Rood Awakening

It is the time of raters and guessers. NU fans, fed by a renewed winning tradition, aren't tiring of it.

Most listen to AP and UPI . . . AP enlisting selected scribes who know a little more or less than anybody else while the UPI depends on top coaches, who definitely have time to scan football fortunes from Maine to California.

Wally Provost of the World-Herald notes the coaches are suspected of passing (ha) their chores off on sports information directors (euphemism for PR Men). I would think these gentlemen are so knee-pad deep in Local Color that the researched hunch gives way to the splitsecond scribble.

Preaching Possibilities

On down to the sheets for handicappers and the former sports greats who preach possibilities to the ravenous rabble.

And so it is that the Huskers are rated fifth in Kickoff Magazine down to somewhere around 20th in Dunkel's digital mass.

Football, not being divorced from the rest of the world, is subject to Tremendous Trivia-ratings being part of it. Emphasis surrounds the Word rather than the Deed.

Perhaps your columnist is bitter. There were no laughing letters awaiting me this week, but forecasts last week dipped to three for ten. This coming from knowing nothing about the ten toughest-to-select games in the country.

Season total: 26 for 47. While your martyred muffer was fumbling through ten toughies, fearless Tom Harmon managed to have at 770 games, being successful at a 74.3% rate. I betcha Tom knows little more than I do about it.

Tom One Better

In fact, he does. Of the ten I tried last week, Tom E FarmHouse A vs. Phi Gamma Delta A was on for the better. He went four for ten. Center Mavericks vs.

I figure if Tom can do it, so can I. How about padding the list by guessing on the Bottom Ten. So here they are, upset picks included.

My all-time great Slippery Rock shall fall in a landslide upset to California State. The Rocks haven't had the offense this year.

Other visions see Southern Connecticut over Montclair by a "grette" ash: Upsala should catch Lycoming going down: Carthaginians couldn't beat the Romans, or was it the Greeks, but they can sack Millikin; Lakeland can down Northland; Northern Michigan will find St. Norbert's defense Holy; Trinity can triple Angelo's score; Western Carolina over Emory & Henry, both of them; Wofford can harvest Newberry and Alfred should shatter Brockport's hopes.

I will leave the big Wilkes-Ursinus battle to Fearless Flasnick on Friday

Big Eight Time

On to the Big Eight half seriously.

Iowa State two straight at Colorado's expense; Oklahoma with early trouble, will later blast Kansas by 20: Missouri easily over Oklahoma State.

The worst Kansas State could beat the Huskers in their 50-game rivalry was 27-0 in 1953. Last year Nebraska was the winner, 41-0. It'll be more like last year, one would think pleting 27 for a .443 percentage and a net gain of 294 yards. Undefeated Nebraska will face the threat of the Big On the receiving end, are Bill Salat and Dave Jones, as well as Cain. Jones has hauled in 9 aerials and recorded 101 yards, while Salat has averaged 10 yards on seven receptons.

Being a Dodger fan, no kiss of death intended and make it NEBRASKA 36, KANSAS STATE 6.

Another K-State strong spot against conference champion Nebraska is the punting of Bob Coble. Coble is third in the Big Eight with 33 kicks, averaging 41.8 yards.

K-State has clashed with Nebraska 50 times. The Cornhuskers won 39 of them .

squad will try to prove that bad things do not have to come in three's this Saturday when it hosts Kansas State at Pioneer Park.

The NU harriers were edged 28-27 by South Da-kota and drubbed 16-45 by Iowa State in a double dual meet at Ames, Iowa, last Saturday.

Nebraska was without scheduled starter Greg with a foot injury. According to Coach Frank Sevigne Young should be back in for the K-State meet.

Donn Bischoff was the front-runner for Nebraska with a time of 16:18.4, which earned him second place against South Dakota and fifth against lowa State

Les Hellbusch, also a sophomore, was next in the Cornhusker contingent at 16.49.0, followed by Dennis Settles at 17:51.0 and Peter Scott at 17:59.0.

Norval Jones clocked an 18:37.0 and Kent Radke a 19:02.0, and Dave Heffern of South Dakota entered the fastest time, 15:21.5.

Colorado and Missouri are the other individual meets for Nebraska before the Big Eight Conference competition at Ames.
