

You Can't Win 'em All

By BOB FLASNICK
Sports Editor

The 11:40 a.m. "milk train" out of Holdrege Neb. is undoubtedly one of the most unappealing means of travel on which to return to Lincoln after a summer vacation.

That particular train stops at every little burg along the line, (Exeter, Saronville, Friend, Funk etc) and seldom does it get up a full head of steam before it begins to slow down for the next stop.

But on my return trip to Lincoln this year I hardly noticed the jolting stops and the lengthening hours of the trip. The reason being that I was reading a book which completely captured my interest, something which rarely happens in my case.

The name of the recently published book was "Go Big Red." It is written by Hollis Limprecht, James Denney and Howard Silber of the Omaha World Herald. It contains a history of Nebraska football from its humble beginning in 1890 through Bob Devaney's undefeated team of 1965.

"Go Big Red" brings back nostalgic memories to those who are able to remember coaches Jumbo Stehm, D. X. Bible and Bill Jones while presenting a thorough and enlightening account of the Devaney era.

The tradition of the "Fighting Cornhuskers" and their accompaniment of spirited fans dates far back into the 20th Century and the book makes it clear that the popularity of the team today is a rejuvenation of that long-embedded enthusiasm for the Huskers.

Hand "Go Big Red" to a Husker fan and immediately he will thumb his way through the pages until he reaches the team he remembers best. For Bob Wickham, Conductor on that sporadic train from Holdrege, it was the era of Bill Jones.

Glancing through the pages Conductor Wickham spied a picture of one of his past teammates at Lincoln's old Havelock High School who had later gone on to play football at Nebraska.

This led him to recall the scrappiness of the high school teams in his day, and even to how he had almost been ejected from a game by game official Greg McBride (now with the Omaha World Herald) for some bad language he had ventured to use in a game with Creighton Prep.

As the train chugged out of Crete, Conductor Wickham began to analyze the whole spectrum of Nebraska football, junior high through college and his analysis didn't end until the 11:40 "milk train" out of Holdrege jerked to a stop in Lincoln's Burlington Station.

Huskers Bob Churchich, Pete Tatman and Ron Kirkland... ready to meet a Cyclone.

Huskers Meet Cyclones For Conference Opener

The full fury of Nebraska's potent football offense is due to be unleashed against Iowa State when the two Big Eight teams meet on Clyde Williams field Saturday.

The battle starts at 12:30 p.m. (CST).

A record smashing crowd of nearly 30,000 is expected to be on hand for the game. The current official crowd record is the 22,262 that saw the 1962 game with Kansas. The biggest crowd ever to watch Nebraska in Ames was 21,185 in 1964.

Coach Bob Devaney, most successful active coach in the business, has told Cornhusker fans that the Nebraska offense, which had sputtered in two early victories, could be hitting on all cylinders Saturday.

Nebraska has beaten Texas Christian, 14-10, and Utah State, 29-7, so far this season.

It will be the first road trip of the season for the Huskers. They will leave following today's practice and will headquarter at the Holiday Inn at Ames.
