by a hand crank and cable system which created many problems, Oblak said.

"Eventually we hope to get a remote system so we can vary the speed from the control booth," he said.

"Mother Courage," in which the stage is used, will be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. in the Howell Theatre.

The last presentation by the University Theatre will be "Blood Knot" on May 20 and 21.

annual Awards Banquet Saturday evening.

Dr. William E. Hall, director of the School of Journalism, said that more than 30 newspapers, broadcast stations and advertising firms are sponsoring these grants to encourage and recognize outstanding Nebraska J-School students.

Five new scholarships are included in this year's list of awards. They are:

—The $400 Minneapolis Star scholarship to honor an outstanding senior.

—The $400 Todd Storz memorial scholarship to honor an outstanding broadcast student. The late Mr. Storz, a nationally-known radio station owner, was born in Omaha and attended the University of Nebraska.

—The $300 Hastings Tribune scholarship to an outstanding junior or senior from the Hastings area. This has previously been awarded as a freshman scholarship.

—The $300 Nebraska Farmer Co., scholarship to honor an outstanding junior or senior specializing in agricultural journalism. This, too, has previously been a freshman grant.

—The $200 Gerald J. Bremer scholarship to an outstanding male in the School of Journalism. This scholarship commemorates the late publisher of the Aurora News-Register.

In addition to the traditional awards program, Dr. William E. Hall will be honored for his contributions to the growth of the J-School since he became director in 1956.

Undergraduate enrollment has tripled since 1956, totaling 353 majors during the 1965-66 academic year; and the School of Journalism was recently announced to be the largest J-school in the country among those having no graduate program.

Dr. Hall will become director of the Ohio State University School of Journalism in July. Prof. R. Neale Copple has been named to succeed Hall.

Banquet speaker H. Roger

Tatarian, vice president and editor of United Press International in New York, will have lunch with members of the School of Journalism Council at 12:30 Friday.

Tatarian joined UPI in 1938 and has served as executive editor and general European news manager. He has covered or managed the coverage of the Army, Navy and State Department beats in Washington, D. C., diplomatic conferences and international crises ranging from Berlin to Suez to Lebanon, and also the 1956 Winter Olympics.

The banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the Nebraska Union. Music for dancing will be provided by Nebraska's All-American basketball star Nate Branch and his combo.

Student tickets are $2.50 and adult admission is $3.25 per person. Dress is semi-formal.

Gov. Frank Morrison is expected to attend.

Builders Plan Use Of Forms

Information for the 1966-67 Builders Student Directory will be compiled from student registration forms during the summer months.

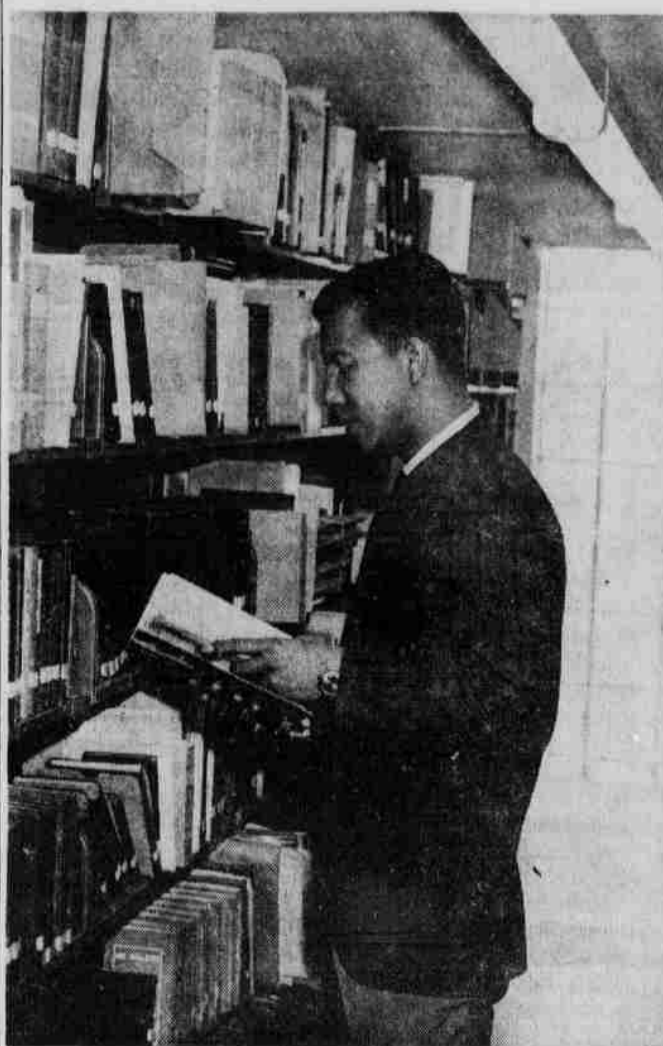

Students are reminded to include complete information—name, home address, Lincoln address, Lincoln phone, class standing and college—when filling out the forms.

If some information, such as Lincoln address and phone number is not known at the time of registration, there will be a two-week period at the beginning of the fall semester to make any changes or complete the data.

According to Diane Bernard, chairman of Builders calendar and directory committee, all information will be tabulated by computer, and must be complete if it is to appear in the directory.

In past years, the calendar and directory committee has alphabetized all registration sheets, and in many cases has completed addresses and phone numbers, Miss Bernard said. This year none of the Builders workers will handle this information. Therefore, the correctness of each name in the directory will depend on each individual student.

Tony Bryan

PEOPLE TO PEOPLE's . . . international student of the month is Tony Bryan, a political science student from Trinidad. Bryan is doing graduate work at the University and will probably return to his country upon completion of his work. His father is an official in the Trinidad government.

IFC Chooses Brandt, Considers Food Plan

Allan Brandt, Delta Sigma Phi, was elected Rush Book Editor at the Interfraternity Council meeting Wednesday night.

A junior in business administration, Brandt has worked as a junior staff writer on the Daily Nebraskan and has been section editor and managing editor of the Cornhusker.

He will be business manager of the 1967 Cornhusker.

Presenting a program to members of the IFC, Brandt said he would try to "work more closely with the houses and give them more choice about what goes on their pages."

He said he intends to sell additional advertising to pay for a colored cover.

Noting that he would continue to update copy and pictures, Brandt said he would like to include a section on questions and answers, a section containing a letter to parents, and a section with tips to rushees.

IFC passed a motion by Jerry Olson, which would leave the initiation grade average at 2.0 until IFC has at least two semesters on which to base the average.

Although the trophy was not presented at Ivy Day because it was lost, it was announced that Phi Kappa Psi had received the award for the most improved house scholarship.

John Butterworth, a representative of Mannings Co. of San Francisco, spoke to the IFC members about a proposed food program for next year.

Mannings is a food management and consulting firm.

If it can find a central commissary on the campus, the firm would plan menus, hire cooks, and do the buying for fraternity and sorority houses under the program.

Butterworth said that by buying in bulk quantities and through national companies his company would be able to lower food costs. He noted that in one house he had paid 43 cents for an item that was being purchased for 69 cents.

Hiring of local cooks would be done by the company and not by individual houses. In many cases, he said, they would be able to cut the number of cooks per house from two to one and a half. Butterworth said they would also hire a cook if one got sick.

He said they would utilize part-time student labor in the kitchens and would provide a training program for these students.

Meal planning, Butterworth said, would be done by a dietician and not by the housemother. He said they would run a diversified menu and would try to implement a choice in the evening meal.

"We can guarantee our company stresses quantity and quality of food," Butterworth added.

He said he knows of no other central commissary type of program as is proposed, being carried on for sororities and fraternities anywhere in the United States.
