

Dr. Kingsley has secured for his department library a set of Brown Klassen und Ordnung der Shierreichs.

The gymnasium will be opened during the evening as soon as preparations for lighting it are completed.

The many friends of the Misses Goodell and Gund regret to hear that they will not be in school this year.

A room in the basement of the main building is being fitted up with apparatus for the study of psychology.

McFarland, Hicks, Thayer, Wing, and Wheeler are still indispensable to the B. & M. survey in the Black Hills.

W. B. Graham is with the Carlton opera company. Someone has remarked that John L. is also on the stage.

Misses Atwood and Brockmen, both formerly of '93, are teaching school in adjoining districts near Nebraska City.

We regret to make note of the suicidal death of Mr. Ervine, formerly of the class of '95, Monday evening September 8.

Miss Abbie Beardsley, a former art student is now teaching drawing and painting, in the Weeping Water academy.

THE HESPERIAN association met September 23 and elected F. A. Rockhold to take J. S. Peery's place on the editorial staff.

Last Friday night some thieves broke into Professor Edgren's cellar and helped themselves to the goods found therein.

If the faculty have any regard for the health of the students, they should order John Green to turn on the steam, especially in the chapel.

Omaha bows to Lincoln's greatness, and sends down her sons and daughters for an education. Miss Getner and Mr. Montmorency enter the sophomore class from the Omaha high school.

On account of the large number of students in the elementary mathematics and elementry chemistry, the executive committee has authorized the chancellor to employ additional assistance.

Among the new students are many base ball men. Under the efficient management of H. A. Reese the Uni's are sure to play ball this year. But brace up, Doane and Wesleyan, we cannot beat our record.

In the department of Biology and Agriculture, Dr. Kirksley has been fortunate in securing L. Frothingham, M. D. V. (Harvard) as an assistant. Mr. Frothingham will teach physiology and bacteriology.

Some of the new co-eds are receiving sealed bids for society, reserving the right to refuse any and all bids. Probably this is more preferable to them than the slate, as it gives them quite an opportunity of selection.

The officers of the class of '93 for the ensuing term are: president, W. H. Sawyer; vice president, Miss Vesta Gay; secretary, John L. Marshall Jr.; treasurer, W. F. Wolfe; R. E. Johnson; Sergeant-at-arms, C. A. Stroman.

Not long since there was seen in the post office box, a letter directed to the president of the class of '94, from a cane factory in Philadelphia. The freshman class are making great preparations and expect to have everything their own way?

Two new clocks have been received by the department of Physics for use in the laboratories. They are tall of the "grandfather" pattern. The pendulums beat seconds and soundless will soon be attached so that the time may be measured for experiments in any part of the room.

Orders for photographs on the best galleries in the city for sale at a discount at THE HESPERIAN office. Don't forget us when in need of photos.

The Lincoln Business College furnishes superior facilities to the students in book keeping, penmanship, short-hand, type writing and telegraphy.

Attention is called to Herpolsheimer & Co's ad. in this issue. If you need anything in their line you cannot do better than give them a call. Exposition building.

The following are the officers of the Freshman class: G. I. Babcock, president; Geo. Hall, vice-president; Miss May Treat, secretary; Miss Helen Bain, treasurer; Miss Mary Edwards, historian; Miss Hammond, custodian; Mr. Pancost, sergeant at arms.

Professor Howard has had full charge of admission to the colleges, while Professor Lee has attended to all application for admission to the Latin school. Formerly, all applications had to be considered by the chancellor. This arrangement has lightened his work considerably.

The American Journal of Psychology makes favorable mention of the University of Nebraska as being one of the few institution keeping pace with the advance in modern psychology. In the psychological department, it ranks the University of Nebraska with Columbia, Harvard, and Yale.

Six high schools of the state have recently asked to be enrolled on the list of accredited schools to the University of Nebraska. This fact shows the growing feeling throughout the state of the desirability of a college education, and further shows the growing tendency to consider the University of Nebraska the place to get it.

Among other things the department of psychology has lately secured a new model of the brain, a tone instrument for giving small differences in pitch, models of the eye and ear by Azoux and a chronoscope for measuring the time of mental acts. This last instrument is very exact, measuring the one thousandth part of a second.

Probably the 'irrepressible frat co ed' will soon have our characters painted in frightful colors, drawn especially for the benefit of the new co eds. It is real benevolent of her, thus to take such a motherly interest in the uninitiated, confiding little coeds; and coming from such a reliable source, we cannot attempt to refute her statements.

The executive committee is again agitating the question of the new library building. It will be remembered that last year the library was moved into what were then thought quite commodious quarters; but already it has outgrown them, and the agitation for a new building will not cease until ground is broken for its construction. The new building will cost $100,000 and will be modelled after the library building at the University of Michigan, which is on the same plan as the British Museum.

Professor and Mrs. Howard made a short trip to Minnesota during the summer vacation. The professor visited the various libraries of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and was well pleased with the condition in which he found the library of the state Historical Society situated at St. Paul. Next to the Wisconsin University it comprises the best collection of works on Western history, both local and general, there is to be found anywhere in the west. The professor had the pleasure of being shown through the Minnesota State University by Professor McMillan, a former student and teacher of our university.