AND THE JAVANESE. A Talk With an Omaha Gentleman Just Back from Java.

What He Knows of the Island, Its Volcanoes and People. Mr. Charles P. Woolworth, son of Hon. J. M. Woolworth, returned to his Omaha home last week from a year's voyage to the island of Java, which has recently been visited by such an appalling convulsion of nature, and in conversation with a local reporter yesterday, related a number of interesting facts in regard to Java and the Javanese.

"The island is a wonderfully beautiful place," said Mr. Woolworth, "cultivated to the very tops of the mountains. The soil, made of decaying vegetable matter and lava, is the finest in the world for vegetable, and the Dutch, who have entire control of the country, know how to improve it, and they gain in return a very heavy revenue every year, about half of the rice and four-fifths of the other exports going to the Netherlands. The Dutch have had the island since 1740, except for a short time in 1811, when England captured it."

THE GOVERNMENT is now very strong, and the natives are in a subject of fear or anything pertaining to it. Tell a native that you are a Dutchman, and he will do anything in the world for you.

"Are the natives all intelligent?" inquired the reporter. "They are all civilized, but they have not been educated," replied Mr. Woolworth; "there is no education among them at all, but the Dutch government is introducing schools and making attempts compulsory."

"What is the population?" "I see the papers are putting it at ten millions, but a census taken just before I came away made it

TWENTY-SIX MILLIONS, which is about 530 to the square mile. They are mostly Mohammedans; the country is just overrun with their priests. The natives are forced to labor in the cultivation of tea and sugar, but this will cease by statute in 1890. Labor is cheap. My servant, at 20 cents a day, fed him on two coconuts, at 5 cents a mile, will carry 120 pounds of baggage a distance of 40 miles a day."

"What is the system of the government?" asked the curious newspaper man. "Well, the Netherlands, or The Hague, I suppose I should call it, send out a governor general or viceroy and Java is made headquarter for all the Dutch interests in the Malaysian group. The native princes have their titular rank and are known as regents, but with each is a Dutch resident, whose recommendations are always obeyed."

"What are the principal products?" "Coffee, sugar, rice, tobacco and indigo. I saw

THREE THOUSAND TONS of Java grass or tobacco shipped in six weeks' time in Arabian vessels to Turkey to be made up into the genuine Turkish perique, of which our American boys are so fond.

"Some optum used there?" "Yes, indeed. One Chinaman pays the government three million dollars a year for the exclusive privilege of importing the drug. He has the finest residence in Java, lives like a prince and is a very clever fellow. There are a large number of Chinese on the island, and the opium dens are just as bad as those in San Francisco."

"Is the region volcanic?" "Yes, highly so. A range of mountains runs from one end of the island to the other, with peaks from 4,000 to 12,000 feet high, including THIRTY-EIGHT VOLCANOES, some of them constantly active. I stood one day in a depression of the country, and could view twenty-two volcanoes at once, some of which are still smoking. So the inhabitants are accustomed to eruptions. About a hundred years ago one volcano overtopped a range of seven miles with ashes fifty feet deep, and in 1822 another one destroyed everything within twenty miles."

"Was the district destroyed in this last eruption?" "Yes, it was, and not only the district but one of the most worthless, being about one-eighth of the island. But the city of Batavia is there, and it is a very pretty place, built in the Dutch style with stone and bamboo houses. It is the principal place in that section of the world, and Sunda straits forms the great highway between America and Europe and China, crowded with vessels all the time. Now it cannot be used with safety until a new survey is made. The strait was very lightly lighted. In it was the island of Krakatau, where the eruption first started, and nobody had an idea that there was any volcanic activity there. When I saw it, it looked like a pile of rocks in the sea, about as large as the Paxton hotel. But the destruction it worked on the main island of Java was simply terrible."

BUCKER'S AFRICA SALVE. The greatest medical wonder of the world. Warranted to speedily cure Burns, Cuts, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Cancer, Piles, Chilblains, Corns, Tetter, Chapped Lips, and all skin eruptions, itching, or any other ailment, or money returned, 25 cents each box.

MASS MEETING. Selection of Delegates to the Grand Island Convention.

Chairman Murphy Sits Down Hard on Major Chase. On Saturday evening a mass meeting of workmen was held in the city council chamber for the purpose of electing eighteen delegates to attend the anti-monopoly convention to be held at Grand Island on next Thursday.

Mr. J. R. Lewis called the meeting to order and briefly explained the objects for which the meeting was called. On motion Mr. P. F. Murphy was made chairman and Mr. James Black acted as secretary.

Mr. Murphy made a neat little speech in which he expressed the hope that the meeting would be a harmonious one and that they would select good men, tried and true, who would faithfully represent the interests of the people of Douglas county at the forthcoming convention.

At this juncture in the appearance of the last state election had almost amounted to a revolution and the anti-monopoly party all but swept the entire state, and the time was coming when they would be more successful than they had ever been in the past.

Mr. Allen Root followed in the same strain. Mr. E. Rosewater moved that a committee of five should be appointed by the chair to present names of persons to act as delegates, whose approval could be submitted to the house. After some little controversy the resolution was adopted and the following committee was appointed: E. Rosewater, Allan Root, Mr. Moriarty, Fred Behm and J. R. Lewis.

Mayor Charles L. L. D., put in an appearance and after locating himself at one of the desks, put the chairman through the following interesting examination, which is given in full, it being of a very amusing nature:

Question: May I be permitted to ask you who has a right to vote in this meeting? Answer: This is a mass meeting of workmen.

Q. Is an editor and lawyer a workman? A. I don't think there are any lawyers present.

Q. Is an editor entitled to vote here? A. I will answer the gentleman in this way. The great organization of workmen and which is identified with the laboring interests all over the country excludes lawyers but it does not exclude editors.

On hearing this the worthy mayor immediately made tracks for the door, saying as he left, "I came here to say some kind things to the convention," and added something else, which was inaudible to the reporter on account of the deafening shouts of laughter with which the mayor was greeted on making his somewhat abrupt departure.

The following gentlemen were then selected to act as delegates: Allen Root, J. R. Lewis, John Rosicky, Fred Behm, James Winslow, Mr. Moriarty, J. M. McDougall, E. Rosewater, Lloyd Simpson, Bruce Peaback, Charles Sessaman, C. D. Leighton, Pat O'Gorman, Lew Blahy, Wm. Waddington and Jerry Bohan.

Mr. Rosewater moved a resolution that the delegates present at Grand Island cast the vote of the whole delegation, which was, after some little discussion, carried.

DIED. BRADLEY.—In this city, September 2, at 7 a. m., John Ed. Bradley, aged about 40 years. Mr. Bradley was formerly the well known engineer of engine company No. 1, and on account of failing health left his situation and went into the restaurant business, the location of which was on Coming street of late, but formerly under the opera house. His death took place at his residence, No. 614 north Eleventh street, from which place the funeral will take place to-day, September 2d, at 10 a. m. Friends invited.

SARATOGA DOINGS. The Sunday School Room—A Delightful Soiree—Arrivals.

SARATOGA, August 30.—The attendance at the Union Sunday school, last Sunday, was the largest yet, 88 scholars being present. The total attendance for the month was 315, or an average of 81, an increase of 22 per cent since the beginning of the year. The next concert of the school will be given Sunday evening, September 30. The school will give an entertainment soon for the benefit of its library.

Preaching will be resumed during September. Rev. Shank, of the Eighteenth street M. E. church, will deliver an address before the school on Sunday evening next at 7:30.

Mr. James H. Conrad, who has just returned from the west, was the recipient of a very pleasant surprise, at the residence of Hon. James H. Kyner on Tuesday evening. A party of his friends, numbering about 40, invaded the place and took possession, making merry until the "wee-wee" hours. Jim had just returned from Norfolk, where he went on a business trip, and was completely surprised. Dancing was the principal amusement of the evening, for which delightful music furnished. An elegant lunch was served late in the evening. The party was a decided success. Among those present were the Misses Ham-bright, the Misses Smith, Misses Green, Rustin, Monroe, Critchfield, Brown, Patrick, Livsey and Messrs. Patton, O'Herne, Brewster, Livsey, Littlefield, Smith, Brown, Hunt, Monroe, Curley, Hazzard, Christie and Crowell.

Among the arrivals the past week was a boy to Charley Sweeney and one to C. L. McCoy; also a girl to Mr. McKay, the photographer. All are doing well.

Messrs. C. L. McCoy and Jacob Crowell have the contract for furnishing forage for the state fair.
