

Council, Commission Hearings To Delay Liquor-By-Drink

Liquor by the drink will not go into effect in Lincoln until at least after the first of the year because of administrative work involved in setting up the system.

Since the measure was approved on the Nov. 8 ballot, 86 applications have been filed for the Class C licenses which allow the sale of on and off sale liquor and on and off sale beer at one location.

Each of the applications must be reviewed first by the Lincoln City Council and then by the State Liquor Control Commission before restaurant or tavern owners can begin selling hard liquor by the glass across the bar.

The state liquor commission does not anticipate beginning its hearings on the Lincoln applications until after January 1, according to Francis Robinson, commission chairman.

Robinson said his commission will not be reviewing any applications until after the City Council has heard all applicants and made their recommendations. The council has scheduled a public hearing for the first 10 of the applications next Monday and an additional 53 hearings have been scheduled for the following week, according to City Clerk Harold Springer.

Since the hearings are public and anyone may speak for or against a petitioner, there is no way of knowing how long it will take the council to complete its hearings, Springer said.

Under state law the City Council may make recommendations on the granting or denial of a liquor license, but the state agency, a three man body appointed for terms of six years each by the governor, has the final say on the matter. The state hearings are also open, but only those who are specifically summoned may speak.

The City Council has been working since the measure was approved to formulate a city policy on liquor by the drink, which was last allowed in Lincoln in 1919.

The council held an open hearing on the matter shortly before Thanksgiving and met behind closed doors with the state liquor commission last week. The council continued work on the policy at their Monday meeting, taking several steps that will affect the future of liquor by the drink in the city.

The councilmen informally agreed Monday that the city should join the League of Nebraska Municipalities in asking the Legislature to give local governing bodies the final say in locations for new liquor licenses or transfers. Springer said if the measure is passed in the upcoming Legislative session, "In a board statement this move would give local governing bodies more control."

The council also agreed to revive an old practice of reviewing liquor violations reported by the police department before the case goes to the state liquor commission.

The council stopped reviewing such cases about four years ago because its decisions were so frequently reversed by the higher body, Springer said.

The Class C license petitioners who appear at next Monday's City council meeting are: Sam J. and Dorothy Gatto, 2143 O; Theo Mells and Reuben Worster, 148 No. 14th; Theima I. Maughan, 304 So. 13th; Max T. and Adeline W. Hulbert, 1931 O; Warren and Mary B. Goldstein, 1421 O; Stan's Tavern, Inc., 56th and Cornhusker; Grell's Club Inc., 56th and Cornhusker and Francis McLaughlin Corbin, 1436 O.

JAZZ HOUNDS . . . to entertain Nebraskans in New Orleans.

Jazz Hounds To Welcome New Year

The Nebraska Union may sponsor an appearance by Danny Barker and the Jazz Hounds at a New Year's Eve Party at the Hotel Jung in New Orleans, according to Richard Scott, Nebraska Union Program Manager.

Barker and his group held an outdoor jazz concert in front of Sheldon during summer school. He is the Curator of the Jazz Museum and has written many articles and a book on jazz.

All the members of the group except the 20 year old trumpet player have been through all the stages of jazz, from Dixieland to modern, Scott said.

The combo will play either for dancing or give a concert, depending on what the people attending the party request, Scott stated.

He emphasized that all Nebraskans or friends of Nebraska who are in New Orleans are invited to attend.

Railroad Request Restricts Parking

A representative of the Missouri Pacific Railroad has requested that University students do not park their cars in the "no parking" area by the railroad tracks.

The area on the west side of 9th St. from S St. to Vine St. is not to be used for a parking lot, according to Robert Niceley, division special agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

The area is posted according to state law, Niceley said, but violators of the no parking signs are causing train delays.

Final Scripts Due For Coed Follies

Final scripts for Coed Follies skits must be completed by 5 p.m. Dec. 5, according to Steph Tinan, 1967 Coed Follies chairman.

The scripts are to be delivered to the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house and no late entries will be accepted.

The scripts must include dialogue, songs, lighting, sketches of costumes and backdrops.

There will be a skitmaster's meeting Dec. 7 in the Nebraska Union and the participant's individual budgets will be due at this time, Miss Tinan said.

Coed Follies tryouts will be conducted Jan. 5 starting at 6 p.m.

Christmas Gifts . . . Imports Sold At Bazaar

Gifts from countries throughout the world will be sold at the annual YWCA Christmas Bazaar Dec. 6, 7 and 8 in the Nebraska Union party rooms.

Barb Ahlschwede, Bazaar chairman, said that the Bazaar will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. during the three days.

Items range in price from 10 cents to $25 and include many stocking fillers and small gifts, Miss Ahlschwede said.

The Bazaar is the main money making project of the campus YWCA.

In past years the Bazaar has attracted people from Lincoln as well as University students, Miss Ahlschwede said.

Merchandise is bought through import companies in Lincoln and other cities in the U.S., she said.

Bazaar gifts include African wood carvings, toys and Christmas tree ornaments from West Germany, glassware and basketware from Mexico, Spanish candles and jewelry, games and puzzles from Holland, jewelry and brassware from India, wood carvings from Ireland and carved camels from Jordan.

Counseling Applications Obtainable

Applications for three students to serve as student advisors to the University Counseling Service are available in the ASUN office in the Nebraska Union.

One duty of the advisors will be to report to the Director of the Counseling Service suggestions on how students can most effectively be made aware of the opportunities provided by the service.

Another duty will be to help select persons to be employed by the Counseling Service. According to Tom Briggs, who originated a bill authorizing ASUN to choose the advisors in the Student Senate, this is the first time students have had the opportunity to aid in the selection of people by the University.

The advisors will be responsible to the Directors of the Counseling Service for any recommendations that the director or the advisors believe to be reasonable.

The advisors will be appointed by the President of ASUN on the advice and consent of the Senate. The advisors will serve a one-year term, running from Oct. 1 until June 1 of the school year.

Of the three advisors, at least two are required to be underclassmen, according to the bill approved by the Student Senate.
