

THE DAILY BEE.

OMAHA.

Saturday Morning, Feb. 2.

The Weather.

For the upper Mississippi: Fair and generally colder, winds shifting northwesterly and rising barometer.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Travel is slowly but surely picking up these days. A new baggage car, No. 314, went out on the Lincoln train yesterday.

A quantity of ivory bullion went east by express yesterday afternoon.

The Missouri Pacific brings in ten cars of grain daily for shipment to Chicago and points east.

A new ten-wheel engine, of the Taunton make, was received by the Union Pacific folks yesterday.

The Denver train from the west on the Union Pacific, was two hours late in reaching this city yesterday morning.

Eleven car loads of fat sheep passed through this city yesterday en route to Chicago, go. They were all fed in Nebraska.

A stranger from Chicago claims to have been robbed of a gold watch, ring and $74 on Tenth street, night before last.

Rev. A. F. Sherrill will address the Union Sunday school, at Saratoga, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All are invited.

One distributor of the peace was fined $5 and costs in police court yesterday morning and sent upon the hill to board it out.

Another evidence of spring, The Paxton hotel people have taken down their storm doors on the north side of the house.

A fine looking youth was found so drunk by a policeman, yesterday afternoon, that a wagon had to be used to take him to the city jail.

It is a great small which comes up through the sewer grates in various parts of the city. Something must have crawled into the sewer and died.

Martin Francis was before Judge Bencke yesterday charged with abusing his wife. The judge thinks Francis' brain is diseased, and his case was continued until an examination can be made.

Contractor Kyrer came in from the west on Wednesday, bringing with him his horses and grading tools. His place now resembles an emigrant camp.

There was every appearance of spring yesterday. The fruit stands were all moved out upon the sidewalks, the store doors were open and people were wandering around without their overcoats.

The Denver section of No. 4, on the Union Pacific, came in on time yesterday afternoon. The Ogden section was laid up in a snow bank west of Cheyenne, and was several hours late in reaching this city.

There was prospect of a fire at the Eastern hotel on Tenth street yesterday morning. A bed and bedding took fire but was pitched into the street by the boarders before any serious damage was done. No alarm was turned in.

One of the finest coaches in use in this country is now run upon the Union Pacific Lincoln train. It is the old directors car, No. 20, and it has been remodeled and turned into a passenger coach. It is a veritable dandy.

Col. Wolfe, the directory man, estimates the population of Omaha, at over 61,000, basing his calculations upon the number of names in his new book, which is 20,150. Three persons to each name is the recognized proportion.

An alarm of fire was sent into engine house No. 3, last evening at about 8 o'clock, but it was a false alarm.

The roller skating rink at the Bluffs, was formally opened last evening. A party of about 60 Omahans, accompanied by the U. P. band, visited the sister city and showed the denizens of that metropolis how they could skate. They returned about 12 o'clock.

The ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union gave a very pleasant social in the M. C. A. rooms yesterday evening. A very nice program, which consisted of music and recitations, was rendered. Refreshments were served in the usual queenly style.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Linderman, of Saratoga, lost their little son on Wednesday last, by croup. The funeral occurred on Thursday. This is the second child which they have lost within a year, and they have the sympathy of the entire community in their affliction.

A weak ago yesterday, Mr. Dan Hurley, porter at the Paxton house, received a severe injury by lifting a heavy piece of baggage, and has been ever since confined to bed, not even being able to stand a removal to his home. His condition is regarded as very critical.

Bill Anderson was arrested Thursday for stealing a coat and fur cap. He was only released from jail Thursday morning after having served a twenty-five days term for stealing silvers. If convicted of this crime he will be sentenced to thirty days on bread and water, and very thin water, too.

The Swedish Evangelical Mission congregation, who hold their services at the corner of Seventh and Burt streets, is rapidly increasing in numbers. A gospel meeting was held Thursday, at which six young men occupied fifteen minutes each in speaking. These meetings are held every Thursday evening and everybody is invited to attend.

To-day is the day set apart for the appearance of the ground hog. Let us all hope and pray that it may not be as bright and sunny as yesterday was, for in case it is the knowing animal will once more enter the bowels of the earth, there to remain for another six weeks.

The practice of leaving horses standing unsheltered on the streets is too common, and results in a great many runaways, as horses will not stand long in cold weather, but want to get home. This habit caused a lively runaway Thursday, a farmer's team running away on Fourteenth street and down Douglas. One of the horses fell down near Thirteenth street, and the team was secured by Captain Donahue.

Miss Cora Ames, who was injured in the wreck upon the Republican Valley road a few weeks since, and who has since been stopping at the Millard hotel, departed for her home in Nebraska, Ill., Thursday. Her father and a nurse have been stopping at the hotel with her. The railroad company paid all expenses, and made satisfactory settlement. They also furnished a special car to carry Mr. Ames and his daughter home.

THE POOR FARM.

A Reporter's Visit to That Place and What He Saw There.

How It is Conducted and Other Facts of Interest.

The Mortgage to be Cancelled Within Two Years.

The divine word which says, "The poor you have with you always," is faithfully verified in the case of Mr. L. N. Pierce, superintendent of the Douglas county poor farm. A Bee reporter assigned to him his desire to visit this institution, and was taken out by Mr. Pierce on Monday afternoon last. The poor farm, as almost every one knows, is located on the western boundary of the city limits, nearly a mile south of Farnam street extended. There are 160 acres, the one-quarter of a section, in the farm, which has been used for the present purpose since 1859.

The house, which is a large brick one, was erected in 1870 in a T shape, the lower story of the front being used by Mr. Pierce and his family for their dwelling. The external appearance of this charitable hostelry are those of some sturdy old farmer who located upon the land in early territorial days, and having been favored with prosperous times, had arranged his worldly affairs with a view of spending a "green old age." Beautiful maples of eight or ten years growth surround the building. The house is of the most convenient kind for the purpose for which it was built, being divided into wards and compartments suitable for an institution of this kind.

There are now sixty persons in it, who subsist upon public charity, about twenty of whom have been returned from the state asylum for the insane as being incurable. In the poor house proper there are four wards, which now are well filled with beds arranged in rows along the sides of the rooms. These wards are well provided with ventilation, and in each one is a large coal stove bountifully supplied with coal. The beds are all single ones, and have plenty of clothing and wire mattresses. At the present time this institution is filled almost to overflowing. There are twenty-five more people, Mr. Pierce says, who ought to be accommodated there who are now living in great wretchedness in different parts of this city, and are being supplied by him as best he can at their homes. After looking through the several wards, the store and supply rooms with their contents, the kitchen and dining-room were visited. These apartments are all in the basement. The store and supply rooms were well filled with beefs, carrots, potatoes and all the products of a fertile and well tilled Nebraska farm.

In the meat room was a supply, which seemed inexhaustible, of the finest salt pork. Their beef is slaughtered whenever wanted, none being salted or put down for future consumption. Mr. Pierce intends to enlarge his accommodations this summer by erecting a frame building for a laundry. This will make the most room of the room now used for washing and ironing purposes. In this place he will put several cots, to be occupied by the refractory insane. The poor here entertained are well provided with clothing, and are kept neat and clean. The general appearance of everyone is that of comfort, the buildings, fences and improvements indicative of thrift and prosperity. Among the paupers one long acquainted in Omaha will see occasionally a familiar face, but generally they are those of strangers. Two or three faces are there which have in former times been seen too often in rum holes and places of dissipation, whose possessors have brought themselves to their present condition by over-indulgence in the cup which inebriates. It is a curious fact not one of the institutions of this kind, but of other places of refuge, properly conducted, that the inmates when once acquainted with their surroundings seldom desire to leave. They seem to have determined abandon entirely their civil life.

Mr. Pierce says it is with difficulty that his guests are constrained to return to their homes or friends. On the farm there are now twenty-five head of cattle. Mr. Pierce of late has been turning his attention to raising Alderneys, but so far his venture has proved a failure. Mr. Pierce has also between forty and fifty heads of the finest quality of the Berkshire breed. The work on the farm is done by two of his fine spans of mules as can be found in Douglas county. Besides the help of the inmates, only one man is necessary to do the work of the farm. For about a year it has been the opinion of the public generally that the decision of the supreme court of the United States by declaring Henry Z. Chapman's claim against Douglas county, a good one, and a lien on the poor farm, had created a debt of upwards of $30,000. Upon inquiry of Gen. Cowin, the county attorney, it was learned that the principal and interest of this debt up to March 1, 1884, amount to only $11,000. Arrangement have been made by which the county has as much time to pay it as may be necessary by the usual method of the levy and collection of taxes for the county, general fund, but it is the intention of the commissioners to cancel this obligation within the next two years.

Taking the county farm and poor house as a whole, they are an ornament to Douglas county and furnish a most comfortable place where the indigent and unfortunate find a place of refuge when disease, misfortune or old age renders them unable to procure the necessities of life.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

I. O. G. T.

It Gives a Supper and Entertainment.

Omaha Lodge, No. 141, of I. O. G. T. gave an entertainment and supper in their hall, at No. 1312 Douglas street, last evening. There were none present but members. A literary programme of recitations, speeches and pantomimes was especially entertaining. The festive board, laden with the good things of earth, was surrounded by these young people who partook of the excellent supper. The officers for the ensuing quarter were also installed. This lodge was formed in 1878, and has now nearly 90 enrolled members. This institution is a work of help and encouragement, and it is to be hoped in the near future its membership may be largely increased and success crown its efforts.

CANDLEMAS DAY.

How it Operates to the Benefit of One Merchant Only in This City.

To-day is what is known among the Roman Catholics as Candlemas day, but among the people of other sects and denominations it is commonly called "ground hog" day. To Catholics the 2nd of February is a festival day, which is celebrated in commemoration of the purification of the Virgin Mary. To-day mass will be held in all Catholic churches, candles will be brought for the priest to bless and be used in their places of worship. Candles to be used for the coming year in the different families in case of dangerous diseases, violent storms or death will be brought to the priest for his blessing and consecration. From the important part which these waxen tapers, or candles, play upon this day it is called Candlemas day. It is the duty of the head of every Catholic family to provide himself with these blessed materials, to be used in case of extreme peril. So far as could be learned, there was but one store in the city yesterday where they were sold. This place of business was thronged all day with purchasers of these articles. Upon inquiry it was learned from the proprietor that he had sold over five hundred pounds of candles yesterday. This article was sold for 60 cents per pound, and it will all be consecrated and blessed to-day.

This day, which has emblematic reference to the prophecy that Jesus should be "the light to lighten the world," is an institution which dates back to the reign of Justinian, A. D. 542. A curious notion is also connected with this day, which is that the American marmot, or ground hog arouses at this time from his hibernated state and leaves his burrow to walk under the sky. If he should see his shadow it is claimed that he goes back into his burrow and remains there for the next six weeks, and that is the length of winter yet to come. This day is also the middle one of winter in this latitude.

THE OMAHA SAFE WORKS.

What Energy and Enterprise Can Accomplish.

The Safe Deposit Vault of the Omaha National Bank--Verdict of Experts.

The High Commendation Given by President Millard--Largest Work of the Kind Ever Done West of Cincinnati.

About one year ago the management of the Omaha National bank, after completing their magnificent bank building, concluded to build a fire and burglar proof vault, the same to be of the latest and most approved design of our modern times.

In consequence the president of the bank invited eastern as well as western manufacturers to compete for said labor, in which the sum of over fifteen thousand dollars was involved.

The smallest bidders of all were our home manufacturers, Messrs. Andreen & Vallien, proprietors of the Omaha Safe Works, whose history is well known to every leading business house in this state.

The time that the contract was awarded to the firm, the larger eastern houses raised a grand kick, and circulated the report that such work, and at such price, to perform in Omaha, would be an impossibility; but Andreen & Vallien were equal to the emergency, for they well knew their own mechanical skill.

Below the readers of THE BEE will find proof that Andreen & Vallien have, with the aid of an expert, Mr. W. B. Avery, of Chicago (who drew the plans), completed one of the largest fire and burglar-proof vaults ever constructed by any firm west of Cincinnati. Mr. J. C. Harris, the expert from Chicago, who put in the automatic lock, gave the following verdict:

"It is as fine as any that can be built in the United States. Andreen & Vallien have done honest work, and I can't understand why Omaha business men will go away several hundred miles for work of this kind, when they can get better at home. Why, this is one of the finest and most approved vaults constructed in our modern times, for safety and security."

A reporter of THE BEE, who called yesterday at the Omaha Safe works, was handed the following letter, which is sufficient proof in what esteem the firm is held by the president of the bank, Mr. J. C. Millard:

OMAHA NATIONAL BANK, Omaha, 29th January, 1884. Messrs. Andreen & Vallien have constructed the safe deposit vaults for the Omaha National bank, which we consider one of the best pieces of burglar-proof work in the United States.

The entire job was done at the Omaha Safe company's shops of Andreen & Vallien in this city, where we had opportunities of seeing the work as it progressed, under the supervision of Mr. W. B. Avery, an expert from Chicago, who had many years of experience in superintending the construction of fire and burglar-proof safes and vaults, and he unhesitatingly states to us that the material and labor were equal in all respects to any, if not the best, he had ever seen. One vault is now open for the inspection of the public. Further, we take great pleasure in commending the Omaha Safe company to all who desire fine burglar-proof work or any other work. [Signed] J. C. MILLARD, President.

The company's works, which are located at the southwest corner of Fourteenth and Jackson streets, is by no means a small concern, as they give employment to over twenty-five skilled mechanics.

The construction of the bank vault was the largest job ever received by the firm, and it required over thirty tons of the finest Chrom steel for its completion, but think of the glory for the firm who could rival the leading safe manufacturers of the country.

Besides this fine job, the firm have furnished safes and vaults for nearly all the leading banks and county seats in the state, prominent among which are the Nebraska National bank and the First National bank, of Grand Island, and the City of Omaha vault, the latter two now being in course of completion at their shops.

Beside this the firm manufactures iron shutters, vault doors, jail work, iron fencing and wire work of the latest and most approved patterns.

The firm has been established in this city but a few years, in which time they have built up a fine reputation and a large trade at the same time. They have made from year to year large additions in machinery, this year having added over $3,000.

Knowing the energy, skill and enterprise of Andreen and Vallien, we can but recommend them to all.

"Meno sana in corpore sano." "A sound mind in a sound body" is the trade mark of Allen's Brain Food, and we assure our readers that, if dissatisfied with either weakness or Brain or bodily powers, this remedy will permanently strengthen both. $1.—At drug stores.

AMUSEMENTS.

Bartley Campbell's Play "Siberia" at the Opera House Last Night.

Seldom is it that so large an audience is gathered within the walls of Boyd's opera house as was assembled there last night to witness the first production in this city of Bartley Campbell's great play "Siberia." Before 8 o'clock every seat in the house was sold, and a large number of tickets were sold after the announcement of standing room only.

The play is a work of six acts, each of which is as picturesque as a landscape drawing. Few playwrights have shown so much versatility of conception as Mr. Campbell, and few for that same reason have been so successful. He brings us in close contact with a new order of things and introduces us to an unfamiliar type of creation in each of his plays, and yet so far as we are able to judge, by the light of history and tradition, each is accurate to the original. "Siberia" is a story of nihilism in Russia, which finds its sequel on the icy fields of the lands for which the drama is named. But the scenes of interest concern the torture of the Jews. The play transports us in its first scenes to the vicinity of Moscow, where the Jew-baiting is moving society to its very center. Without the slightest provocation these people are afflicted with an opportunity for defense, and the mob, infuriated and encouraged by the officials, are satisfied only when bloodshed has sapped the life from the unfortunate victims and fire has destroyed their habitations. The play is invested with a tale of love, so strong that he who loves casts off the liberty which he possessed, and follows as a prisoner his life's choice to the wilds of Siberia when she is banished to that inhospitable land. The cast is exceedingly numerous, and the play demands much fine and forcible acting. The company in whose hands it is at present reposed supplies every desirable want. The part of "Nicolai Naigoff" is splendidly impersonated by Mr. Atkins Lawrence. Mr. Hardie Vernon is acceptable as "Ivan Nordoff," and the acting of Mr. Charles B. White as "Michael Sparta" is excellent. Misses Emma Vaders and Adele Belgrade impersonate the characters of "Marta" and "Sara," respectively, two half Jewish maidens on whom much of the interest of the play centers. Both ladies do conscientious and efficient acting, as they always do, and maintain in these, the absorbing characters of the play, an unflinching interest. Miss Frankie McClellan plays the part of "Vera," a flower girl, with much spirit. The performance of Mr. Charles Pettis and Miss Allice Coleman, who represent the master and daughter of the Imperial Band, on the corner, elicited unbounded applause, and were decidedly meritorious.

A great feature of "Siberia" is its superb scenery. In each act, with the exception of the first and second, the scenery is changed, and especially in the last scene, when the harbor of Odessa is presented, worthy of praise.

A horse and sleigh is introduced in the fifth act, much to the amusement of the little folks.

As the curtain dropped at the close of each act, the applause was fairly deafening, and the audience, particularly the gallery portion, yelled until their throats were hoarse.

Mr. George Dodge speaks. This gentleman lives in Emporium, Pa., and says, "My men, John Lewis, while working in a coal mine in Pennsylvania, had been badly hurt by a falling log. I used Thomas' Electric Oil and was ready for work the next morning. I have never yet seen so good a medicine."

DISAPPEARED.

Mr. Boyd, an Old Omaha Man, Has Been Missing for Nearly Three Weeks.

The sudden and mysterious disappearance of William Boyd, a former well-known resident of Omaha, was last night made the subject of a great deal of comment. Mr. Boyd had been at work last fall and part of the winter on a bridge contract in Knox county, this state. He completed his contract, paid off all his men, and on the 10th of January started from Creighton, Knox county, for his home in Ashland. Before starting he expressed considerable anxiety about his family, which he seemed very desirous of seeing. He came to Omaha and fell in with some of his acquaintances, and remained in a partially inebriated condition during the whole time he was seen here. He had then left the upper country nearly $100, a gold watch and other valuables. The last seen of him in this city was two weeks ago last Sunday in a popular drinking resort on Tenth street. His wife becoming alarmed by his prolonged absence from home wrote to the city authorities about him, but he could not be found. Since then he has been seen in Lincoln, and he is reported to have visited Sioux City, but this report has not been confirmed. A relative of Mrs. Boyd wrote to her on Thursday last telling her not to despair, as her husband would be found soon. Thinking he was in Omaha, Mrs. Boyd came to this city. The police were ordered to search every resort where he might be concealed, but up to late last night no recent trace of him was found.

GOING AT IT.

The Stock Yards Company Making Preparations for the Erection of Slaughter Houses.

The new stock yards company are already making preparations for building of slaughter houses on their land south of the city.

A party of the directors went out to the grounds yesterday with the intention of selecting the place upon which the houses will be built, and then operations will be begun just as soon as possible. The lumber has already been bought, and large contracts have been made with eastern parties to furnish meat. The ice houses have been built, and soon a busy scene will present itself upon the land owned by the company.
