

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

The handsome dollar in the world's which is earned by some good, honest employment of the head or hand. Wealth that comes by chance is no measure of the capacity of its possessor, and is never appreciated like that which is earned. Many people are traveling straight to the poorhouse by reason of their undue eagerness to go in the opposite direction. They want riches at a bound. They have seen others fill their chests by some lucky employment of the head or hand, and conclude they can do the same thing. Accordingly in their little head, which, ten to one, they never see again.

The petroleum trade has swallowed up the fortunes of thousands of investors—greenhorns who depended for their success upon the showiness of others and got flooded under the glare of the monopolist. There are plenty of safe investments without assuming the awful risks of the gambler—notably among these Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which yields good dividends every time. Especially to those suffering from nasal and throat affections, rheumatism, neuralgia, wounds and lameness, we strongly recommend it. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will cure any one of these troubles, and is sold by druggists everywhere under a guarantee to give satisfaction. Would walk ten miles for it: S. S. Groves, Akron, N. When you come to think of it, it is not odd that literary people prefer a pipe to a cigar. It is handier to smoke when they are writing, and over so much cigarettes every day. And then it gives them the true essence and flavor of the tobacco. The most fastidious smokers among all nations and all classes of men agree that the tobacco grown on the Golden Tobacco Belt of North Carolina is the most delicious and refined in the world. Lighter than Turkish, more fragrant than Havana, freer from nitrate and nicotine than any other, it is just what the connoisseur desires and the healthful smoker demands. The very choicest tobacco grown in this country is sold by Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co., and appears in their celebrated Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco. It is sold in the world over, and is the only tobacco that will stand the test of time. It is the only tobacco that is absolutely pure tobacco.

Clara Belle writes: Out-door wraps were never more varied in cut or material. The general characteristic of other than fur garments is shortness behind and length in front. Some of them come down no further than the waist line at the back, while reaching to the very feet with lab-lab extensions in front. They suggest a man's swallow tail coat put on hind end in front. Elegant they are as one's purse can buy; and at the same time a considerable of a show can be made with a moderate expenditure if shrewd taste be employed. Oddity of shape will often help cheap stuff to a fair degree of distinction. The new jackets are frequently very jaunty. They are made of heavy Indian cloth in many shades of brown and dull red, trimmed with bands of Astrakhan of a deeper hue. Jerseys of very heavy wool are trimmed with long-haired furs, so that they have none of the light, night-shirt look of the original, and thus metamorphosed are pretty on a good figure. Regular stockinet Jersey cloth is worn on the street, but the effect for cold weather is all wrong. The trimmings being lavish and warm-looking. A novel opera wrap is the Chinese cloak, and it may be worn by daylight for crag-ue use in making calls. It is made of cream-white Chinese silk, with hand-embroidered hedge roses all over the soft ground. Inside, the lining is pale plush the shade of the flowers. The length is ample for enclosing the entire figure, and the full Chinese sleeves make it easy to get into and out of. The lightness of color is palliated by the size and softness, which combine to render the wearer warm in appearance. This being the time of wraps, it is also one of much uncertainty as to the figures which they envelop. When a bulky woman is seen on the street with an exterior of irregular folds and draperies the observer can't tell how much of it is her own and how much garniture. It may be a slender woman with a great deal of garment, or a plump one with only a thin simulation of heavy covering. It is now, more than at any season of the year, possible to graduate one's outfit. Just how thick a woman ought to be in proportion to her length. Of course a very young girl may occasionally exceed in trim, but I think I have been about right in making up the following table.

Gentle Women Who want glossy, luxuriant and wavy tresses of abundant, beautiful Hair must use LYON'S KATHARON. This elegant, cheap article always makes the Hair grow freely and fast, keeps it from falling out, arrests and cures grayness, removes dandruff and itching, makes the Hair strong, giving it a curling tendency and keeping it in a wavy position. Beautiful, healthy Hair is the sure result of using Katharon.

CHAT AMONG THE GEYSERS.

Miss Blackburn Enthusiastic Over Her Yellowstone Play.

Busily Employed Directing the Scenes Work on the Cosmopolitan Stage—How the Effects Will be Produced.

N. Y. Journal.

A scene on the stage in the Cosmopolitan Theatre yesterday afternoon was one formed of a confusion of daubed scenery, ropes, pulleys, carpenters, painters and a handsome young lady.

"Miss Blackburn?" "That is my name, sir. Yes, I am the lessee of this theatre and hope to produce on Monday evening a grand spectacular drama entitled 'On the Yellowstone.' We will endeavor to reproduce the geysers and canyon falls and represent as nearly as possible the beautiful Yellowstone Valley."

Miss Blackburn is a tall daughter of California, with dark complexion and red cheeks and the general air of self-possession born to girls of that climate. She was attired in quiet cashmere dress and sash. On her head was a jaunty broad-brimmed black hat trimmed with a long ostrich plume surrounding the brim and drooping down the back, and from between the plumes a roguish cluster of curly brown bangs.

"How do you expect to produce the geysers?" was asked of the fair lessee as she chatted away lightheartedly about the prospects of her play. "We've got some pulverized fish-scales to shoot out of a funnel," broke in the gruff voice of one of the untidy gentlemen who wielded a stick of briars.

"Nonsense," said Miss Blackburn, stamping her slender foot upon the floor. "We have a quantity of what is called snow powder. It is pulverized mica and will be pured into a funnel in the floor of the stage and forced into the air by a tank of compressed air from beneath. When the calcium lights are thrown on this white fountain, the effect will be very real and, I think, pretty."

"Dye some washing machine over there," again interrupted the gruff voice. "That big thing with the crank handles, I mean. That is to be the great 'Old Faithful' waterfall."

Mr. Deverna, one of the scenic artists, was subjected by a good-natured retort from his fair overseer, and she continued that the falls would be represented by a revolving scene. The water effect will all be produced by the action of lights on the wooden wheels, and the foam at the base of the fall will be created by an explosion of steam that will shoot up through jets in the floor.

"The whole stage is a net work of rubber hose for conducting the steam," continued Miss Blackburn. "The falls will be continued across the stage and an upper fall will be realistically produced at the rear of the large one, so that if you had ever visited the Yellowstone, I can tell you when you witness our production of the piece of scenery you would give it credit at least for its novelty, if not for realism. We have been at great expense for several weeks to elaborate this play, and the spectacle, aside from the play, which is an excellent one, will be something new to New York."

"How did you come to go into the theatrical business, Miss Blackburn?" "Did you ever hear of Judge Blackburn, of San Francisco? He was my father, and when he died I was thrown upon my own resources and went upon the stage. I have appeared as Rosalind, Leah, and such characters. This play was written by Mr. Daggett, of the Virginia City Enterprise, who was one of a party of us on a tour through the western scenic regions."

"Suppose 'On the Yellowstone' proves unpopular, what will you do then?" "Oh, I have no fear of that. When once it has a start I think it will win favor. Besides I have lots of money and I shall get up another spectacular drama which will have for its chief feature an exhibition of the wonderful German miasma."

"On the Yellowstone" is founded on fact, the character of Nancy Jane Higgins, taken by Miss Blackburn, being the heroine. The capture by Indians of Mrs. Kelly—who now holds a life position in Washington—and her thrilling adventures are the principal events that will be portrayed. The heroine becoming infatuated with the husband of the person who impersonates Mrs. Kelly, saves him from death in going over the falls, and returning his wife to him.

"Where are you from?" "I live near Bala. Where do you hail from?" "I'm a pretty near neighbor of yours; I live near Kewanna."

"Farming?" "Yes, I am." "Yes, farming and stock." "Been to town with stock?" "Yes; brought up a hundred head of steers."

"I brought home." "An' do the conversation ran on until just before the train reached Mendota, and the two old farmers were right well acquainted. Presently another man who looked like a merchant came in and was surprised to see one of the old farmers."

"Well, well, well," said the new man. "I'm glad to see you; maybe you can help me out of a little embarrassing trouble. I want to pay a man a little bill on the train but I get out at Mendota, and I haven't money enough. If you'll let me have $100 on my check I'll be very much obliged."

"Certainly, I'm glad to do it," and out came the farmer's pocketbook. But, alas, he only had $40 in small bills and a beautiful crisp $50 bill.

"You're perfectly welcome to the $40 if that'll help you out, or to the $500 bill if you can get it broke."

"Certainly, your friend can help us out; the $40 will hardly answer," said the merchant, and then he apologized for making so much trouble.

"Well," softly said the other farmer, who until now had been silently looking on. "I can't change a $500 bill, but I can give you another one for it, and I think it came out of the same batch, and was printed on the same press."

THE IOWA LEGISLATURE.

THE STRUGGLE OVER A LIQUOR LAW IN THE SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 15.—In the house today Hon. L. G. Heryay, the newly elected member from Delaware, was sworn in and took his seat. Numerous petitions were presented asking for a permanent location of the supreme court at Des Moines; that no laws be passed to discriminate against magisterial holders; for reformatory prisons for fallen women; for abolition of the independent school district system. Bills were introduced to provide for the addition of one company to the Iowa National guard; for relief of Dubuque county in relation to the school fund; requiring railroads to provide for additional hospital for the insane; to prevent injury and loss of life by employees of railroad companies and others; to amend the law in relation to transportation of passengers on railroads. Bills were passed to extend the close season for killing prairie chickens to September 1st; to legalize the incorporation of the town of Belmont; to legalize the incorporation of the town of Murray; to amend the law in relation to bonding county indebtedness.

In the senate the entire day was consumed in the consideration of Donnan's temperance bill. Clark proposed a substitute as follows: That no person shall manufacture for sale or keep for sale (or sell or keep for sale) as a beverage, alcohol, ale, wine, beer or any spirituous, vinous or malt liquor, or any intoxicating liquor, or any intoxicating liquors occur in the code or statutes of the state the same shall be construed to mean alcohol, ale, wine, beer and all spirituous, vinous or malt liquors and all liquors whatever that are intoxicating, and all penalties, prohibitions and provisions of the law relating to the manufacture or sale or keeping for sale or keeping with intent to sell of intoxicating liquors shall be held and construed to apply to the manufacture, sale or keeping for sale of alcohol, ale, wine, beer, all spirituous, vinous and malt liquors and all liquors whatever that are intoxicating.

Section 2. That section 1555 of the code be and the same is hereby repealed. Opponents of the measure endeavored to have the substitute referred to a committee. Debate on the amendment was participated in by Bills, Hall, Russell and Bloom in favor and Sutton, Clark, Eastman, Donan and Wilkin against. Failing in having the substitute committed the opponents of the measure adopted dilatory tactics and adjourned till to-morrow without reaching a vote.

Fourteen Horses Burned to Death. CORNELLVILLE, Iowa, February 14, 1884.—This town was the scene of another fire last night. At 12:30 we were startled by the cry of fire, and it was then discovered that the Libson Barn of W. S. Greig was on fire. Barn was operated by S. Linn who had fifteen horses of his own in it and four boarding and two transient, making twentyone in all. The fire evident started in the hay-mow and the roof was all ablaze when first seen—six horses were taken out and the seventh ran out himself, but was badly burned while fourteen were burned to death with all the equipments of the livery. Losses are as below:

S. Linn, $2000, insurance $1400; Dr. Watson, pair fine stallions, $1500 insurance $1000; J. Danmore, team, $300, insurance none; Transients two, $150, G.

CRIME AND CRIMINALS.

A FIGHT WITH COWBOYS. DEADWOOD, Dak., February 15.—Information was received here a few days ago that an attempt would be made by cowboys to rescue Jesse Pruden, arrested for horsestealing at Miles City, Montana and enroute for Deadwood. A posse left Spearfish to assault the officer and arriving at Stoneville, 75 miles north of Deadwood, yesterday the posse was attacked by cowboys and one man named O'Hara, killed and three wounded. One cowboy named Cunningham was killed, another name unknown, wounded and captured. The cowboys then fled. A party is now organizing at Spearfish to pursue the outlaws.

FRANK JAMES GROWS BOLDER. HUNTSVILLE, Ala., February 15.—Frank James' arrival is the general topic of discussion. Many applications to see him in the jail were refused by the authorities. James says he will meet every case against him, having disposed of seven of the eleven indictments started out with.

A MURDER MYSTERY CLEARER. WORTHINGTON, Minn. Feb. 15.—The mystery surrounding the death of Martin Riley, a farmer near Adams, whose dead body was found in a hay stack February 1st, has been cleared by the confession of Riley's 23 year old daughter, who declares William, 16 years old, son of the deceased, committed the crime in retaliation for punishment inflicted by his father. The boy has fled.

FIRING IN A TRAIN. KOSKOV, Ia., February 15.—Train No. 2 of the Chicago, Beck Island and Pacific road was fired into at a point between Belfast and Sandpoint yesterday afternoon, while the train was passing a high bluff. Buckshot was used. One charge struck the baggage car and other charges scattered round the train. No one injured. The train was stopped but the search for the miscreant was without result.

A Sad Case. YORKSHIRE, Ohio, February 15.—Kitty Gilmore, a young lady, was placed in a vault at Warren yesterday, but taken from the vault two hours after by Undertaker Townsend to the house of Dr. Nelson. There still remained a glow on her cheek and a natural expression of the eye. Physicians say she did not die of inflammation of the bowels, but from hyperthermic injections. They are yet divided in opinion as to whether she is alive or dead.

The body was examined at 5 o'clock this afternoon by three physicians, and pronounced dead, and was again placed in the vault. Remembered the Humorists. EAST SAGEHAVEN, Mich., February 15.—The will of Col. Hunt, the millionaire lumberman of Rosconson county, discloses that he has bequeathed $500, to Caroline Brown, mother of Ardenas Ward, and similar amounts to Eli Perkins and Josh Billings. Hunt was a lover of humor and owned an extensive library made up extensively of humorous literature. The Albert Lea Route. CHICAGO, February 15.—The statement is made that the Rock Island road has
