THE BEAUTIFUL QUEEN.

An Hour in the Court of King Asahurus.

The Ups and Downs of an Ancient Politician.

Omaha is not an old town. She has scarcely entered upon her third decade of years. Scores of her inhabitants recall the time when the noble red man (I) held almost unchallenged sway within her limits.

The Harmonic society may well be proud of the success attained. Musical societies do not spring fully fledged into existence. There is much painstaking work to be done before any society can assume before a large and critical audience and achieve success.

Miss Zella Neill as "Queen Esther" made a very happy impression. Her voice showed to the best advantage in the "To Do Drama" rendered near the close of the oratorio.

There is no necessity for the class known as tramps to increase in number this year. The Denver & Rio Grand railway calls for 5,000 men to act as graders, track layers and the cutters.

Mr. J. Ingram, pastor of the Christian church in this city, was compelled to give up his deeply loved meeting in Ft. City, on account of a severe cold which settled on his lungs, and completely prostrated him.

Mr. J. Northrup never appeared better than he did as "Mordecai," his voice sounded well and his execution was effective. We cannot pass by the "High Priest" as given by Mr. Armitage.

A WAYWARD GIRL.

Who Deserts Her Home and Friends in a Suspicious Manner.

Claiming to Have Secured a Place in Omaha.

There is a cloud of sorrow hanging over a household in Council Bluffs, caused by the mysterious and ungrateful actions of a wayward daughter, just merged from girlhood to blooming womanhood.

The daughter was treated in the most tender manner by her parents, she received a liberal education and was given all the advantages for enjoyment and pleasure possible by the parents, who are in rather pinched circumstances.

Next we visited the wards that are now being fitted up for patients, seven in number. The halls and rooms are very spacious and well lighted. The location, northwest corner Fourteenth and Dodge, is in the very heart of the city, and yet removed from the jar and noise of the leading thoroughfares.

For ten years Dr. Van Camp has treated every case of sickness in the writers family. The public have for many years classed him among our very best and ablest physicians.

Dr. E. L. Higgins graduated in 1867, has been in active practice since that time, and has become very popular with all who have met him professionally or socially.

A NEW HOSPITAL.

Opening of the Nebraska Medical and Surgical Institute.

The new bridge, the extension of the Union Pacific shops, and the daily advent of new enterprises betoken the wonderful growth of our city.

Dr. Van Camp, M. D., a resident practitioner for over fifteen years, has called to his aid E. L. Higgins, M. D., and to these two well known doctors are added for this addition to our resources as a city.

THE SPECKLED SOJOURNER.

Precautions Necessary to Keep Small-Pox Out of Omaha.

Quite a number of citizens are taking the wise precaution of having their families vaccinated. In view of the fact that the small pox has developed itself at almost all the towns along the Missouri river and is likely to break out in Omaha any day, the example is worth following.

The disease this year is of the most malignant type and many of the small towns in western Iowa have suffered considerably from its terrible presence.

The extreme cold weather and storms of snow and wind have rendered our citizens rather careless, and the city was probably never in a healthier condition than at present, and it seems almost an impossibility to remedy the evil until there is a general break up.

It will be well for citizens to bear in mind that there is a city ordinance providing for the isolation of a person of $50 for the failure to report to the authorities a case of contagious disease and that if the small pox should break out in the city it is quarantined and patients removed to the post house in the city.
