THE HOME RUN.

ALBANY, June 19.—Never before in the history of New York have the members of the legislature been so glad to get away from the capitol as they were yesterday. The week has closed without a step of progress having been made in the senatorial contest. So far as the different candidates are concerned they stand exactly where they did on Monday. Not one of them has either gained or lost a vote, if it be supposed all the voters were present to-day.

CONKLING TALKS.

Friday evening Conkling, before leaving for New York, openly admitted that at the present stage of the conflict he cared less for the mere matter of the success or failure in being returned to the United States senate than he did for one other matter. He stated with the utmost apparent sincerity that now the question of his re-election had dwindled into real insignificance in his estimation, compared with another vitally important feature of the contest, which had but lately arisen, and arisen because compelled to arise. He said that the question of the return to the senate of any man, however important or howsoever valuable to a party, was insignificant in importance to the people to the question of whether the election of any man to the United States senate could be encompassed by CORRUPT PRACTICES OR OPEN BRIBERY.

The senator said that owing to his position in Washington and the onerous duties which the nature of that position imposed upon him, during a long period of years in which the actions of the American people had been greatly changed as well as augmented, he had, by the necessities of the circumstances in which his duties as a senator placed him, been drawn more or less away from a close view of public affairs, so far as they related to immediate political practice. On that account, he considered that the present senatorial contest had for him been a fortunate occurrence, in so far as it introduced him into a personal activity in a controversy in which he was enabled to see for himself just what the differences were between the influences that surrounded and controlled political activities and the influences which controlled the same political activities at the time when he last took an energetic part in a real active political canvass. At that time he found that questions of patriotism and statesmanship were paramount throughout the entire republic; at the present time to his amazement he had found and had it forced upon his conviction that questions of statesmanship and patriotism had so far been thrown into the background as to have become entirely secondary, as well as entirely subservient, to the mere question of personal interest and personal aggrandizement.

IN THE OLD DAYS, old because so soon past, although but a short time ago—inactive politicians throughout the country, and the statesman who had lived and acted as if the old influences were still alive, was amazed to find and to have forced upon him that entirely new influences had come into existence and attained the supreme control of party politics. These new influences were the very ones against which the founders of the republic had labored with all their might and with all their patriotism to erect complete protection. They were THE POWERS OF CORPORATE POWER, similar in their power for evil, and alike in their genius for control, to those grasping powers of the tyranny which their patriotic action was aroused to destroy in the crushing form of the tyranny of George the IV. Corporations differed from the kingly tyranny claimed by the odious king of England, only in the fact that they were compelled to acknowledge that they derived their very creation and their prerogatives from the assent of the people originally. They exceed that tyranny in so far as they acted as if they were entirely irresponsible to the power which created them. To-day in the American republic things acted as if they were the absolute powers and the people the mere subjects of oppression. He intended to remain in Albany till he had unearthed the last of the infamous jobs attempted to be used to place the United States senate under the absolute sway of corporations.

PERSONAL.

Depew went home on Friday. Robertson went home on the 2:40 p. m. train yesterday and returned to-night at 9 p. m.

Bradley and Sessions both remained in Albany over Sunday. It is expected that the hearing of the bribery charge against A. B. Barber before the grand jury on Monday will be quite sensational and scandalous.

A SIDE WHEELER.

Ex-Vice President Wheeler's arrival is regarded by the half-breeds as significant. He says in an interview that he is not in any sense a candidate for senator, that he is in favor of Depew and will use his best efforts to elect him. He thinks one stalwart and one administration senator should be elected. His idea was that the stalwarts should name a man most acceptable to them, but in no case should Conkling or Platt be accepted by the administration wing.

POLITICS IN IOWA.

DEBUIQUE, Ia., June 18.—Of eight counties that have held republican conventions within a day or two the following results have been received: Appanese, Buchanan, Butler, Carey, Gordon, Clayton, Monona, Delaware and Osceola counties have chosen delegations: Hon. Wm. Larabee for governor, and most of the Clinton county delegates are for Larabee. Franklin county to-day chose delegates favorable to ex-Auditor Sherman; Rapid City in Linn county, elects a Larabee delegation, and Charles City, Floyd county, to-day chose a Larabee delegation.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 18.—The republican vote in this town to-day resulted in favor of Sherman for governor. West Des Moines was unanimous for him, and in East Des Moines the ticket was 328 votes, 108 for the fusion ticket of the friends of Larabee, Campbell and Harcan. Six of the county townships heard from are all for Sherman, which will give him Polk county and twenty-five votes in the state convention.

Special dispatches to the State Register from twenty-one republican county conventions give the following result on governor: For Sherman—in Polk 22, Sac county 8, Blackhawk 16, Beaver 9, Dickinson 30, Franklin 9, Ida 4, Keokuk 13, Lucas 9, Marshall 17, and 5 in Marion, 7 in Jackson, or 124 in all.

For Larabee—Buchanan 12, Clayton 16, Cerro Gordo 9, Monona 6, Palo Alto 3, Butler 11, and 5 in Jackson, or 62 in all.

For Harlan—Lee 16, and 4 in Marion, or 20 in all.

For Campbell—Jasper 17, and 4 in Marion, or 21 in all.

So far Sherman has 24 more votes than all the rest.

WINONA FOR LARABEE.

STOUC CITY, June 18.—The republican county convention in Winona county to-day chose a solid Larabee delegation to the state convention.

EPITOMIZED REPORT

The army worm has made its appearance in Sacramento county, Cal., and farmers are busy digging ditches to meet the progress of the devastating pest.

Col. R. G. Ingersoll has begun suit in Chicago against several practical Chicago publishers who are alleged to have stolen his lectures and published them in cheap form for street sale.

Dr. N. S. Davis and Dr. S. J. Jones, of Chicago, have been appointed delegates by the American Medical association to the International Medical Congress, which will meet in London, England, on the 3d of next August.

The attaching creditors are F. C. Boyd & Co., $36,870, and Geo. W. Kid, $5,000.

The hydraulic miners of California held meetings in several localities to rejoice over the order of the supreme court, which now appears to have been incorrectly reported, by the omission of an important clause, which leaves the injunction against hydraulic mining in full force, and the rejoicings were consequently premature.

Grant and the Banks.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Gen Tom Young has made the following statement in answer to what was said in the Grant interview a few weeks ago in conversation in a New York hotel. The subject of General Grant's financial situation came up, and in the party was General Young and also a newspaper man. Some one said the general was president of a national bank, and the inference was that he got a good salary. General Young had not heard of that, but was aware that General Grant was a director of the bank. Another gentleman said that he was also a director in the Marine bank, and the newspaper man got the conversation, which he undertook to report without notes, mixed up, and attributed to Gen. Young all that was said about Grant and the banks.

Hurt by the Cars. A man named Paul Green, while attempting to cross the Union Pacific track in front of a detached portion of a freight train yesterday forenoon, was struck on the shoulder and thrown violently to the ground. One arm was broken, besides which he sustained several bruises about the body. The man had noticed the approach of the train, but thought he could cross the track before it reached him. He was taken to Dr. Mercer's dispensary, where he received medical attention.

BOSSA'S RAVINGS. Liverpool, June 18.—The London correspondent of the Liverpool Post, referring to the report that a dispatch had been sent from the British foreign office to the American government calling attention to the operations of Fenians in New York, says the dispatches are of the friendliest character. It recites various atrocious passages in O'Donovan Rossa's letters, and submits that they go somewhat beyond the wildest limit of the freedom of the press, but makes no demand upon the United States as to any particular actions.

CUBAN CRUELITIES.

MADRID, June 19.—Latest intelligence from Havana has caused a painful sensation among Cubans and liberal writers and deputies who have been always friendly to Senor Sagasta and Marshal Campos, hoping they would reverse the reactionary policy of Senor Canovas in the West Indies. General Blanco has not obtained leave from Sagasta to prolong the regulations inflicting corporal punishment on slaves, but he has prosecuted and obtained from the press tribunal sentences of twenty-one weeks suspension against "Economica Revista," and twenty days against "Eco Justo Villalobos," and has instituted new prosecution against "El Triunfo." All this severity is grounded on the fact that these organs of crooked liberalism had independent ideas of autonomy, of abolition of slavery, and of self government for colonies under the flag and supremacy of the mother country. This policy of the general and home government has caused such disgust and discontent among colonial liberals that they write to their representatives in Spain that the idea of total abatement from the polls in the general election this summer, gains ground rapidly.

THE RAILROADS.

A WARASHI CUT.

A COAL ROAD.

B. Payne, Charles Hickox, S. T. Everett and others. Parties have been paying for years large coal fields near Straitsville, and on June 8 filed incorporation articles for a new road from Columbus through the coal fields, which would compete with the Hocking Valley. Negotiations will be consummated next Wednesday at a meeting of the directors. It is understood the present management of all three roads will be retained.

French's Foolishness.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The interior department is not in receipt of the report of the condition of the Central Pacific railroad company, which the auditor of railroad accounts, French, has made to the president of the railroad company. It is considered at the department as inexplicable that French should report to the railroad company before reporting to the department, more especially so in view of the fact that he now recommends the discontinuance of the suit against the Central Pacific, which the attorney general brought at the instance of French.

"YOU HEAR ME?"

A Remark Made by a Colored Man on a Street-Car Last Night.

How a Physician Narrowly Escaped Being Carved With a Razor.

Among the passengers on a certain green line car late last evening were three gentlemen and a lady. One of the gentlemen was a physician of long standing in Omaha who is more noted for his love of fast horses than an overwhelming regard for the colored race. About sixteenth street the car was stopped to allow a colored man to get on board. He was dark as Cerebus, but well proportioned and active as a cat. After paying his fare he took a seat. In a moment afterward the car was filled with the most peculiar sound that was disagreeable to all the passengers. "What is that doctor?" asked one of the party turning to the physician. "Oh, I guess its that—nigger—over there who's trying to hum," replied the doctor in language more forcible than elegant inclining his head in the direction of the darkey. The colored man apparently paid no attention to the insulting observation, and the car stopped to allow the doctor's two companions to get off. It had scarcely started again when the colored man ceased humming, and reached underneath his seat and drew forth a small, business-like valise. This he opened and took from it a white, bone-handled article that bore a wonderful resemblance to an old-fashioned IXI razor. This he deftly inserted in his coat sleeve. The appearance of the colored man had changed completely and he looked as if he had some object in view. He arose quickly and went to the end of the car where the doctor sat eyeing his movements suspiciously. He stopped directly opposite. "Look a heah, sah, you dawg, I think I hurd you remark dat this yer cullud pusson was a ———. Now I want you to chaw them 'ere words. Want yer ter understand," said the colored man, beginning to boil with wrath, "dat I see got de same right in dis yer cah as any white trash an' don't you forget it nuther." The physician was evidently feeling unwell, and moved for the door. "Now," continued the colored man, taking a step forward and putting his face uncomfortably close to the doctor's, "I just give yer two secon's for to take back dat observation foah I begin to carve wid dis razor."

"I didn't mean anything by the remark," said the doctor quickly as he saw the colored man's hand glide toward his sleeve.

"Goan to take it back?"

"Yes," said the doctor.

"Now don't you never use no sich language to a cullud pusson agin. You heah me?" said the darkey with a threatening look.

If the doctor did hear the remark he said nothing. The colored man resumed his seat, but back his razor and began to hum again as if nothing had happened. Both men rode to the end of the line but the doctor had probably often taken a more pleasant trip.

COLUMBUS' BIG DAY.

Large Celebration in Honor of the Opening of Its Railroad.

Correspondence of The Bee.

COLUMBUS, June 16.—This was a gala in Columbus. The cause was the celebration of the opening of the O. N. & B. R. R. All the business houses, and many of the private residences were decorated with flags and mottoes. At an early hour the people from the country began to come in with teams.

A careful estimate put those on the Albion train, at one thousand, and the Norfolk at fifteen hundred people.

At half past eleven the meeting was called to order by Judge J. G. Higgins, who delivered a short address of welcome to the visiting friends.

Excellent instrumental music was furnished by the Norfolk, Albion and Columbus bands, and vocal by the Columbus quartette.

Hon. John M. Thurston, of Omaha, made a very amusing and interesting address. Dr. Bear, of Norfolk, furnished a subject for the funny remarks of the speakers, on account of being a single man when there was so much beauty. W. M. Robertson, of Madison, Hon. B. K. Smith, of St. Edwards, and E. V. Clark, of Geneva, all spoke. Mr. Clark told how this part of the state had improved in the last ten years. When he came to Columbus, ten years ago, there was but one house in the county of Boone, and now it was a flourishing farm from one end to the other. His county, (Nance) was then in the possession of the wild Pawnee. Now its inhabitants are numbered by the thousands.

After the speaking an adjournment was taken for dinner, till three o'clock, when the procession was formed at the City Hall in the following order: Columbus brass band. Mayor and city council. Columbus police. Trades and business firms. Norfolk brass band. Citizens and strangers in carriages. Santa Anna cavalry.

The procession was about half a mile in length. Much ingenuity and originality was shown in the unique manner of advertising. The Calhounians afforded much amusement by their grotesque uniforms.

Nothing happened to mar the pleasure of the day. A noticeable feature of the day was the number of handsome ladies in attendance. All expressed themselves in being pleased, and hoped it would not be long till we would have another friendly meeting of the citizens of Central Nebraska.

"MONEY OR BLOOD."

The Latest Developments in the Case of Bradley, the Murderer of Hanlon.

An Accessory to the Crime Discovered and Placed Under Bonds.

Personating United States Detectives.

Correspondence of The Bee.

FREMONT, June 18.—The preliminary examination of Bradley, the murderer of Patrick Hanlon, was held yesterday and will be continued Monday. Several important facts were developed that have not yet appeared in print, chief among them being the testimony of a woman of the town, at whose house Bradley and his chum resorted some hours previous to the murder. When Bradley and his chum first visited Hanlon's store they pretended to be members of the United States secret service, and under this false badge of authority searched the store from cellar to garret for some evidence of crookedness. When they returned to the bar room they informed Mr. Hanlon that he had attempted to defraud the government, and that $500 cash in hand would arrest the wrath of the government, which would come sure if they should file complaint.

Mr. Hanlon became indignant and ordered them to leave the store instantly, which they did.

The evening following found Bradley and his chum carousing at a noted house of ill-fame in the outskirts of the town. Here the former made his public boasts that he would have MONEY OR BLOOD, at the same time displaying a pistol, and asserting that he must get at least fifty dollars of the amount demanded of Hanlon. Here, also, Bradley and his chum, (who appears to be a non-combatant) wore the mask of secret service detectives. This is the fact, as given by one of the inmates on the stand, that has completely upset the calculations of the defense, and they propose to put on the stand, at an adjourned examination, Monday, a score of witnesses to impeach his testimony and establish its falsehood. The hopes of the defense, if they can destroy the facts above related, are centered in establishing a case of shooting in self-defense. Mr. Gray, the leading lawyer on that side, maintains that Hanlon fired the first shot, that which pierced the door of the saloon and lodged in the wall of the house opposite, and is quite confident that his client will be acquitted at this examination. The accessory in the case (whose name is an unpleasing recall) has been bonded over in the sum of $500 to await the action of the grand jury, and it is hardly possible that the principal in the case can be dealt with less leniently.

Hon. J. C. Cowin, of Omaha, has charge of the prosecution, and will leave Omaha for Fremont at five o'clock Monday morning. Gray and Cowin are well matched and will undoubtedly give many exhibitions of legal sparring before the case ends.

Pictures of his wife and child ornament Bradley's cell and secure him the usual amount of sympathy.

Sheriff Gregg and his assistants have been walking arsenals since the capture of the murderer. It was feared he would be taken from jail and lynched. Their fears, however, proved groundless, although hundreds of the friends and acquaintances of the murdered man poured into town from the surrounding country, and were strongly in favor of lynch-law, if a leader could be found. A story is told of the sheriff that he went so far as to have his life insured to be prepared for the worst.

The property left by Mr. Hanlon is valued at from $30,000 to $40,000. An administrator has not yet been appointed. Mrs. Hanlon is crazed with grief, and the sympathy of the people is strongly with her.

The Picnic.

The Sengerfest picnic came off yesterday. The afternoon was quite warm, but pleasant otherwise, and the German people of the city and their friends gathered to the number of about one thousand in Rogers' grove, in the southwest part of the city and had a regular jolly time. The Ninth Infantry band was in attendance, while the music for the promenade and dance was furnished by Prof. Steinhauer's orchestra. Songs were sung by the singing societies, a few speeches made, and a good time had generally.

Close of the Fair.

About $1,000 will be realized by the fair in aid of St. Philomena's Cathedral. In the contest James A. McShane won the saddle, receiving 138 votes to Jim Stephenson's 78; Miss McDonald received 85 votes for the bonnet for the most popular young lady and Miss Brady 45; Dr. V. H. Coffman received 239 votes for the wine set and Dr. Joseph Neville 190 votes. The vote for the oil painting donated by Henry Lehmann stood; George Mills, 157; A. S. Hughes, 44; Al. Patrick, 42, and J. Petty, 29.

Rub It In.

Jacob Lockhart, 274 Clinton street, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL for rheumatism. He had such a lame back that he could do nothing, but one bottle entirely cured him. Read it.
