THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.

A Treasure Obtained by the Sacrifice of all Other Treasures.

Sermon at the Congregational Church by Rev. Henry A. Todd, of New York.

The services of the Congregational Church on Sunday last were conducted by Rev. Henry A. Todd, of New York

He read with the congregation the 73rd Psalm, after which he read the 13th Chapter of Matthew for the morning lesson, and chose from that chapter the 33rd verse as his text:

"The Kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

Christ here gives special instructions in reference to the advantages of the Kingdom of heaven, and endeavors to pearl and to a treasure which are obtained by the sacrifice of all other treas-

But in the text which we are to consider we are confined to two ideas; What is the Kingdom, as here illustrated? And, What the success of this Kingdom? In reference to this Kingdom there have of $7,075 Against this we have Mr. the audience. A lunch was served which Baumer's salary allowance $2,500, $1,000 reflected much credit on the ladies in for deputy and, as Mr. Baumer claims, charge. by bringing them into subjugation. And the the Kingdom of heaven to them was a return of this national prosperity. The Messiah which they wished for and expected was he who would lead to earthly conquest and victory.

But, to their disgust, pity and surprise, Christ said, "My Kingdom is not of this world. My Kingdom is a spiritual King-

> What does the text teach us of the growth of Christianity? This leaven is placed into the meal until the whole tianity, and this has not only come from those who are sceptics and intidels but from those who are church nembers and from those who preach the gospel. There is perhaps some reason for these thoughts but the question is, Are they just grounds? We are too apt to look upon the past and think of enjoyable events which transpired and think of the present as a time of hardship and trouble, and this is one of the beneficent arrangements of Providence, but we should not look back at the success of the church during past ages and under-estimate the progress of the church at the present, discourage the followers of God, and please the enemies of God by saying, Christianity is on the de-The many discouragements which the church was compelled to encounter, have been forgotten, and the few small obstacles are looked at with despondency.

Again, if there is not an increase in a certain denomination, that denomination is indeed as the church and the church and the church and the church is indeed as the church is indeed is judged as the church, and the church at large must suffer from these conclusions. It may be the doubter had formerly lived where there was a greater zeal for Christian work, and judges from the sead for the sead of the sead his present associates that the whole church is declining. encouragement and discouragement. When Butler wrete his analogy it was thought that Christianity was almost extinct. And immediately after him comes the Wolfenbuttel Fragments, Voltaire although Voltaire said Christianity would be extinct before the beginning of the Nineteenth century, it continues to triumph yet. In the time of Jonathan Edwards there was also an alarm about the church.

But let us look at a few points to show the increase instead of the decrease of the increase instead of the decrease of Christians. Although this is not a sure judge, there is a great power in the influence of the wood in all parts of the world and which we cannot compute by

When Christ left the earth he left about one hundred and twenty five followers, who were poor, ignorant and descattered and the next century there were over half a million.
