Lincoln's Animal Control office is cautioning people that small pet turtles can cause health problems.

Jim Weverka, Animal Control Supervisor, reports a recent case of salmonellosis in a Lincoln child who owned a turtle smaller than allowed under federal regulations.

"Because of the high incidence of salmonella poisoning in pet turtles," said Weverka, "the U.S. Food and Drug Admin-istration, in 1975, banned the sale of turtles less than four inches in size."

policy, the food service department is now responsible for setting up the dining rooms and serving areas, backing up the serving of the food and the cleaning of the kitchen, dining room and serving areas afterwards. Pushcar said the $1.00 increase includes everything such as disposble chinaware, candles, and labor fees, but does not include the cost of food.

Though the student organizations are still responsible for preparing and serving the food for their dinners, Pushcar said the additional responsibility assumed by the union staff "will make sure things get done, and make sure the union's guests are taken care of."

Saeed said the International Advisory Committee is still negotiating a possible price reduction with the Nebraska Unions. He said his organization is proposing an immediate increase of only 50 cents with the additional charge imposed gradually over several years.

Pushcar said the service price increase covers the exact cost the Union pays. "Our operation makes no money on this," he said.

books. The buyer will be happy to answer any questions which you may have regarding the price paid.

- Is sixty percent the usual price paid for textbooks around the country? Q.
- Definitely not! Most stores in the United States pay only 50 percent for A. | books being used again. The University Bookstore is one of only a very few which pay 60 percent. And remember we pay cash.
- What about paperbacks? Does the same policy apply to them? Q.
- Yes. The University Bookstore does not penalize you on text paperbacks. A. If they are being used again, and if the bookstore needs them, they are still worth 60 percent of the publisher's current list price. The only exception is English paperbacks which are bought at wholesale prices.
- If the publisher's price had gone up since I bought my books, will I receive 0. the benefit of that price increase?
- Yes. For instance, if you bought your book for $9.00, and the publisher's Α. list price is now $10.00, you will get $6.00, not $5.40.

Remember, Bring Us Your Books During Finals Week. Books will be bought May 2-4 & 7-11, 8:30-4:30 at North Union Main Lounge and 9:00-4:00 at East Union Bookstore.
