EDITORIAL NOTES.

WHAT has happened to the Sophomorian? Is '93 less enterprising than '92?

CLASS wars are becoming exciting. When the members of the two lower college classes sit up all night in order that the one may not steal a march on the other, it begins to look as if there is an abundance of class spirit.

IT is to be hoped that everyone who obtains a copy of this paper will read the article on the library. This article is in the "Miscellany" department and contains much of interest to all who are connected with the University or who have an interest in it.

THE gymnasium is well patronized by the students. It is to be hoped that interest in it will not die out. The much desired opportunity for physical culture has at length been secured and we may now hope for better work in the class rooms.

IT is to be hoped that when another building is erected on our campus there will be enough room to supply all the literary societies that are doing good work, with suitable quarters. It is of the highest importance that students should receive training in the literary societies and for this reason the faculty should encourage the efforts of all the societies and treat all in the same manner. This is not intended as a complaint for treatment in the past because we know what was the situation. But if there is to be a new building, it seems to us that it would be a good thing to set aside a part of it for the literary societies.

AS election time approaches we take this opportunity to remind the students and friends of the University that they should take the trouble to explain to their acquaintances in the different parts of the state that the rapid growth of the University demands that there should be provisions made for the erection of a new library building at the next session
