UNL faces two broadcasting options

By Mike Reilly

The NCAA can no longer monopolize the televising of college football games.

The Supreme Court ruled 7-2 Wednesday to allow colleges to make television deals on their own. The ruling could shoot down NCAA contacts with ABC, CBS and WTBS.

According to Justice John Paul Stevens, the NCAA violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by controlling the number of games on television and compelling the networks to pay a set price, which drops if negotiated with colleges individually.

Before Wednesdy's ruling, a college which negotiated its own contract faced sanctions including expulsion from the NCAA and being foridden to compete against an NCAA opponent in any intercollegiate sport.

UNL faces two options concerning television negotiations. It can either negotiate its own contract or join a group plan.

"No one knows for sure what is going to happen," Tom Osborne, Nebraska head football coach, said. "I'm sure the university will sit back and look at all the possible alternatives."

If Nebraska picks the group plan, it could select from several, including an NCAA-network deal, a Big Eight negotiating division, or the College Football Association plan. UNL Athletic Director Bob Devaney met Wednesday with CFA members in Chicago.

Currently, Nebraska's only television commitment is with CBS, a nationally televised clash with UCLA. The Supreme Court ruling threw a monkey wrench into the contact and Osborne is unsure about the future of the telecast.

"I hope the UCLA contact will still be honored," he said, "I don't know if the contact is void, but I hope it will still be carried through."

Another proposed football broadcast involves NU Regent Robert Simmons, who is lobbying for a silentgame (no announcers) telecast of every Cornhusker football game on the Nebraska ETV Network.

Osborne said the new negotiating techniques will not change much this year because the proposal came so late, but it will affect the television ratings this fall.

"It may help the ratings because it makes games more attractive," Osborne said. "It will probably be beneficial to schools with more appeal.'

Many college coaches and athletic directors claim the ruling will help only the athletically strong universities and leave the weaker schools out in the cold. Osborne said he disagrees.

"I don't think anyone wants to see the rich get richer and the poor get poorer because that will be bad for college football in the long run," he said.

'Ocean Rain'

Echo and the Bunnymen successfully have modernized the psychedelic music of the late 60s so that the music listeners of the 80s will listen to it.

This fresh clean approach is most evident on "Crystal Days" and "Seven Seas." "Ocean Rain" is the perfect addition to any album collection.

And now here's something that belongs in the unusual and offbeat category. Trevor Horn, formerly of the Buggles, is up to his crazy antics again ' - now as coordinator of a group by the name of Art of Noise. "Who's Afraid of the Art of Noise" ZIT/Island was a product of this band which can almost be seen as an artistic political stand against the industrialization of England and London in particular. The album is even dedicated to the father of the assembly line, Henry Ford.

"Who's Afraid Of..." is mostly instrumental except for a few varied moans, grunts and shouts which may be human. "Moments" is a song consisting of a walk down a cobblestone street near a church. It sounds like some sound effects from a late night

That is just one segment from the whole album. The rest consists of all different types of noises. Amazingly in spite of appearances, this is an excellent album.
