OFFICE: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway. MINOR MENTION.

Buy a revolver of Cooper & McGehee and make it warm for the burglars.

Five more conversions are reported at the revival meetings of the Baptist church.

The whooping cough has sadly decreased the attendance at the Denison schools.

The Methodists are to dedicate a new church in Deafness next Sunday. Rev. Dr. Austin, of Denison, is to preach the dedicatory sermon.

"Pork and beans a la Bostonne" is the way one Council Bluffs restaurant has on the bill of fare. Talk about Boston as putting on literary and linguistic airs!

The Crawford County Fair association elected as its officers for this year, W. A. McHenry, president; S. B. Green, vice president; Henry Schundter, secretary; E. S. Plimpton, treasurer.

C. T. Bowen telegraphs from Boston that two more dynamos will be shipped from there for Council Bluffs next week, so that there is a good prospect for a speedy starting up of more electric lights here.

The gymnasium started under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association, and which is to occupy a hall on the upper floor of Shugart's block, has secured a membership of 133 at $5 a year, and others will doubtless join.

John Evers has contributed to the Home for the Friendless an order for $5 worth of meat, Jacob App 33 in groceries, "a friend" one cord of wood, Mrs. J. T. Stewart an elegant bedstead and springs, "a friend," two new suits of clothing.

Rev. J. G. Lemen will deliver at Glenwood to-night his first lecture of the same series which he delivered in this city with so much effect, and which excited so much interest here. The Glenwood people will doubtless find in these lectures much to interest and much to instruct. The series is to close with a lecture on Poe, a lecture which he has delivered at several places with great success.

The Y. M. C. A. has made arrangements for a reception for their new general secretary, Harry Curtis, which is expected to arrive next Saturday. The reception is to be held at the Ogdon house parlors next Tuesday evening and it is expected that the occasion will be in keeping with the general feeling of welcome to so worthy a man, coming here to take so important a position.

As soon as the fire alarm was sounded yesterday morning the pumping works were notified by telephone, and at once there was 110 pounds of pressure put on the mains. The hose carts turned out pretty lively, too, it being less than four minutes from the sounding of the alarm to the time when all was in readiness to put a stream on the fire. It begins to look as if the city was getting in pretty good shape for fires. Some new hose and a new fire alarm system would help out, though.

A man giving his name as Sullivan, and also known as Haley, was before the superior court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had been out to a dance and seeing the lights, until it was too late for him to go to bed, so he wanted to occupy a chair by the Pacific house heater until daylight came. Officer Hayes arrested him, and gave him lodging in jail, but he begged off in court yesterday. He hails from Neola, and says his business is that of a traveling tinker.

John Green, of Weston, was called into court yesterday for cruelty to animals. He left a horse standing all night exposed to the cold while he took in the town. The horse was taken up yesterday morning and placed in the Ogdon house stable and the proprietor notified that when the owner claimed the animal to send him down to interview City Marshal Jackson. The interview resulted in his being brought before the bar. His bill at court was $6.85, and Green will probably be more careful hereafter.

This evening there is to be a concert and ball at Dohany's hall, for the benefit of John Brown, who was injured at the Masonic temple. The cause is a most worthy one, the man being almost a stranger here, and having a family on his hands, who need the support which he had not been for his unfortunate fall. The tickets are only fifty cents, and the entertainment to be given by the Mannerher and Turn Verein will fully merit the required expenditure of time and money, while the proceeds devoted to such a charitable cause will do great good at the same time.

Yesterday morning's dummy train brought over from Omaha a number of grumbling passenger, who shivered and shook with the cold, and between chattering teeth gave vent to unholy expressions in regard to a corporation which would not provide fires to heat the passenger cars. There have been many of these complaints of late, and cold cars are in keeping with the policy of a company which keeps its depot doors locked, and passengers waiting on the freezing platform. The U. P. has long since shown that it cares nothing for the comfort or convenience of passengers between the two cities.

The numerous burglaries remind us that our doors and windows should be more securely fastened. Cooper & McGehee have the necessary implements. Call on them at 41 Main street.

LEAVES FROM THE RED OAK. Fire Destroys a Handsome Residence - A Lively Altercation Between Newspaper Men.

RED OAK, January 23.-The C. B. & Q. have fitted up one of the neatest and most inviting little hostleries in the state, called the Depot hotel, and have transferred the dining car cook and crew to it, and if your highness or the friends of your highness should come this way and wish to indulge yourselves in the luxury of a square, clean meal, give them a call.

At six o'clock this morning the "fire whistle" startled the drowsy denizens of the town, and the cry of fire rang out on the frosty air. It was found that the residence of Harrison Silcott was in flames, caused by the breaking of a coal oil lamp. He lost his house and contents, and came near losing his life. The lamp held nearly a quart of oil, and was accidentally knocked over. The oil ran out on the floor in a blaze. He made the mistake of throwing on it a bucket of water, which only spread the oil and the flames. When will people learn that water on blazing oil only adds fuel to the flame?

By the way, this fire was the cause of a joke on company, No. 2. Said No. 2 prides itself upon being the crack company. When the alarm was given they sprang from their beds and started to the fire. On their way they fell in with No. 1's hose cart, and thinking that their own cart was ahead they took hold and helped No. 1. When they reached the fire, lo and behold, No. 2's cart was in the engine house, and they had to "heel it" back for their cart. All that one has to do to get up a first-class row of fire is to ask a member of No. 2 when he joined No. 1.

Court is in session and as a result the granger element is largely represented in town.

We came near having a "bloody" row last week between two of our representatives of the "glorious" press, Dr. Sperry of The Telephone, and Snyder of The Express. Sperry put in his list of subscribers (sworn to of course) and Snyder put in his, and The Telephone outnumbered The Express by a few copies. When the said Snyder intimated that the editor of The Telephone had an elastic oath that could be stretched quite a number of copies. Thereupon The Telephone editor went in a la Sullivan, but the board of supervisors interfered and prevented bloodshed.

The health of the county is such as to discourage the doctors, and the expression is patent with them that it is "demonition" healthy.

The Bridge Bill. The full text of the bill introduced by Congressman Pusey, providing for a wagon and railroad bridge over the Missouri, joining Council Bluffs and Omaha, was given in yesterday's Bee as a matter of news, without note or comment. The Nonpareil, which has always echoed merely the wish of the Union Pacific, and which may therefore be judged as doing so now, fairly howls till the veins stand out as far as they can seeing that a brass collar surrounds its neck. It speaks of "Bill" Pusey, and avows that, "If this boastful anti-monopolist is really the author of this measure, or if he really favors it in its present form, or in any other form, then he is no friend of Council Bluffs. A congressman from Council Bluffs who would favor that scheme at this time, is no friend of Iowa, and really the worst enemy the city ever had or could have. If this city was ever more basely betrayed in all its past history, we have no knowledge of either the betrayer or the time when such betrayal occurred."

This outburst may be because among the names of the incorporators appear some which have the same effect on John Chapman that a red rag does on a bull. The fact is that there is a diversity of opinion on the bridge question in Council Bluffs. Some are opposed to any kind of a bridge. Others want a wagon bridge, but do not want any railway attachment. Others want a combined bridge if the railway part can be properly controlled. Each of these have respectable support, and the holders of these various opinions are certainly entitled to as much respect as is a man in whose hands chance has placed a lead pencil, and who has been provided with a station in a printing office. The bridge question is too important a one to be greeted by a mere hand. It is entitled to careful, earnest thought, and open, frank discussion.

It will be remembered that, two years ago, this matter came up and was considered by a committee chosen from each city. The Omaha members of this committee wanted a railway and wagon bridge. The Council Bluffs members wanted only a wagon bridge, and saw in the railway part of the plan a scheme to help Omaha and injure Council Bluffs. The Omaha gentlemen then agreed to unite in trying to get a wagon bridge, without any railway part. Then the Council Bluffs members of the committee were divided in opinion, some of them going in for a railway and wagon bridge. The Omaha men became disgusted with the fickleness shown, and refused to join in the railway part, sticking to the agreement for a wagon bridge only, and a bill was accordingly prepared, and in due time was lost sight of.

Such is the history of the case, showing the variance of opinions in Council Bluffs. The bill is to be passed in a day, nor the bridge built in a week, and hence there is time for careful consideration, and a free discussion, and no need, whatever, for the U. P. organ to howl so lustily at the mere suggestion of a combined bridge.

We still have a few choice heating stoves which we are closing out at a great sacrifice. Cooper & McGehee, 41 Main street.

MORE BURGLARIES. The Officers Still on the Hunt and No Arrest.

A Residence and a Grocery Store Visited.

The latest reported case of burglary is that of Dr. Lawrence's house. The thief failed to procure any plunder, but it is only to be wished that the police would show one-half the diligence in hunting for burglars that the burglars do for plunder. This fellow gained an entrance to the house by climbing up onto the roof of the kitchen, and from there reaching a second story window. After ransacking the upper part of the house, he came down stairs, and was in Mrs. Lawrence's sleeping room. The doctor was away from home, and Mrs. Lawrence awakening was naturally startled, and as she started up to strike a light, the burglar whispered, "Don't you dare to strike a match." He then cautioned her not to make a noise, but she sprang to the window, raised it, and yelled. The fellow hurriedly left the room, and after trying the front exit, and not being able to get out that way, rushed back to the rear of the house and slipped out.

AFTER GROCERIES. An attempt was also made to get away with plunder from Malby's grocery store. The clerk, named Frank Rudolph, came to the store very early to start up the fire before going to breakfast. He heard a noise in the store, and soon a fellow slipped out of the rear, a sound of smashing glass accompanying his hasty exit. It appears that the burglar had broken out a pane of glass in the rear of the store, and thus gained an entrance, and was just at work at the till when the arrival of the clerk frightened him. In his hurried exit he found the opening he had made in entering a little to small for the occasion, and so hastily smashed out the other pane, thus making plenty of room for a hurried getting out. He made good his escape.

SNEAK THIEVES. They continue to do more or less work. Two colored fellows entered Davidson's store, and while one walked backward and forward the other engaged the attention of the lady clerk, the only clerk in the store at the time, the darkey pretending that he wanted to buy a pair of stockings. After the two had gone out a piece of dress goods, which had been lying on the counter had disappeared.

S. A. Piero was the loser of a pair of shoes from his store on Main street, the same game being worked there by two men who answer the description of those who were at Davidson's.
