ORIGINALITY OF THE GOSPEL.

A Short Sermon by Rev. W. J. Harsha, Preached Sunday Morning.

"If Happy They Might Feel After Him, and Find Him."

St. Paul presents to us in these words a glorious picture of the universal yearning of men after God. He awakens questions in our minds as to the originality of the gospel. For how can we claim that the gospel is absolutely original when so many of its moral principles were anticipated by the wise men among the ancients? We undoubtedly find in the dialogues of Socrates and the Republic of Plato and the laws of Manon many pure and ennobling moral principles. The ancient Arabians had a correct knowledge of sin, and a Virgin, long before Christ, taught men the justice and fatherhood of God. Several of the petitions of the Lord's prayer are found in the earlier Hebrew writings and Confucius gave to the world a clearly marked

OMAHA'S POOL.

News From a Few Who Have Found Refuge at Last.

In the July report of the motion of the Home for the friendless we find the following items in reference to Omaha parties who have found a refuge there:

July 7.—Miss Annie Johnson, a maid on lady sixty-four years old, came from Omaha. At first she was very homesick, for she had left all her acquaintances, and has not a relative living. Being a lover of children she has made herself useful in helping in the nursery, and is now contented and happy.

OMAHA'S POOL.

July 15th Mrs. P. left. She came the 26th of last month from Omaha, a poor, heart-broken woman—beautiful, cultured and interesting. She came to the Home sick, with a babe five months old. Her husband had forsaken her, and she had scarcely been able to sit up since the birth of her child, but while here tried to do something; but when she would return at night, after a day's work, she would be so exhausted that sometimes she fainted before getting up stairs. After a hard struggle, she decided she must part with her darling boy. It was indeed a struggle, for her mother heart clung to this one only love left to her. A home was found in a good Christian family for the little one. Since she left I have received a letter from her expressing gratitude for our kindness to her and gratefully for the good home her boy has; but she writes: "It is very nice for my darling child, but my own heart is breaking." She was going to Denver where she hoped to find friends, and through them she trusted she might find something to do to support herself.
July 23.—Mrs. Pomeroy, of Omaha, came. She will probably spend the rest of her days here. She will be eighty-six years old next September. We find her cheerful in disposition, and but little troubled, although we have to take her meals up to her room. She says everything is so comfortable, for which she is very grateful. Her son, who is in Colorado, hopes to be able to do something toward her support.

A RAILROAD HOSPITAL.

The Building at Denver for the Use of the Union Pacific.

Erected on Contributions of Fifty Cents a Month by Employees.

Mr. L. Mendelssohn has returned from Denver, where he went to inspect progress on the work of constructing the Union Pacific hospital there, of which Dufrene & Mendelssohn are the architects. The building is 128x60 feet, two stories in height, with basement and attic, and will cost $25,000. It contains three wards, each with a capacity for twenty patients, and also several separate rooms. In the basement is a billiard hall and smoking room, 20x40, and on the first floor is a well-supplied library. There are bath rooms on each floor, good ventilation, broad stairs and elevators, and a side track runs to the rear door, where patients can be transferred from the hospital car which is soon to be built.

A RAILROAD HOSPITAL.

The object of this hospital is to care for all sick and injured men employed by the Union Pacific in Colorado and western Kansas, and it has been entirely built by a monthly contribution of fifty cents from each employe. Four acres of land have been given by the road and it also transports free all supplies. The hospital can be used by any employe, whether in the immediate service of the company or not. The railroad also pays the hospital fund for the care of injured passengers. When the building is up, then the assessment will probably be lowered to twenty-five cents, as the intention of the fund is not for investment or speculation, but simply to pay running expenses.
The Colorado division is the only one which has this arrangement. The employes in Utah, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana have petitioned for the same plan, and those along the Oregon Short Line are particularly desirous of establishing a hospital fund. Hospitals could be put along the whole road in a short time if the plan were generally adopted. It was proposed in Omaha some time ago, but with resistance was dropped. There is no provision on this division then for sick men; those injured in the service of the road are placed in the U. P. wards at St. Joseph's hospital and in such cases as the company thinks it should pay, it does.
It seems that a number of other railroads are adopting this plan. On the Missouri Pacific it is working very satisfactorily; the B. & O. have a similar idea; the Central Pacific have tried it twelve years. It is not very unlike the admirable system in vogue in the United States navy, by which the marine hospitals are established and maintained by taxing every mariner about forty-five cents a month. In connection with this article it might be interesting to state that the Union Pacific has a medical department organized as if for a siege, one surgeon-in-chief and fifty-one assistant surgeons.

SNYDER'S SALVO.

Boss Buggies and Flying Phaetons.
As a manufacturing center Omaha is acknowledged to be ahead of many larger western cities. Not many years ago it was found necessary to send east for almost any article which had to be made to order, especially in the wagon, buggy or carriage line, but for many years past Omaha and Omaha people that day has passed. As an evidence of this the elegant phaeton ordered by Mr. and Mrs. R. Withnell from the carriage factory of Wm. Snyder on Harney street is the latest proof that no one need look further than the Gate City for any of the finer quality of carriage or phaeton. This phaeton is an English quarter style phaeton in fine green cloth, with running gear painted green and is one of the finest phaetons ever turned out in the city and is attracting much attention.

MILITARY WAVES.

The Band Going to Niobrara and Some Indians to Pine Ridge.
As part of the Fourth infantry is stationed at Ft. Niobrara it has been much desired by the men that the regimental band might be allowed to come up there for a while. As they could not be forwarded at government expense a sun was made up by the officers, and assisted also by the Sioux City and Pacific railroad, the band left Ft. Omaha yesterday morning and proceeded to Ft. Niobrara, where they will remain about fifteen days. The people at Valentine will have an opportunity to hear some unusually fine music.
General Carlin has gone to see his companies at Ft. Niobrara and Ft. Robinson.
About six hundred Cheyenne Indians from Fort Reno, in the Indian territory, becoming dissatisfied with the place, have been allowed by the secretary of the interior to proceed to Pine Ridge Agency, and are now on their way there.
